Absolute Power Seized in Austria By Schuschnigg

Workers Will Share in Revised Government, Chancellor Says.

Vienna Heimwehr Corps Is Dissolved

Starhemberg Followers Wait Leader's Word; Nazis Rejoice.

By the United Press.

Vienna, May 15.—Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg tonight formally proclaimed himself absolute dictator of Austria.

The dramatic proclamation climaxed the bloodless coup d'etat by which Schuschnigg sheared Fascist Leader Prince Ernst Rudiger von Starhemberg of all power.

Speaking to the powerful Fatherland Front, of which he assumed complete control, Schuschnigg said dictatorship of Austria henceforth will rest with his own individual personality instead of in the dual system by which he and Starhemberg directed the regime. Starhemberg was ousted Wednesday and dissolution of his troops, the Heimwehr, was begun.

"We are assembled here in an earnest and decisive hour," Schuschnigg said.

"With full consciousness of my responsibility and in memory of the late Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss, I herewith take over national leadership of the Fatherland Front."

Fourth European Dictator.

Thus Schuschnigg, frail, scholarly and devout churchman, became the fourth of Europe's dictators. The others are Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy, Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany, and Josef Stalin of Russia.

Schuschnigg said Starhemberg's Fascist-inclined Heimwehr was being disarmed, presumably to avert civil war in reprisal for the political death of their leader.

The Heimwehr is Starhemberg's private army.

The disarming began almost simultaneously with Schuschnigg's declaration as the cabinet, in a surprise move, dissolved Vienna's "protective corps," an auxiliary police force of 600 picked men consisting mainly of Heimwehr. Its dissolution had been planned originally for May 31.

Only 70 members of the protective corps—the so-called Starhemberg chasseurs, or the prince's private bodyguard—will remain under arms.

Militia to Remain.

Schuschnigg, addressing the Fatherland Front, formerly commanded by Starhemberg, said the only armed force outside of the regular army will be the militia, of which he is commander in chief.

"Rivalries between private armies must end once and for all," he said.

"The regular reserve force will be the militia, and all forces outside of this will not be allowed to be armed."

Schuschnigg indicated that Austria will, to a large extent, abandon the Fascist principles instituted by Starhemberg and give the workers a voice in affairs of the nation.

"We intend to follow a more democratic line and bring the nation's workers into our councils," he said.

"The previous foreign policy of the government will be continued," he added. "Its basis is the Rome protocols (among Italy, Austria and Hungary). We are ready to live in peace and amity with all those who are ready for such co-operation with us."

Schuschnigg's declaration that the Heimwehr will be disarmed was greeted with a tremendous cheer.

"The militia," he said, "will be the executive organ of the Fatherland Front. Its leader will be Vice Chancellor Baar-Baarenfels and it will collaborate with the army."

Meanwhile, Starhemberg is in Rome, ostensibly to participate in sports competition, but actually to consult his Fascist idol, Premier Benito Mussolini.

Heimwehr leaders hope Il Duce will act to save Starhemberg. Any

Soviet Reveals Navy to Equal Nazis', Japan's

Copyright, 1936, by the United Press.

London, May 15.—Soviet Russia broke the secret of just how strong she is afloat by announcing today she was going to match Germany's naval strength in the Baltic and Japan's in the Far East.

A brief note from Soviet Ambassador Ivan Maisky to Sir Robert Vansittart, permanent undersecretary for foreign affairs, cleared away much of the mystery that had surrounded Russia's naval strength.

The Soviet government already is the world's strongest land power, and her new policy will bring her close to the top among the armed nations of the world.

Maisky's note was the latest development in negotiations for a Russo-British naval treaty which is designed to supplement the Franco-British-American pact of March 25. That agreement provides for qualitative limitation—that is, limitation of warships by classes, type-tonnage and gun calibers, but not by total strength.

Reserves Liberty.

In his note Maisky reserved complete liberty for the Soviet to build up its Far Eastern fleet. Limitation of Russia's floating strength in European waters, the note added, will depend on acceptance by Germany of similar restrictions.

Russia officially accepted Great Britain's invitation to negotiate a naval treaty which would include full exchange of advance information concerning a building program. The two important reservations are that Russia must be allowed to match naval strength with Japan and Germany unless they agree to restrictions.

Unless Japan negotiates a treaty with Russia, the Soviet will decline, according to the note, to give advance information on naval building in the Far East.

Listed as Unavailable.

In the British admiralty publication, Fleets, under Soviet Russia appears this notation: "Building—no details available; projected—no program has been issued."

The publication Jane's Fighting Ships, lists for Russia five old battleships, including two built in 1909. The book credits the Soviet with 38 submarines. It has been officially admitted that the total number of submarines is now not less than 60.

The present situation is this:

Britain, France and the United States have negotiated a treaty providing for qualitative restriction. It is contingent on Japan's acceptance or compliance. Britain is seeking, in behalf of itself and other powers, a treaty with Russia. Britain also is seeking a separate treaty with Germany.

Tokyo Troops Enter China; War Feared

Four Transport Loads of Soldiers Are Sent Into 2 Provinces.

Is Believed Step Toward Ultimate Conquest of Nation.

By the Associated Press.

Tientsin, China, May 15.—Japan marched 7,600 fresh troops into North China garrisons and Chinese sources expressed fear tonight it was a step in a campaign for the ultimate conquest of China.

The soldiers, totaling four transport loads of reinforcements, were moved into the Tientsin and Peiping garrisons.

Chinese sources asserted that Japan was encouraged to make the move by Italy's annexation of Ethiopia in defiance of the League of Nations and leading European powers.

Japan now has 15,000 troops in China south of the Great Wall, an estimated 80,000 north of the Great Wall and several thousand at other points of Inner Mongolia.

(A spokesman in Tokyo said the reinforcements would not injure China's sovereignty or the vested interests of other powers.)

Ultimate Occupation.

Informed Chinese sources asserted the troop movements were designed either for the ultimate occupation of north China and Inner Mongolia or for a possible future war with Soviet Russia.

Meanwhile, China, in a formal protest to Tokyo against widespread smuggling in north China, tonight demanded immediate cessation of Japanese interference with the Chinese customs service.

The foreign office also was reported by Chinese sources to have ordered a protest against the increase of Japanese troops in north China.

China's smuggling protest was the second one. It accused the Japanese and north China authorities with open connivance in giving Japanese smuggling goods into the country extra-territorial protection.

A great decrease in China's revenues has resulted from the large-scale smuggling operations, China's first protest officials here said, was ignored by Tokyo.

The protest stated Japanese interference has virtually deprived Hopei Province of all customs.

(An authoritative source in London yesterday said both Great Britain and the United States have made representations to Japan over the smuggling situation in north China, but that Tokyo disclaimed responsibility.)

The principal portion of the new Japanese troops was quartered in barracks of the Japanese concession in Tientsin. Nearly 10,000 troops are stationed there now while the number sent to the ancient capital of Peiping brought the number there to 600.

Chinese said they believed the reinforcements were forerunners of a full Japanese division of 15,000 men.

Japan informed the United States and other foreign embassies only yesterday of the large increases in the garrisons—after the movements were already under way.

Reinforced at 3 Points.

Tokyo (Saturday), May 16 (AP).—Japan has begun her long expected military consolidation of gains achieved in the Peiping and Tientsin areas by reinforcing garrisons at three points.

This was the belief of authorities today after the arrival of new, stronger troops for North China posts at Chinwangtao, Tientsin and Peiping.

The larger forces, a war office spokesman asserted, "will injure neither China's sovereignty nor the vested rights of other powers in that area."

"On the contrary, it will tend to promote peace in North China and favorably adjust the relations of Japan, Manchukuo and China as well as our relations with other nations," the official added.

U. S. Ships at Chefoo.

Chefoo, Shantung Province, China, May 15 (AP).—This normally sleepy China coastal town was galvanized into activity tonight when 13 warships attached to the United States Asiatic fleet dropped their mudhooks into Chefoo Harbor for the annual summer maneuvers.

They came from Manila, after a leisurely cruise en route.

Chefoo is on the north coast of China. It is less than 300 miles across the Gulf of Pe-Chih-Li where several thousand additional Japanese reinforcements were landed today.

SENATOR CHARLES McNARY.

McNary Leads Townsend Plan Backer 4 to 1

Senator Is Far Ahead in Early Oregon Returns; Williams in Front.

By the Associated Press.

Portland, Ore., May 15.—Senator Charles McNary, Republican leader in the upper House of Congress, got away to a flying start tonight in his campaign for renomination when he took more than a 4-to-1 lead over his nearest opponent, the Townsend advocate, Sam Brown.

President Roosevelt and Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, were unopposed as candidates for the Democratic and Republican Presidential nominations.

McNary, seeking renomination on an 18-year record of Congressional service, piled up 3,633 votes in the first 80 precincts out of 1,627 in the State, to 814 for Brown, Gervais farmer and former State Senator.

Williams Ahead.

Building up a strong lead, but not so spectacular as that taken by Senator McNary, was Oregon's Republican national committeeman, Ralph Williams, of Portland, who in the same number of precincts had amassed 2,998 votes against 1,278 for Charles L. Paine, Eugene Townsendite.

Running in third place was Ben Borris, Eugene Legionnaire, with 1,150 votes.

President Roosevelt received a complimentary ballot of 2,552 votes, while Senator Borah received 2,857. Both totals were for 80 precincts.

In the race for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator, an all-Townsend battle, Mayor Willis Mahoney of Klamath Falls built up a slim lead over John A. Jeffrey, Portland lawyer, getting 1,647 votes in 68 precincts against 1,422 for Jeffrey.

Republican registration was 271,145 and the Democratic 198,322.

Each Elects Ten.

Each major party elected ten delegates to its national convention. The delegates were legally bound only to use their "best efforts" in behalf of the candidate under whose name they appeared. Heretofore, "best efforts" have consisted of voting for the candidate until the delegation decided its choice had no chance of nomination.

Townsend leaders claimed 150,000 members.

Representative James W. Mott had no opposition for the Republican nomination in the First District. Three Democrats competed—State Senator Byron G. Carney, opponent of the Townsend transactions tax plan; State Senator Cortis D. Stringer, who ignored the issue, and State Representative E. W. Kirkpatrick, an anti-Townsendite.

Representative Walter Pierce and State Representative Clinton P. Haight sought the Second District Democratic nomination. Out of five Republican contenders only Roy Ritner opposed the Townsend plan.

Third District (Portland) Democratic contenders were Nanny Wood Honeyman, Louise Palmer Weber and Walter B. Gleason, anti-Townsendites, and Warren Erwin and Walter Whitbeck, Townsend advocates. Republican candidates were Representative William Ekwall, anti-Townsendite, and Harry Kenin and Charles M. Thomas, Townsend supporters.

Counts 241 for Knox.

Chicago, May 15 (AP).—Former Senator George H. Moses, of New Hampshire said today his latest tabulation showed that 241 of the delegates already elected to the Republican National Convention favored the nomination of Col. Frank

3 Air Records Set By Amy Mollison

Croydon Airdrome, England, May 15 (AP).—Mrs. Amy Johnson Mollison, England's No. 1 airwoman, put three new records into her logbook tonight.

She returned from Capetown, South Africa, setting records each way for the solo flight and a new one for the round trip. She made it back in 4 days, 16 hours, 18 minutes, trimming the record of 6 days, 6 hours, 57 minutes, held by Flight Lieut. Tommy Rose.

She covered the total distance of more than 14,000 miles across the Sahara and Africa's jungles and back in a flying time of 7 days, 22 hours and 43 minutes.

Senate Group Delays Action On Relief Bill

Committee 'Confused;' Attempts to Learn Aim of President.

By Felix Bruner.

The Senate Appropriations subcommittee which has been considering the $1,425,000,000 relief appropriation suspended its work yesterday while members attempted to learn exactly what President Roosevelt's relief program is.

Until yesterday morning, members of Congres were certain that all the appropriation was being made to the Works Progress Administration "to provide relief and work relief on useful projects." At his press conference the President threw the situation into a state of confusion, at least so far as Appropriation Committee members in both House and Senate were concerned, by asserting that part of the money would be used to continue the work of the Resettlement Administration and the Public Works Administration.

The President's assertion followed by 24 hours the statement of Dr. Rexford G. Tugwell, head of the Resettlement Administration to the Senate committee that unless his organization received a new appropriation by June 30, it would have to "fold up."

Buchanan Firm.

Secretary Harold L. Ickes, head of the PWA, was scheduled to appear before the committee yesterday, but suddenly announced he would not appear, and Chairman Adams (Democrat), Colorado, said it was doubtful if Ickes would testify at all.

When the House passed the appropriation bill it was assured by Chairman Buchanan (Democrat), Texas, of the Appropriations Committee, that none of the money would go to Tugwell. In view of this assurance, no attempt was made to obtain passage of an amendment stipulating that no money should go to the Resettlement Administration. Buchanan stood on that statement yesterday in the face of President Roosevelt's suggestion that part of the money would go to Resettlement, possibly by the appointment of an agent of WPA to handle the funds there.

"Money cannot, under the bill as it has passed the House, be transferred either to the Resettlement Administration or to the PWA," Buchanan said. "How the deuce money appropriated to the WPA can be transferred to anybody else I don't know."

Sees Loss in Benefits.

Members of the Senate committee pointed to the repeated statements of Harry L. Hopkins, WPA administrator, that $1,425,000,000 is barely sufficient to provide work relief for 2,000,000 persons for a year. The WPA is now caring for about 3,000,000 persons on relief. Some members of the committee saw in the President's purpose to use money for PWA projects, costing more per worker than those of WPA, and for Resettlement projects the probability that a new relief appropriation will be asked at the opening of the next session of Congress in January.

"They cannot transfer any material amount of funds from this appropriation to any other agency than the WPA without discharging a greater number of workers from the WPA rolls than they would employ with the money transferred," Buchanan explained.

President Roosevelt, since he sent his relief message to Congress on March 15, had been fighting against the movement to earmark part of the money for the PWA. An amendment carrying this provision was voted down by a Democratic caucus in the House and was declared out of order because it was not germane to the bill when it was introduced on the floor.

Mr. Roosevelt indicated that his present plan called for making 55 per cent loans for non-Federal projects from the PWA revolving fund, obtained from the sale of municipal bonds taken as security for previous loans, and for supplying the remaining 45 per cent of the cost in the form of labor furnished by the Hopkins organization. The labor would replace the customary 45 per cent PWA grants.

In discussing the Resettlement Administration, the President indicated that probably no more rural or suburban communities would be built, but that rehabilitation work would continue to be carried on. The appropriation bill specifically gives $85,500,000 to Hopkins for "rural rehabilitation and relief to farmers." Presumably, the new

Today, Tomorrow To Continue Cool

The mercury stuck to the 70s yesterday and Washingtonians shivered in unseasonable chilly weather.

They will shiver again today and once more Sunday. For the Weather Bureau consulted its weather maps yesterday and predicted no let-up in the chilly spell.

In the semiwarmth of a late afternoon sun, the temperature rose officially to about 74 yesterday afternoon at 4:30. But that was the highest recorded for the day.

Today will be just as cool. It may be even chillier because the weathermen predict the sun will be hidden most of the day by cloud banks. But there will be no rain, the Weather Bureau said.

A low of 43 degrees was recorded early yesterday morning.

Two Indicted, One Is Arrested In Al Smith, Jr., Extortion Case

Given Immunity, Blonde Sobs While Waiting Turn Before Jury.

By the Associated Press.

New York, May 15.—Two men were indicted today on charges of extorting money from Alfred E. Smith, jr., son of the former Governor.

The indictments were returned speedily by a grand jury that heard testimony from Smith and four other witnesses, including Catherine Marie Pavlick, a blue-eyed blonde from Queens.

One of the defendants, Max D. Krone, 33, a private detective, was arrested immediately. The other, A. Henry Ross, Brooklyn lawyer, notified the district attorney's office through an intermediary that he would surrender.

Krone and Ross were charged jointly in one indictment with "the extortion of $1,500 on or about May 29, 1934, on threat to expose and impute to Alfred E. Smith, jr., a disgrace."

A second indictment charged Krone alone with extorting $10,000 in promissory notes on February 21, 1935, by the same means.

Krone refused to discuss the case when questioned by two assistant district attorneys. He was booked at a police station and ordered lodged in the Tombs for the night.

Assistant District Attorney Harold W. Hastings said he would demand $50,000 bail.

Prosecutors said their investigation indicated young Smith, a

Senate Finance Committee Votes Down Processing Tax Recommendation.

By Robert C. Albright.

Merging widely variant revenue schemes into a composite tax plan, a rebellious Senate Finance Committee partially composed its differences yesterday, and arrived close to agreement on a brand new compromise embodying a 1 per cent step-up in the normal individual income tax rates.

With the hard and fast House rates on undistributed corporate earnings definitely sidetracked, the committee drew from half a dozen substitute proposals its new basis for a bill, after almost unanimously voting down the President's recommendation for $221,000,000 in processing taxes.

Besides a politically dangerous increase in normal income tax rates from 4 to 5 per cent, striking lower bracket earnings of individual citizens, the new plan submitted to the Treasury for estimates proposed:

1. An increase in corporation income tax rates (now 12½ to 15 per cent), to a flat 18 per cent.

2. Strengthening of a "pressure" section in the present revenue law, to give the Treasury new powers to reach corporate earnings withheld from stockholders, "beyond the reasonable needs of business."

3. Imposition of a flat 7 per cent tax (in addition to the 18 per cent corporation income tax), on all undistributed corporate earnings.

4. Repeal of the normal income tax exemption on dividends, making shareholders' receipts from corporations subject to a 5 per cent individual income tax rate.

Chairman Pat Harrison, of the Senate Finance Committee, who put the plan forward after luncheon talks with Senators, and an executive session of the committee, predicted it would raise more than the $620,000,000 asked by the President, but waited on the Treasury for expert estimates.

It was unofficially estimated that the 1 per cent increase in the normal income tax on individuals alone would produce between $200,000,000 and $300,000,000, if dividends are made subject to normal taxation. Under the present law, with dividends going untaxed, it would produce only $60,000,000, experts said.

There were indications the com-

Blum Proposes Understanding On Debt to U.S.

Copyright, 1936, by the United Press.

Paris, May 15.—Leon Blum, popular front dictator of France and the probable next premier, intimated today that the government which will take power June 2 under his guidance will seek an amicable war-debt solution with the United States.

In his first public declaration of foreign policy since his forces swept into power in the recent general elections, Blum said:

"I want to touch on a subject hitherto taboo—the war-debt misunderstanding.

"The French have a tendency to believe the debts have been effaced, but our unilateral denunciation of the war-debt agreement has hurt the Americans' sense of commercial probity.

"I hope that the debt misunderstanding can be cleared.

"In re-establishing the world on a better basis there must be complete respect for international agreements and signatures."

Addresses American Club.

Blum was addressing 400 members of the Paris American Club at the Inter-allied Circle.

Blum stressed that the incoming cabinet's foreign policy will not be influenced by contrasting political regimes such as in Germany and Italy. The new French government will be controlled by Socialists, Communists and other left wingers.

"We want to be at peace with all nations regardless of their internal regimes. We attach no virtue to war. We want to consolidate peace.

"It is absurd to think that we would push France to war to destroy other regimes.

"Is it not natural that countries should have sympathies with other countries showing the same ideals of liberty, peace and democracy—countries showing the same ideals of social justice?"

Cites U. S. Revolution.

Blum said the American War of Independence had a great deal to do with stirring France to revolution and added that the political parties who were victorious in the recent elections "claim descent from the original French revolutionists."

Meanwhile, British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, en route from Geneva to London, visited Blum

Officer Risks Life To Recover Body

Woman Dies Inside Hut; Machine Guns Fell Brother, Fleeing.

By a Staff Correspondent.

Gordonsville, Va., May 15.—A "gun-crazy" Negro, backed by his sister, killed a sheriff and wounded four other men a mile from here this afternoon, and fought off capture until late tonight when their cabin was fired with hand-thrown torches.

Both were shot and killed before their bodies were cremated in the flaming cabin.

Sheriff William B. Young of Orange County was killed when he sought to arrest the Negro, 65-year-old William Wailes.

Wailes had a mania for firearms. His house was a veritable arsenal, and he had boasted that he had a two-year supply of ammunition.

Threatened Woman.

Thus five men were in the party that went to his home today to arrest him for threatening a woman in a cemetery that adjoins his house.

Sheriff Young, bearing the warrant, knocked on the door of the house. A moment later Wailes aimed a rifle from a window and shot him through the heart.

Cora Wailes, sister of the Negro, appeared at another window and started firing. A fusillade from the two followed.

State Troopers S. L. McWilliams and Wayne Carr were both wounded, McWilliams in the arm and leg, and Carr in the hip.

In the spectacular gun battle that was to follow with revolvers, rifles and Thompson submachine guns, three more men were wounded.

They were Lafayette Young, brother of the slain sheriff, shot when he tried to retrieve his brother's body; Ray Mundy, of Barboursville, who tried to drive a steel-body truck up to the house to serve as shield for sharpshooters, and E. W. Bushong, of Culpeper, Va., who was shot by the woman just before she died.

All the wounded tonight were in the University Hospital, Charlottesville.

The killing of Sheriff Young and the wounding of Troopers McWilliams and Carr occurred at about 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

It was six hours later that the battle ended with the Negro cabin a funeral pyre.

Two Others Escape.

Two men who were in Sheriff Young's original party escaped the shots from the house. They were Constable Richard Yeager of Gordonsville and State Trooper Herman Delaney.

As Troopers McWilliams and Carr ran for cover under the house, the other two hurried here for aid.

News of the battle spread swiftly all through this part of Virginia, and officers and civilians in this and nearby towns mobilized quickly.

Wailes and his sister shouted a warning to the crowd.

"I'll kill anybody that comes near," Wailes yelled.

The Orange Volunteer Fire Department trained floodlights on the Wailes cabin so as to make it a better target for the besieging forces.

Wailes, who has the reputation of being "queer" and who has been avoided by most of his neighbors, this afternoon brandished a gun in a nearby cemetery and threatened Mrs. George Zinn, a wealthy landowner.

Mrs. Roosevelt to Entertain 78 Reformatory Girls Today

Seventy-eight of the 81 girls of the National Training School for Girls have accepted the invitation of Mrs. Roosevelt to drink tea, eat ice cream and cake and roam on the White House lawns this afternoon.

The other three, of their own choice, will not attend this precedent-breaking White House party at which inmates of a home for delinquent girls will be entertained as cordially and as charmingly as the distinguished citizens of the Nation. And it is not for political reasons or because they have had to be disciplined, but because they chose to do something else which they consider more important.

One of the three girls—suffering with teeth infection—decided to forego the White House visit, and, instead, will visit the dentist. The other girls had similar reasons.

Yesterday at her press conference, Mrs. Roosevelt announced she had invited the inmates of the school to come to the White House this afternoon "because as other young people enjoy an occasional good time, I think these youngsters should have an occasional good time and that is why I suggested they come to me for a party."

Recently Mrs. Roosevelt accepted the invitation of Dr. Carrie Weaver Smith, the new superintendent of the home, to visit the institution.

After her inspection, Mrs. Roosevelt publicly termed the institution "medieval" and "barbarous." She said that while most of the inmates were still of school age, there was

Woman Sentenced to 4 Years In Maryland 'Gossip-Slaying'

By the Associated Press.

Elkton, Md., May 15.—A Circuit Court jury returned a verdict of manslaughter against Mrs. Rachel Gillespie tonight in the "gossip slaying" of Mrs. Emily Fisher, of Perryville. The jury was out about six hours.

The court sentenced Mrs. Gillespie to four years in the House of Correction. Defense Attorney Harold E. Cobourn immediately indicated he would file a motion for a new trial.

Mrs. Gillespie showed no emotion when sentence was handed down. Her bail was set at $10,000 and she was returned to her cell pending attempts to raise bond tomorrow.

E. D. E. Rollins, State's attorney, asked a first degree murder verdict, although he did not ask for capital punishment. He said the case should be a lesson to all gossipers.

Harold E. Cobourn, defense counsel, pointed out to the jury that ten of the 12 men on it are fathers. He lauded the loyalty of Walter Gillespie, husband of the defendant.

Mrs. Gillespie was accused of shooting Mrs. Fisher March 28. The defendant testified she believed her husband had been "running around" with Mrs. Fisher.

Testimony was finished at noon and the rest of the session was devoted to arguments by attorneys.

Coburn asked the jury to return a verdict of not guilty because of temporary insanity.

Most of the defense witnesses testified that Mrs. Gillespie had shown evidence of insanity about the time of the shooting.

Congress Sets Adjournment Goal as June 6

Robinson Trims Objectives of Senate to Relief and 4 Other Measures.

Congress started its final drive for adjournment yesterday with June 6 as a definite goal.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, majority leader, in asking for Republican co-operation in bringing about adjournment in three weeks, listed five measures which he said must be disposed of before the end of the session.

On the "must" list he placed the tax bill; the deficiency appropriation bill, carrying the relief appropriation; the commodity exchange regulation bill, and the omnibus flood control bill. All of these measures have been passed by the House, which is marking time waiting for the Senate to catch up. In addition, Robinson listed ratification by the Senate of the London naval treaty.

Byrns Program Simpler.

Speaker Byrns had a simpler program. He said as soon as the tax and relief bills are passed Congress would "reach for its hat and rush home."

Robinson indicated that the Wagner housing bill will not be taken up if its consideration should delay adjournment.

"It is expected that the omnibus flood control bill will be brought before the Senate early next week, probably not later than next Tuesday," he told the Senate.

He added that the commodity exchange bill will be considered "as soon as it is found practicable."

The tax and relief bills still are in committee, with no definite time set for reporting them. The tax bill is being revised and consideration of the relief bill may be delayed because of confusion in the minds of committee members as to just what President Roosevelt is asking for.

"We are approaching a time when it will be necessary to continue in session longer hours," Robinson said. "We are all desirous of completing the work of the session, if possible, before the date when the Republican National Convention is scheduled to meet, if it does not abandon its purpose to have a meeting, and I realize that in order to accomplish that end it will be necessary that the full measure of co-operation which we have had heretofore shall be continued."

The naval treaty, he said, is expected to be taken up on the floor Monday. The treaty was reported by the Foreign Relations Committee yesterday.

In answer to a question by Senator McNary, of Oregon, minority leader, Robinson said that the program does not exclude measures of less importance and that conference reports will be given the right of way.

Recognizes Importance.

Senator Wagner, in asking about the housing bill, said he confidently expected it to be reported out soon. The bill, as written, calls for expenditures of $876,000,000 during the next four years for housing.

"I think the Senator from New York," Robinson replied, "has had sufficient experience in legislative maters to know that it is a physical, moral, mental and every other kind of impossibility to pass judgment on whether a measure that has not been reported by some committee shall be disposed of during the session. So far as I am concerned I would not favor continuing the session beyond June 6 for the purpose of passing the bill to which the Senator is referring. I recognize its importance.

"I did not want it to go out from here that the program was limited," Wagner replied, "and that we were foreclosed from consideration of the housing bill."

Death in Hay Fire Mystery at Oxford

Stadhampton, Oxfordshire, England, May 15 (AP).—The burned body of a Canadian student at Oxford University, both of his arms broken and his skull fractured, sent police tonight on a possible murder chase in the quiet Oxfordshire countryside.

The victim, T. Patteson Moss, formerly of Toronto, was found in the remains of a burned haystack on a farm near here. He was identified through charred bits of paper in his pocket.

Movements of the student had not been traced since he was seen on an Oxford street about 10 o'clock last night. The ace medical examiner and crime pathologist, Sir Bernard Spilsbury, was called in to help unravel the mystery of what happened between then and 3 a. m. today, when the haystack was seen burning by a farmer.

Stadhampton is about 8 miles southeast of Oxford.

Authorities said it was possible Moss had dropped asleep on top of the haystack and may have fallen off and been knocked unconscious. But how the fire started and what he was doing on the farm remained mysteries.

Politics and People

Plan of PWA and RA Allotments Clouds Relief Picture; More Cash May Be Needed.

By Franklyn Waltman

CONFUSION which has surrounded the Federal relief program was not lessened any by President Roosevelt's announcement that Secretary Harold L. Ickes' PWA and Rexford G. Tugwell's Resettlement Administration would be kept alive by allocation of comparatively small sums from the $1,425,000,000 relief appropriation now pending in the Senate.

WALTMAN

The announcement came as a distinct surprise to Capitol Hill where the Democratic leaders in charge of the bill had been convinced that such action was impossible. For several days they have insisted that the appropriation was for the exclusive use of WPA and that allocations could not be made to other agencies.

But Mr. Roosevelt demonstrated that Capitol Hill could not write a bill which would prevent him—by devious ways, to be sure—from actually allocating the money where he desired, irrespective of the wishes or understanding of members of Congress in the matter.

The President pointed out that the very specific language of the relief bill easily could be circumvented by Mr. Hopkins, retaining nominal control over the appropriation, but naming Mr. Ickes and Mr. Tugwell and their organizations as his agents for the spending of the money. Legally, Mr. Roosevelt's point may be well taken. But in the interest of representative government, however, it would seem that appropriations approved by Congress should be used for the purposes intended and not diverted to other quarters by technicalities.

At least it may be said on the President's behalf that he has in advance of final action by the Senate put that body on notice as to his intentions in this respect. But the President's announcement did not dispose of all aspects of the relief problem. For weeks Mr. Roosevelt has been authority for the statement that if any part of the proposed $1,425,000,000 relief appropriation was earmarked for PWA or RA, the sum would not be sufficient to take care of all those requiring relief—since the per man cost in those two agencies is much greater than in WPA, due to the more substantial type of projects being pursued.

Since there has not been any withdrawal of the President's earlier statements along this line, it must be assumed that the proposed relief fund will fall short of covering the existing situation by the same amount he diverts to PWA and RA. Where that deficiency will come from Mr. Roosevelt does not state. He leaves that matter open, presumably until Congress meets next year. So the prospect develops that the sum now being appropriated for relief, plus an unexpended balance, cannot be considered as the total cost for the next fiscal year but only a part of the cost, leaving the country again at sea as to where it is headed in this business of relief.

It is this floundering about in regard to an important and vital subject that is so disturbing to those familiar with the situation. None seems to know with any certainty the answers to pertinent and vital questions regarding the problem. How much will relief cost in the next fiscal year? So much, plus an undetermined sum. How many persons willing and able to work are unemployed? A variety of answers is possible, ranging from 12,000,000 down to less than 8,000,000. The New York Sun, for instance, after making a survey of industrial employment concludes that "no more than 3,200,000 are unemployed in all industries and trades."

How many persons on relief rolls really are destitute and deserve to be there? No one knows. To what extent are relief funds used for political purposes? Charges of such action by the dozens, some well-documented, have been made, but the WPA officials blithel, continue to deny that any politics is being played.

After three years of floundering about with temporary and improvised schemes, which change color without notice, and without adequate knowledge of what the problem comprises, it seems that the time has come when the country, as well as the Administration—for this is no partisan question—should undertake to look ahead not alone to next year's requirements but into the possibilities of the next two or three years.

It is perhaps futile to propose any change in the present method of handling relief as a part of the pending legislation, because the Administration does not desire to admit the weaknesses of its program or to relinquish its handling of the money.

But one proposal which the Senate should seriously consider as an amendment to the bill is the requirement that the President establish a non-partisan policy board to control the spending of the money during the next fiscal year. This board—selected from outside of the Administration—also should be charged with the duty of preparing a long-range relief program for submission to Congress next January.

The Administration can not make any valid objection to placing such a board in charge of relief funds. Indeed, it would be politically smart to welcome the establishment of such a body, because if the Administration does not do so, the Republicans will propose a solution along that line. Mr. Hopkins could be retained as the executive officer of the board, which, however, would have the duty of reviewing his work.

The physical impossibility of one man, in the best health and free from worry, to administer competently and efficiently a program so large as that embraced by the relief fund is a sound reason for the establishment of such a board. Mr. Hopkins, it would seem, should welcome an opportunity to share his responsibility with a group of outstanding, sympathetic advisers—unless he just wants to be a dictator, irrespective of the consequences.

Recovery Near, Reserve Board Heads Declare

Report, However, Indicates Normalcy Not Yet Complete.

By Sidney Olson.

Holding that recovery is on the way, but not yet complete, the board of governors of the Federal Reserve system devoted their major attention throughout 1935 to the preservation of easy-money conditions in the country, their annual report revealed last night.

The board, focusing their efforts on the attainment of recovery, held numerous meetings to consider the dangers of inflation, but took no direct action to apply brakes on the recovery momentum, the report showed.

For the first time in the 22-year history of the Reserve Board, a report was submitted on all questions of policy considered. This was required under the amendment to the Federal reserve act made by the banking act of 1935.

The records of the meetings revealed that, although the question of the advisability of taking action to absorb a portion of the excess reserves of member banks had repeatedly been considered, no action was deemed necessary, although the board watched the situation carefully. It was unanimously agreed there was no undue expansion of credit, and thus no need for action of this kind.

Two Methods Available.

The board had available two methods of meeting excessive credit stimulation: By absorbing the excess reserves of member banks, either through reduction of the system's portfolio of Government securities, or through the raising of member bank reserve requirements.

Holding to their objective of not tampering unnecessarily with the furtherance of recovery, the board members held any such actions "untimely."

The members, however, stressed that they were "alive to the injurious consequences that will be caused by the excess reserves if they are permitted to go uncontrolled beyond the point where it will become reasonably clear that further pursuit of the policy followed thus far by the Federal Reserve system during the depression will be attended with economic hazards to the country which the system could not safely assume." They added:

"When and as that point approaches the board will act."

This attitude—that the country still is short of full recovery, that the system must further that recovery, that there is no evidence of over-expansion of business activity or the use of business credit, but that the present volume of member bank reserves, enormously increased by gold imports from aboard, is greatly excessive—was reiterated throughout the board's 1935 sessions.

Deposits Increased.

The report emphasized that the primary development during the year was the further growth of bank reserves, resulting from the tremendous influx of gold in the continued movement of foreign capital to the United States.

Bank deposits increased, partly from the gold inflow, but chiefly from sale by the Government of its bank obligations. The report stated:

"Prices of securities rose sharply and trading on stock exchanges increased, but there was little growth in the amount of bank credit used in the stock market until the last two months of the year."

During 1935 nine member banks reduced discount rates, until at the end of the year rates were 1½ per cent in New York and Cleveland and 2 per cent at the other 10 Reserve banks.

During November and December total reserves averaged about $5,700,000,000—required reserves of about $2,700,000,000 and excess reserves about $3,000,000,000.

Holdings Listed.

Excess reserves totaled $2,770,000,000 yesterday, according to the latest Reserve report.

In outlining the increase in monetary reserves throughout the year, the report showed that disregarding the gold increment resulting from revaluation, additions to gold and silver stocks affecting member bank reserves during 1934 and 1935 amounted to $3,900,000,000. Of this, $200,000,000 was gold acquired by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation before revaluation and $600,000,000 in the issuance of silver certificates and coins.

This growth of the monetary gold stock of the country, $3,100,000,000 in less than two years, was "unprecedented," the report said, pointing out that in the 20 years from 1914 to 1933, including war movements of gold, the gold stock increased $2,400,000,000.

First Profit Since 1931.

Member banks showed a profit, as a whole, for the first time since 1931, despite the new low level of money rates and the large volume of idle funds. Net income for the first half of 1935 was $80,000,000, with returns incomplete for the last six months.

The report discussed briefly the sensational 50 per cent stock market rise and the response of the capital markets at last to the low money rates, although most of the latter was in refinancing.

For the first time it was revealed that the board's four-point policy, stressing watchful waiting on the dangerous excessive reserves while preparing to take action when timely, was in spite of an 8-to-4 recommendation by the open market committee to consider "an early increase" in reserve requirements. The committee did not recommend any exact time for such action, or any percentage of increase, or the classes of banks affected, but strongly urged some action "early." This recommendation was not followed, as apparently the board did not during last year, or yet this year, consider such action timely.

Cost of Shows Main Obstacle Of Television

FCC Hearing, June 15, Will Consider Economic Difficulties.

By the Associated Press.

While nearing practical use from a technical standpoint, television was reported by Communications Commission officials yesterday to have run into a maze of difficult "economic problems."

Preparing for a hearing June 15, when the commission will gather information on which to base long-range policies toward radio and television, officials said data already received indicate that several far-reaching questions must be solved before visual broadcasting can come into general operation.

Among other things, the production cost of television broadcasts would be a factor of major moment.

"If they tried to make their own motion pictures exclusively for television transmission," remarked one official, "it would cost at least $200,000 for each production.

"On top of that, the broadcasting time and leasing of wires for a national hookup might run into another $100,000. Any advertiser would think a long time before he put that much money into a two-hour entertainment."

If motion pictures already released in theaters were shown by television, he added, the public's interest would be sharply diminished.

Stage productions, transmitted by visual broadcasting directly from studios, would require lengthy rehearsals and costumes, this official asserted, necessitating a larger outlay than is entailed for the present radio plays. In these, actors wearing business clothes may read from manuscripts with a minimum of rehearsal.

He said that television is being developed to the point at which it could be used out-of-doors for football games and other sports contests. "But you have the question there," he continued, "as to whether the public would think it worth while to buy the equipment if that was all that could be received."

'Shoot to Kill,' Possemen Told In Convict Hunt

Two Reputed Leaders in Oklahoma Break Near Capture, Is Report.

By the Associated Press.

Antlers, Okla., May 15.—Under "shoot to kill" orders, possemen beat through the mountain brush northeast of here tonight, reported only "ten minutes behind" two of six desperate fugitives from the State penitentiary at McAlester.

Two of the eight felons who roamed the countryside after Wednesday's riotous break of 24 convicts were retaken this morning in woods near here.

All restraint went out of the search in this Choctaw Indian country after the release of four hostages—two prison guards, a farmer cowboy and a railroad section worker.

Charles W. Daley, State crime bureau chief, told officers to "take no chances—shoot to kill."

Archie Herring and Bill Anderson, robbery convicts, surrendered meekly today a few minutes after their hostages, prison guards Tuck Cope and Victor Conn, and the farmer, William Doaks, had been released.

Leaders Believed Near Capture.

Claude Beavers and Claude Fugate, reputed leaders of the break, were believed near capture tonight.

Roy Langwell, 35, railroad section laborer, escaped from them this morning after they had abducted him at Kosoma and forced him to drive them northward in his truck. He said they were afoot and penniless.

Two of the others, Julius Bohannan and Jess Cunningham, were the object of a search that spread from Antlers through the rugged mountain country to the Arkansas line.

They were thought to be afoot. Cunningham is wounded.

The other fugitives were A. C. McArthur and Claude Pugh. Herring and Anderson were hurried back to the prison where they were placed in solitary confinement. They face possible kidnaping and murder charges.

"We have done the State an injustice by bringing them back alive," said Alex Watson, penitentiary transportation officer.

Guards Face Inquiry.

Cope, suffering from a bullet wound in the neck, and Conn returned to McAlester to face a State board of affairs inquiry, investigating the break that resulted in the cruel slaying of Prison Foreman C. D. Powell and the critical wounding of another guard, W. W. Gossett.

Maj. Henry A. Bootz, superintendent of industries at the penitentiary, submitted his resignation today to the board of affairs.

It could not be learned immediately if Bootz took the action as a result of the break, but reports at the prison were that there was no connection.

L. M. Nichols, affairs board chairman, said Cope pleaded with tower guards to surrender their arms to the rioting convicts. The tower guards, George Cheek and Harry Dotts, are under suspension.

"They violated the unwritten rule when they turned their guns over to the convicts, regardless of the circumstances."

Cope said he asked Cheek and Dotts to throw down their guns because the convicts had "eight dirks stuck in my back and in my right side."

May Fire Tower Guards.

Referring to Cheek and Dotts, Nichols said "we will not take final action in their case until our investigation is completed, but I think they will be fired."

Board members said the investigation had not brought to light any outside aid in the vicious break.

Twenty-four convicts, listed as "dangerous," captured Powell, Gossett, Cope and Conn at noon Wednesday, marched them to the prison gates with knives and escaped into the open after Cheek and Dotts surrendered their guns.

In the subsequent flight in three commandeered cars, ten convicts were shot down and another, Cunningham, wounded. Six of the prisoners were recaptured. Gossett was wounded as the fugitives held him on the running board of the car and Cope, thrown into the back seat, was wounded in the neck.

About a mile from the prison the body of Powell was tossed from the fugitive car. He had been shot through the head.

Mexican Rebels Beaten Again, Capital Hears

Mexico City, May 15 (AP).—Reports to the War Department today said rebels in Guanajuato took another beating from soldiers yesterday, leaving ten dead as they retreated after two hours' stubborn resistance.

A detachment of 40 soldiers of the First Cavalry Regiment, under Col. Juan Jaime Hernandez, came upon 25 rebels headed by Felix Torres, 8 miles from San Luis De La Paz, Guanajuato, the official reports said, and put them to flight.

Alcohol Runner Tells of Killing Revenue Agent

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, May 15.—A "full confession" in the slaying of John R. Foster, Federal revenue agent, was announced late today by E. C. Yellowley, chief of the Chicago alcohol tax unit, to which Foster was attached.

It came, Yellowley said, from James Jacobs, alias James Jones, of Indianapolis, and implicated a man named Harlan Crouch, also of Indianapolis.

The Federal chief declared Jacobs admitted he and Crouch were running illicit alcohol from suburban Chicago Heights to Indianapolis and that Foster was shot from their automobile when he pursued them near Hammond, Ind., early yesterday.

Actual Killer Unnamed.

Yellowley refused to disclose which one actually fired the fatal bullet, pending Crouch's arrest, which he predicted "within 24 hours."

The two men, whom he described as bootleggers and former convicts, knew their pursuers—Foster was accompanied by Agent Guy Goodin, formerly of Milwaukee, Wis.—were Federal agents, Yellowley said Jacobs told him.

Jacobs' story, as related by Yellowley, was that Jacobs and Crouch loaded 200 gallons of untaxed alcohol in their automobile at Chicago Heights late Wednesday night and began driving it to Indianapolis.

Intercepted at St. John, near Hammond, Ind., the statement continued, they shot at their pursuers and Foster was slain.

Instead of continuing to Indianapolis, Yellowley said, they turned back to Chicago Heights. There they went into a restaurant for lunch.

Police Watch Car.

Chicago Heights police, informed of Foster's death, saw the Jacobs-Crouch car parked along the curb and became suspicious of the milk cans they saw piled in the rear seat. It was these cans which started the original chase when Foster surmised they contained liquor.

The police watched the car until the two men came out of the restaurant. Crouch, Yellowley said, emerged first, but did not go to the car at once. Jacobs walked straight to the machine and was seized. Crouch strolled away, the Federal chief asserted, and averted suspicion from himself.

Jacobs was brought to Chicago later that day, and questioned by revenue men. He broke down under the constant quizzing and made the statement, Yellowley asserted.

$10,000 in Gems Seized In Apartment Elevator

New York, May 15 (AP).—Two men escaped with $10,000 worth of unset diamonds today after holding up Sidney Kaufer, 56, a diamond dealer, in an elevator in a West Fifty-fifth street apartment house.

The men ordered Kaufer and three employes of the apartment house to ascend in the elevator, and then fled.

15 Hours in Underground Dark, 2 Miners Saved at Pittsburgh

By the Associated Press.

Pittsburgh, May 15.—Two men lost in an abandoned mine walked out into the sunlight with their rescuers today after wandering more than 15 hours through a dark 15-mile labyrinth of tunnels and corridors under the hills of suburban Pittsburgh.

The pair, Arthur Tonner, 35, and Robert Dyer, 36, unemployed one-time steel workers, grinned and blinked through features that were black with coal dust.

Dyer said:

"We were in about a mile when they found us. Our lights went out. We were lost. That's all there is to it."

A crew from the United States Bureau of Mines effected the rescue. Outside, road workers were blasting. The disturbance could be felt underground.

M. J. Ankeney, one of the rescue workers, said:

"Some places were caved in. We had to crawl. The water in the passageways at some points was 2 feet deep.

"When we got about a mile in, those two were sitting on a pile of rock, and one of them said to us:

"'Boy, we're glad to see you.'"

Dyer told Ankeney:

"We were following a trail when we hit a place where the oxygen was low. It was black damp. That put out our lamps. So we got up on the rocks and sat."

The two men entered the working about 1 o'clock this morning. They left a friend, Edwin Miller, waiting at the only entrance to the property, sealed since its resources were exhausted.

Miller waited all night, then notified the authorities. He said Dyer and Tonner were hunting for copper wire.

Soon after emerging, Tonner and Dyer were taken to the district attorney's office, along with Miller, for questioning.

Officers said anybody going into the mine must obtain official permission.

Glassford May Get Island Police Post

Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, who experienced a tumultous year or so as Washington's chief of police, may be appointed chief of the insular police of Puerto Rico, it was reported yesterday.

The report, according to the Associated Press, was published in the newspaper El Pais of Puerto Rico, which said that Gov. Blanton Winship had asked Gen. Glassford to assume charge of the island police during the present turmoil growing out of the independent movement.

The last Puerto Rican police chief, E. Francis Riggs, member of an old Washington and Maryland family, was assassinated February 23 by two Puerto Rico nationalists.

Gen. Glassford, who retired from the Army in 1931, was police chief here during the bonus riots of 1932. He resigned after the District Commissioners refused to uphold him in a controversy with Inspector Frank Burke, then chief of detectives.

Striking Miners Seize Engineers in Wage Row

Cordoba, Spain, May 15 (AP).—Four hundred and fifty striking miners today seized two French engineers, barricaded themselves in the great Penaroya mine and announced they would stay there until their wages were increased.

The engineers protested they did not want to join the strike, but inasmuch as the mine is owned largely by French interests, the miners said they must accompany them into the workings.

'Mystery Valet' In 1922 Murder Reported Seen

Friend of Taylor, Slain Film Director, Says He Saw Edward Sands.

By the Associated Press.

Los Angeles, May 15.—The 14-year-old police file on the William Desmond Taylor murder mystery was re-opened today following a report that the man known as "Edward Sands," valet to the ace motion picture director, had been seen at Long Beach.

Information, police said, came from George Remar.

Remar identified himself as a World War aviator and said he had known Taylor and worked for him in films for many years before the director's death.

"I first saw 'Sands' last Tuesday," Remar told Police Capt. Jesse Winn. "He was driving a green convertible coupe with a Texas license. Wednesday I saw him again in the amusement zone.

"Yesterday I stood right behind him in a concession in the amusement zone. When he walked away I followed him. Then I called the police."

Remar said today he had advised the director against hiring "Sands" when the man applied for a position as valet. Later Taylor went abroad, giving "Sands" power of attorney, the former aviator said.

"One day I received a cablegram from Taylor asking me to find 'Sands.' Taylor said he had not heard from him. I learned that 'Sands' had disappeared, taking Taylor's furniture, three cars, and all his liquor. It was all valued at about $50,000."

Taylor, a power in the movie industry, was found shot in the back the morning of February 2, 1922. Police said his real name was William Deane-Tanner. They said they had reason to believe "Edward Sands's" true name was Dennis Deane-Tanner, the director's brother.

The names of two women, then major movie stars, were drawn into the case. They were Mary Miles Minter and the late Mabel Normand. Miss Normand said she had borrowed a book on the psychologist, Sigmund Freud, from Taylor the last night he was alive. Letters from Miss Minter were found in his personal effects.

Although his movie work brought him large sums of money, Taylor had only $6,000 in the bank at the time of his death, detectives found. Then canceled checks for staggering amounts drawn to "cash" were uncovered.

Theories that Taylor had been blackmailed and had been fighting the efforts of a narcotics ring to establish itself in the movie colony also were advanced to explain the large expenditures of his money.

lawyer, had paid a total of $12,900 in cash, all of which they said went to Krone, and had signed promissory notes for an additional $4,000 which remained unpaid.

Smith said the money was extorted from him after an experience with a young woman in 1933, and the district attorney's office identified Miss Pavlick as "the woman in the case."

She was granted immunity in return for her testimony. A smartly dressed young woman of about 25, she sobbed while waiting her turn before the grand jury.

Smith, who separated in 1932 from his wife, the former Bertha Gott, of Syracuse, spent three-quarters of an hour before the grand jury. He was followed by Miss Pavlick, Patrick J. Driscoll, a friend of Smith's; William Roy, who acted as bodyguard to Smith's father when the latter was Governor, and John Markey, a New York County detective.

The former Governor's son was said by members of the district attorney's staff to have told them that he accompanied Miss Pavlick to a hotel in the summer of 1933 after meeting her at a party, and that the extortion demands followed.

No comment was forthcoming from his father, who was understood to have learned only yesterday of his son's difficulties.

Gov. Johnston Captures Prowler at His Mansion

Columbia, S. C., May 15 (AP).—Pistol in hand, Gov. Olin Johnston held a prowler at bay at 2:30 a. m. today until Mrs. Johnston summoned two city policemen to the mansion.

They arrested John Washington, 30-year-old Negro, who was sentenced to 35 days or $30 for drunkenness, petty larceny, loafing and loitering.

The Governor, aroused by barking dogs, said the man made several attempts to break into the mansion. He covered Washington with a pistol from an upper window.

The Negro had stolen a flower pot.

Guatemala Out, League Fearful Of 'Stampede'

Red Cross' Refusal to Send Gas Masks to Ethiopia Revealed at Geneva.

By the Associated Press.

Geneva, May 15.—League of Nations circles, distressed by Guatemala's resignation and fear of a "small nations stampede" away from membership, received a further shock tonight with disclosure the International Red Cross had refused to send gas masks to Ethiopia during the Italian invasion.

An official communication to the League said the Red Cross could not respond to an appeal from its Ethiopian branch because the request failed to specify the purpose for which the masks would be used.

Secretary General Joseph A. C. Avenol earlier received notice of resignation from Guatemala, one of the original signatories of the League Covenant.

The republic's withdrawal, which cannot be effective for two years, led League circles to wonder if the action was the start of a "stampede" engineered by Premier Mussolini or merely an isolated incident.

Fear was expressed the Italian dictator might be herding out the smaller members before jeopardizing the security framework by withdrawing his nation from the roster.

The Red Cross revelation, which created a sensation in Geneva, said the international organization could only furnish gas masks through its affiliated societies, for medical personnel or patients.

Its attitude, the committee emphasized, "must not be interpreted as passive acceptance of a method of warfare which it has never ceased to condemn."

The Red Cross also announced it had accepted the task of investigating all charges of inhuman warfare as suggested by Italy.

Publication of a lengthy accusation by Italy against Great Britain for alleged sale of "dum dum" bullets to Ethiopia has been delayed, the Red Cross asserted, for technical reasons. Great Britain's reply has already been prepared, it was said.

League officials, however, announced later Italy's accusations had been withdrawn and the document would not be published.

Italy was impressed, British sources said, with the British reply alleging the Ethiopian minister in London had induced unidentified agents to order general ammunition from English manufacturers specifying soft-nosed bullets were to be included.

(Advices from London reported the orders for ammunition were never filled.)

Official League sources, reviewing Guatemala's resignation, said they saw an indication Mussolini had brought "commercial" pressure against the Central American republic. Guatemala's coffee exports have been greatly benefited by Italian patronage, they declared.

Italy's "surprise" to Costa Rica was cited as an example of the Fascist policy toward Latin America. Costa Rica ordered a shipment of machine guns from Italy, it was reported, and received twice the number of the order as a "surprise" without additional cost.

Guatemala now owes the League approximately $45,000 in back dues, League officials said.

(The League rules provide a nation may not withdraw until its dues are paid and only after two years' notice.)

and Foreign Minister Pierre-Etienne Flandin.

Although Eden's conference with Blum was described as "purely personal and private," the United Press learned that it actually was the first step toward real rapprochement of the French and British foreign policies which have been strained recently by contrary views on sanctions, the Italo-Ethiopian problem and the Rhineland crisis.

It was understood that Blum and Eden reached a tentative agreement that as soon as the new popular front cabinet is formed, Eden, Blum and the new French foreign minister will seek to reach full accord on a common policy in connection with Italy, Ethiopia, Germany and possible reconstruction of the League of Nations.

5 Ethiopian Bandits Shot.

Addis Ababa, May 15 (AP).—Five Ethiopian bandit leaders, rounded up 30 miles northwest of here, were executed today by a firing squad after being tried by a court-martial. Natives who witnessed the killings were allowed to return to their tribes, so they would warn others against concentrating to make trouble for the Italian authorities.

Zioncheck Trip Not 'Official,' Leaders Aver

House Member Telegraphs Roosevelt How to Solve Island Problems.

By the Associated Press.

A round robin of assertions that Representative Marion A. Zioncheck (Democrat), Washington, now honeymooning in the Virgin Islands, is not on "official business" emanated from Federal officials yesterday in the wake of the Seattle Congressman's latest Caribbean escapades.

Although the fast-driving, stunt-loving Representative — after his whirlwind courtship of a PWA stenographer—was granted "indefinite leave on official business" by the House, Speaker Byrns, the Interior Department and House committeemen joined yesterday in maintaining that Zioncheck was not in Puerto Rico or the Virgin Islands with any official status.

Officials made no counter-statement to reports that Zioncheck, a member of the House Appropriations Committee, had importuned Secretary Ickes and chairmen of House committees to designate him as a one-man investigating committee in Puerto Rico, but asserted that the Congressman had not been given any official authorization.

After his unsuccessful efforts here Zioncheck is reported to have made a last-minute long distance telephone call to Washington from Miami seeking official status.

The impetuous Pacific Coast Representative telegraphed President Roosevelt his recommendation on how to solve Puerto Rican problems, addressed the Virgin Islands legislative council, and utilized the Marines as bodyguards and plane pilots. Why, and on what authority this was done, officials said was a mystery to them.

"Representative Zioncheck has no official mission for the House of Representatives in Puerto Rico or the Virgin Islands," Speakers Byrns said, "and is there, we understand, on his honeymoon."

Representative Buchanan (Democrat), Texas, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, and the office of Representaitve Taylor (Democrat), Colorado, who is chairman of the sub-committee in charge of Interior Department appropriations, also maintained that Zioncheck had no official authorization from either committee.

The House sergeant at arms' office added that Zioncheck had drawn no expense money from the House for his trip, and it was assumed he was paying his own expenses.

Other Representatives explained that each member writes out his own excuse for non-attendance and that Zioncheck's leave "on official business" was his own designation.

Zioncheck arrived in Puerto Rico—after his arrest for speeding in Washington, Alexandria, Va., and en route South—in the midst of a demonstration and riot by students which made it necessary for Gov. Blanton Winship to hold the National Guard in readiness for emergency service.

Returning from a fishing expedition, he discovered himself in motoring trouble once more, was challenged to a duel, tried to call out the Marines to protect him, and finally fled to the Virgin Islands in a Marine Corps plane.

Nazi Row Flares; 6 Clerics Expelled

Berlin, May 15 (AP).—The smoldering conflicts between Nazi-appointed authorities of the Protestant church and the Confessional opposition group has flared up again, it was disclosed tonight with the revelation that six oppositional clergymen have been expelled from their country parishes by the local authorities.

Two of them—the pastors of Pecina and Seelow, near Frankfort-on-the-Oder—refused to leave and were taken into custody. The four others were Pastors Hechler of Heppenheim, Homberg of Dotzheim, Herrfurth of Heegheim, and Wolter of Auerstaedt.

Prayers were offered for the ejected ministers at a special service at the Church of St. Paul the Apostle, in a southwestern suburb of Berlin, where two officiating clergymen voiced the determination of the Confessional oppositionals to carry on their struggle against the government's supervision, especially in the matter of education of children in the faith.

The church was jammed, and the service passed off without interference.

Gov. Winship Warns Island On 'Terrorism'

By the Associated Press.

San Juan, Puerto Rico, May 15.—Puerto Ricans, in the midst of a disorder-marked campaign for Nationalism, were warned by Gov. Blanton D. Winship today that "the employment of crime and violence or terrorism will not be tolerated."

In an order sent by telegraph to all mayors, judges, prosecuting attorneys and police chiefs of the island, the Governor demanded prompt prosecution of desecrations of the United States flag.

American flags have been torn down in recent demonstrations and the Nationalist banner hoisted. The one-starred Puerto Rican flag was raised today over the schools and the city hall of Ensenada, on Guanica Bay, where the first United States troops landed during the Spanish-America war.

"Should there be any person rash enough to disregard this warning and attempt to use methods of lawlessness and intimidation," Gov. Winship told the officials, "you, as agents of the law, are expected to take immediate action against such violators.

"I call on all good citizens to stand shoulder to shoulder with the constituted authorities for the preservation of law and order and I shall employ the forces at my command to the limit necessary to protect children, women and all other citizens abiding by the law."

The Governor announced he had signed a bill passed by the last insular Legislature requiring all employes as well as officials of the insular government to take an oath to support the constitution of the United States and the laws of Puerto Rico.

His message directed attention to the Puerto Rican law forbidding desecration of the Stars and Stripes and said immediate prosecution would follow any violations.

2 Arabs Killed As Anti-Jewish Strike Is Begun

39 Wounded in Clashes in Palestine; Refusal to Pay Taxes Planned.

By the Associated Press.

Jerusalem, May 15.—Two Arabs were killed and at least 39 wounded in clashes with police today, the Jewish Telegraphic Agency reported, as an anti-Jewish campaign of civil disobedience went into effect throughout Palestine.

Disorders spread to Haifa and Jaffa with the Arab proclamation of the civil disobedience strike, modeled after the Mahatma Gandhi's famous campaigns in India.

Jaffa had the appearance of an armed camp. Armored cars and troops patrolled barbed-wire protected streets.

Two Arabs were killed at Jaffa and 25 wounded, the Jewish Telegraphic Agency reported, when police opened fire on 10,000 Arabs after they left Moslem Sabbath services in mosques.

A bomb thrown at the Jaffa police station was caught by a Jewish policeman while the fuse was still burning and prevented from exploding.

Fourteen persons were wounded in a demonstration at Acre, where six bombs were thrown. No disorders were reported in Jerusalem.

Jews remaining in the Old City of Jerusalem were reported faced with a food shortage as the section was in a virtual state of siege.

New British troop reinforcements, numbering 2,400, arrived in Transjordan from Egypt and awaited the order to enter Palestine. They brought armored cars with them.

Doctor Claims New Diagnosis In Cancer Cases

G. W. Experts Stir Storm at Meeting With Talk on Child-Birth Aid.

By the Associated Press.

Kansas City, May 15.—A quick and certain method of identifying cancer cells years in advance of the stage at which cancers now are removed was claimed today by Dr. William Carpenter MacCarty, of the Mayo Clinic.

"The method is much simpler," he told a divisional meeting of the American Medical Association, "than the slow means of identification which has been taught for more than 40 years to medical students and still is being taught."

Dr. MacaCrty said that his method, proved by 30 years of application, identifies a cancerous condition in ulcers far ahead of the time when such a condition is suspected under generally prevailing methods. And, he added, it is so speedy that while a patient is on the operating table the microscopic identification is completed and the surgeons told whether the ulcer has cancer cells. In such cases, a more extensive operation is performed to avoid spreading.

Describes Method.

The key to Dr. MacCarty's method is the nucleoli, minute, round colorless matter found inside the nucleus of a cell. Discarding present methods of studying treated tissues of skin with the low power of a microscope, Dr. MacCarty took tissues from living persons and without treating them submitted them to the high-power lens. He reported noting that the nucleoli varied in size, and tests proved the enlarged ones were the means of identifying cells as malignant or cancerous.

Discovery in substances given off by bacteria of one possible cause of old age was reported to the association today.

Use of these bacterial extracts to cause certain of the "degenerative" diseases which frequently accompany advancing years was described by Gregory Schwartzman, M. D., of Mount Sinai Hospital, New York City.

Thrombosis Origin Indicated.

The experiments show the apparent origin of thrombosis, which is the formation of clots in the blood due to deep-seated changes in the vascular system. Other changes caused by the bacterial extract damage the lungs, liver, spleen, kidneys, adrenal glands, and bone marrow.

Most spectacular are experiments indicating that these extracts affect cancer, rushing the malignant cells into self-destruction. Experiments are already under way to see whether this fact may be used to cure concers, both internal and external.

The extract is a bacterial "filtrate." This is the "wash," a clear liquid, left when bacteria are thoroughly filtered out of a solution. The chemical nature of these filtrates is unknown. Typhoid germs have been used as one source in the experiments. Most other forms of bacteria seem to give off the same mysterious substance.

The filtrate is injected directly into the blood stream. It does not produce a direct reaction, as do the "toxins" made from bacteria. Instead, it induces sensitivity in various organs, and particularly it seems to attack organs which are already weakened by disease.

The doctor who introduced "twilight sleep" to the United States about 20 years ago to relieve the pains of childbirth, has apologized for doing so.

Leading American obstetricians opened a fight on the use of "twilight sleep" in childbirth and others equally as prominent defended the "up-to-date methods."

"I was the man who first brought scopolamine to the United States," said Dr. Holmes. "I didn't know what I was doing. I have found out since. We must protest vigorously against making the human mother an animated mass without any mentality."

The debate ranged around assertions of many physicians that the drugs that relieve the mother's pain are not safe for the baby.

The protests came after Drs. Howard Kane and George B. Roth, of George Washington University, Washington, reported the development of the newest childbirth analgesic, a compound of paraldehyde and benzyl alcohol. They said more than 1,600 infants had been delivered with the analgesic. Nearly 90 per cent of the mothers had no memory of the event, they said, and the drug was completely harmless to the baby.

Decision to Use Leavenworth Averts 'Crisis'

Army's Extension of Lease Prevented Serious Overcrowding, Aids Say.

By the Associated Press.

Federal prison officials said yesterday a crisis had been averted by the Army's decision to extend the prison bureau lease on Leavenworth annex, housing 1,500 convicts with narcotic records.

Federal prison population reached a new all-time high this week, reported Sanford Bates, director of the bureau, with a total of 16,134 inmates in Federal institutions.

Even with the annex at Leavenworth, Federal prisons are facing an overcrowded condition, Bates said. The Government has nearly 1,000 more prisoners now than it had a year ago and prisons were pressed for room then.

Prison camps have been able to absorb about 100 of the additional prisoners, Bates said, but only certain types of prisoners can be sent to them. Three new jails, to house about 700 inmates each, may be started soon, with a $1,700,000 appropriation by Congress, but plans for new buildings have not been completed.

The Leavenworth Annex, an Army disciplinary barracks, was leased to the Prison Bureau six years ago, during the late prohibtion period of overcrowding. Last summer the Prison Bureau's lease was extended for one year, but the Army's action yesterday assured the Prison Bureau use of that institution for an additional year.

After prohibition, officials expected the prison population to decline, but instead, the number of men jailed for liquor law offenses is now almost as great as it was during prohibition, Bates said. Commitments for liquor law violators dropped from 4,961 in 1931 to 2,208 in 1934, but rose again by 1935 to 4,615.

Campbell, Karpis Aid, Taken to Leavenworth

St. Paul, May 15 (AP).—Harry Campbell, sentenced to life imprisonment in Federal Court Tuesday after he pleaded guilty to participation in the $200,000 abduction of Edward G. Bremer, banker, was taken secretly to the Leavenworth Penitentiary yesterday, it was disclosed today.

The former Barker-Karpis gangster was shackled and guarded by a detail of Federal agents. Federal officials said they expected he would be taken eventually to Alcatraz Prison, where Arthur (Doc) Barker, Volney Davis and Harry Sawyer already are serving life terms for the Bremer kidnaping.

Court Declines To Speed Trial Of Hoeppel, Son

O'Donoghue Says Case Must Await Appeal on Earlier Charge.

Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue, in the District Supreme Court late yesterday refused to grant Representative John H. Hoeppel, of California, and his son, Charles J. Hoeppel, of California, an immediate trial on an indictment charging them with soliciting a payment of $1,000 for an appointment to West Point.

The father and son already have been convicted for allegedly conspiring to solicit the $1,000 from James W. Ives, of Baltimore. An appeal on this charge is pending in the United States Court of Appeals.

After lengthy arguments by opposing counsel yesterday Justice O'Donoghue asserted he thought it improper to try the second case while the first, which formed the basis for the indictment, was awaiting adjudication in the Appellate Court.

Assistant United States Attorney Samuel F. Beach, in opposing the granting of an immediate trial, said Representative Hoeppel was engaged in a campaign for re-election and was anxious to vindicate himself.

This was denied by Attorneys S. A. King, Kenneth N. Parkinson and Arthur G. Brodie, who appeared for the Hoeppels. They contended their clients had a constitutional right to an immediate trial unless the charge is nolle prossed. The case will be sent to the docket to await the outcome of the pending appeal.

Mystery Shots At Blimp Spur Hunt for Sniper

By the Associated Press.

Sunnyvale, Calif., May 15.—Two attempts by a mysterious rifleman to shoot down the Army dirigible TC-13 resulted today in a move by military authorities to learn the sniper's identity and motive.

Maj. Clarence B. Lobar, commandant of Moffett Field, where the airship is stationed, disclosed the attacks had been made as the craft soared over the mountain area east of here January 1 and again on May 4.

Several bullets tore through the gasbag fabric during the attacks. The craft was flying at altitudes varying from 1,000 to 2,000 feet at the time, Lobar said.

Those aboard felt the impact of the bullets. An inspection showed several holes through which helium, the costly inflating gas, was escaping.

Lobar said the craft would have burned in midair if the bullets had struck the gasoline tanks.

The attacker put eight more bullet holes through the blimp on the second occasion.

"They were only 15 feet back of the car," Lobar said. "Our men aren't any more jumpy than the next, but I can tell you it gives you a funny feeling to realize that you are being shot at up there, perhaps by a maniac."

The TC-13 is a non-rigid dirigible with a gas capacity of 360,000 cubic feet. It carries a crew of nine men and sometimes has as many as 15 persons aboard. Under favorable conditions it can fly 2,000 miles without landing.

The attacks did not halt its operations.

Should Schools Teach Facts About Communism?

intervention by Mussolini, however, would be a counter-move to British and French representations. The United Press learned that British and French representations precipitated the downfall of Starhemberg, after the prince sent Premier Mussolini a message of congratulation on Italy's conquest of Ethiopia.

Heimwehr members believe Il Duce may launch a counter-action to the Anglo-Franco representations on grounds that they constitute interference in Austria's internal affairs.

Heimwehr leaders disclosed that they will accept only Starhemberg as leader and will not recognize any order by Schuschnigg which Starhemberg does not approve. The following orders to members were issued at the Vienna headquarters:

"The federal leader (Starhemberg), expects the strictest discipline from every member of the Heimwehr, and warns against rash action.

"It goes without saying that the federal head of Austria's Heimwehr remains the leader, and only his orders have to be complied with.

"The necessary instructions will be issued soon by the leader.

"Heil Starhemberg!"

Predict Nazi Regime.

Berlin, May 15 (AP).—Austran Nazi legionnaires, in exile on German soil, predicted today the ousting of Prince Ernst von Starhemberg from the Vienna government means "it will not be long now" before they return to take charge.

Impatient ever snce they crossed the German border following the murder of Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss, of Austria, in a Nazi putsch in 1934, the Nazis have had their ears to the ground, listening for their chance.

"The new government will not last long," they said today.

Talk such as this could be heard even in the public places of Bavaria, where several thousand legionnaires have found a hospitable refuge.

Starhemberg in Rome.

Rome, May 15 (AP).—Prince Ernst Starhemberg, who is expected to explain his recent ouster from the Austrian cabinet to Premier Mussolini, arrived from Vienna this evening.

The Austrian legation, however, had not requested an audience for Von Starhemberg with Il Duce. It appeared probable the audience would be arranged through the Fascist Party, with which the prince is on good terms.

Townsend Unit Seeking Funds To Insure Plan

Caravan From California Expected to Arrive in Capital Tomorrow.

The Townsend old-age-pension organization, which already has collected more than $1,000,000, now has asked club members to contribute to a special "preparedness fund."

This became known yesterday as the Townsend automobile caravan, made up of pension seekers from California, drew nearer to Washington. It is expected to arrive here tomorrow. Dr. Francis E. Townsend, founder of the $200-a-month pension plan for the "old folks," has been ordered to appear Tuesday before the House committee investigating his organization.

The bulletin asking contributions to the preparedness fund said:

"Recognizing that the purpose of the Congressional investigation into the Townsend movement is merely a political move, backed by the powers of Congress to thwart and render futile a great effort of the people for social justice, the board of directors of Old Age Revolving Pensions, Ltd., has determined to insure the continued progress of the movement by establishing an emergency fund designated as the Townsend preparedness fund.

"Believing there exists a very real possibility that the hostile forces behind the investigating committee may, in desperation, seek to impound the operating funds of the movement in an effort to halt its functioning, the board of directors decided at a recent meeting to ask special donations from the public to build a sum of money to be placed in the hands of Dr. Francis E. Townsend to be expended in emergency at his sole direction.

"It will not become the property of the O. A. R. P., but will be held by Dr. Townsend as trustee for the Townsend clubs to be used and expended by him as his discretion may dictate to promote the Townsend plan.

"These subscriptions will serve as complete evidence of our faith and confidence in Dr. Townsend and a rebuke to those forces trying to stop the onward march of the Townsend people."

Mrs. Roosevelt

not a teacher in the entire school before Dr. Smith took charge. Previously, Dr. Smith had shown the institution to Senator William H. King, of Utah, and Senator Royal S. Copeland, of New York, who denounced the living conditions there for lack of sanitation, safety, and adequate training for the rehabilitation of the girls. They were active in obtaining a $100,000 Congressional appropriation which is to be used for improvements.

In her press conference Mrs. Roosevelt said, "I am doing this because I felt these girls were in there to be rehabilitated and as far as possible returned into communities prepared to meet the difficulties of life which had defeated them in the past.

"Therefore, it seemed to me that surroundings is hardly the way to complete segregation in gloomy achieve this objective.

"This sort of thing isn't going to make it cheaper for taxpayers in the long run," she said, "it will cost them much more in the end for the people who come out will be back on their hands again, in insane asylums or prisons."

This afternoon the girls will be shown the modern White House kitchens and other sights on the lower floor of the home of Presidents. Among these girls are some who have not been outside the institution confines for five years.

Not sentiment but common sense, she said, dictated her invitation to the girls.

"It is a terrible thing to let yourself get sentimental about criminals," Mrs. Roosevelt said, "there are some who should be shut away from society with as little publicity as possible. I am not at all interested in a person set in criminal ways.

"What I am interested in is the great mass of people who have to come back into society and should come back better equipped to meet the world. They have been defeated once and they may be defeated again."

Some of the things Mrs. Roosevelt said she found at the National Training School on her tour of inspection were:

No books except those discarded by libraries.

No psychiatric service.

Laundry work is supposed to be taught as a means of equipping the girls to obtain work following their release from the home, but the laundry equipment there is so antequated that they would not know how to work in a modern plant.

No athletics before Dr. Smith's arrival.

No full-time physician.

Dark corridors and cell blocks which lock automaticall, at night. The girls of the Home are very excited over the prospect of visiting the White House today, Dr. Smith said.

"Naturally, they think it is the greatest treat they could have," she said "and so does the staff, I might add.

"During the winter the girls would not have had sufficient clothing to go out together like this and although they would like new dresses and such to wear this afternoon, they are being very sensible and will appear in their plain little print dresses and their cotton stocking. "Some have gotten silk stockings from home."

Automobiles provided by the League of Women Voters will drive the girls to the party.

Ballou and Aids Fail to Benefit By Leave Laws

Commissioners Turn Down Plea to Apply New Rules to Executives.

Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, yesterday failed to get approval of the District Commissioners for a plan under which he and his executive assistants would get the greater amount of leave to which teachers are entitled under the new leave law.

The leave law exempts teachers from its provisions. All others are limited to the 26 days' leave a year.

The executives for whom he spoke, Dr. Ballou said, are engaged in the general practice of teaching and assume direction of teaching, and need the longer leave period to enable them to attend summer school courses at universities and to make inspection trips which are of aid to their professional activities.

Rules and regulations governing administration of the leave law are to be drafted by the President, and the Civil Service Commission has been designated as the agency of the Chief Executive, Daniel J. Donovan, auditor, replied for the Commissioners, who agreed they were without authority to make the ruling the superintendent desired.

Dr. Ballou is to draft a ruling which would achieve his object. This is to be transmitted by the Commissioners to the Civil Service Commission for action.

Hecksher Must Pay Diva Life Annuity

New York, May 15 (AP).—August Heckscher, New York millionaire real estate operator and philanthropist, whom Frieda Hempel, former opera star, said bought her voice exclusively for the sick and poor, was ordered today to pay her $15,000 a year for life.

Supreme Court Justice Bernard L. Shientag ruled the payment was demanded by an agreement dated May 11, 1928, then stayed execution for ten days to permit an appeal.

Heckscher, now 87, is in Arizona and Miss Hempel is in Copenhagen. She began her legal fight to establish her relation to the aged capitalist in 1927, renewing it last January when she said he was delinquent on payments provided in a revised contract.

Miss Hempel, 30 years the junior of Heckscher, explained at the time of the first suit—which sought an estimated $1,000,000 at the rate of $48,000 a year—that she had agreed at Heckscher's instance never again to sing for hire.

Miss McAfee, 36, New President Of Wellesley

College Trustees Appoint Oberlin Dean as Seventh Leader of School.

By the Associated Press.

Wellesley, Mass., May 15.—Wellesley College trustees today elected Miss Mildred Helen McAfee, 36-year-old dean of women at Oberlin College, to succeed 71-year-old Dr. Ellen Fitz Pendleton as president.

Miss Fitz Pendleton, sixth president of the college, announced her impending retirement last year.

Qualifications demanded by faculty and alumnae committees included, the college said tonight, "intellectual honesty, leadership, tolerance, savoir faire, sympathetic understanding of youth, vision, and a sense of humor" combined with "experience, scholarship and executive ability."

More than 100 persons were considered before Miss McAfee, a native of Parkville, Mo., and a graduate of Vassar College in 1920, was chosen.

When she takes office next September Miss McAfee will be Wellesley's second youngest president.

Her father, the Rev. Dr. Cleland Boyd McAfee, of New York City, secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions and former moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, was professor of moral philosophy at Park College when she was born.

Her grandfather, the Rev. John Armstrong McAfee, was president of the institution.

Since her graduation from Vassar Miss McAfee has taught English and French at Monticello Seminary, Godfrey, Ill.; been assistant in the Francis W. Parker School in Chicago, and director of girls' work in the Fourth Presbyterian Church in that city.

In 1923 she went to Tusculum College, Greeneville, Tenn., as acting professor of economics and sociology, but left in 1926 to study at the University of Chicago, which gave her the degree of master of arts.

In 1927 she tutored in economics at the Bryn Mawr summer school for women in industry, and that fall was made dean of women at Centre College, Danville, Ky.

In 1932 she returned to Vassar as executive secretary of its associated alumnae, where she remained until going to Oberlin.

Unification of Properties to Be Begun at Directors' Meeting Monday.

Dissolution of the Washington Rapid Transit Co. and unification of its properties with those of the Capital Transit Co. will be begun at a meeting of the bus company directors Monday.

Announcement of the plan was made yesterday by John H. Hanna, president of the Capital Transit Co., in a statement in which he pledged the Public Utilities Commission his company "accepts and will abide by the terms" of the commission order approving purchase of the bus company.

The Capital company now holds 21,237 out of a total of 21,612 shares of the bus company, for which it has agreed to pay $7 a share, in accord with the commission-approved price.

At the meeting Monday, Hanna said, directors "will be asked to authorize the establishment of free transfer arrangements between the lines of the two companies, to adopt a resolution recommending to the stockholders the dissolution of the company and the unification of its properties with those of Capital Transit Co., and to call a special meeting of the stockholders of the Washington Rapid Transit Co. to pass on this recommendation.

"Legal restrictions require notice of at least three weeks before this meeting can be held. In the meantime, in order that the public may immediately obtain the benefits of the unification of the two properties, it is proposed, effective Tuesday, May 19, to establish transfer arrangements between the lines of the two companies. A passenger paying a 10-cent cash fare on the lines of either company may obtain a free transfer which will be accepted at points of intersection on street cars or buses on which the regular fare is 10 cents or less.

Weekly passes sold by Washington Rapid Transit Co. for $1.25 will be good on all lines of Capital Transit Co. where that company's $1.25 District of Columbia weekly passes are now good and the $1.25 District of Columbia weekly passes sold by Capital Transit Co. will be good on the lines of Washington Rapid Transit Co., except Baltimore and Mount Vernon lines."

C. & P. Names Florance Information Manages

Eustace L. Florance has been appointed general information manager for the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., it was announced yesterday by Lloyd B. Wilson, president.

Florance formerly was general commercial manager for the State of Maryland, with headquarters in Baltimore. He was first employed by the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., which operates in the District of Columbia, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia, as an engineering superintendent in 1921. Subsequently he was appointed general commercial supervisor and later general commercial supervisor for the four Chesapeake & Potomac companies.

Relief Measure Is Held Menace To 9,000 Jobs

Civil Service Commission Scores CCC Provision for Patronage.

The Civil Service Commission yesterday revealed it has sent protests to the Senate and House Appropriations Committees against provisions in the deficiency-relief bill which would make patronage plums of more than 9,000 positions under the Soil Conservation Service.

The measure passed the House last Monday and is now under consideration in the Senate. Civil Service Commission officials said the tardiness of their protest was due to delay in receiving copies of the bill.

Civil Service regulations are not to apply in expending $308,000,000 for emergency conservation work, the bill provides, thus jeopardizing the jobs of 5,000 soil-conservation service workers assigned to CCC camps who were placed on civil service status last December.

More than 4,000 additional positions were scheduled to be filled this month. Civil Service examinations are to be given tomorrow to 49,000 competitors for the 4,000 vacancies. Successful entrants will become junior assistants to technicians, two to be assigned to each CCC camp now in operation.

However, if the provisions to which the Civil Service Commission objects are enacted, all 9,000 jobs will be surrendered to patronage dispensers.

The Police Boys' Clubs.

Three years ago the names of 62 boys were entered on the police blotter at the Fifth Precinct station house; last year, only 16 juvenile arrests were reported from the same neighborhood. The improvement is explained in large measure by the fact that two years ago the police opened a boys' club in the Fifth Precinct. Since then officers in the Fourth and Eleventh Precincts have organized similar clubs with considerable success. In each of the three precincts, juvenile delinquency has shown a marked drop that cannot be matched by some other parts of the city where no boys' clubs have been organized.

Thus far the three clubs, membership in which costs the boys nothing, have operated on funds supplied by a few generous individuals. But now, so well has the formula of organization plus supervision worked in the development of good character, the police propose to extend their club activities. For the first time they are asking the support of the general public. By sharing in the receipts of a recent prize fight, by appealing to businessmen and by a door-to-door canvass they hope to raise $135,000. Certainly their efforts deserve full support.

A part of the new program, which hinges on the response of the public to the officers' appeal, is a plan to establish a club for Negro boys. As a contributor to our letter columns earlier in the week emphasized, "it is the colored child who is subjected more than any other youth of the city to the baneful forces of bad environment." No expert in social welfare is needed to explain the connection between poor living conditions and juvenile delinquency. A boys' club in no other section of the city could yield as high dividends to the community generally as one in the center of Washington's Negro neighborhood.

Emphasis of this need should not, of course, suggest that efforts to improve the lot of Negro boys—or any other boys, for that matter—are just now beginning. Already there is at least one club for colored boys in Washington. And it was 15 years ago when the Boys Club of Washington was first chartered. Nor may the Boy Scouts, the Y. M. C. A. and the churches of the city be overlooked—though these latter reach principally a different type youth than those for whom the boys' clubs are designed.

However, there are hundreds of boys still in need of organized recreation, and it is these that the police are trying to reach, mindful that the majority of criminals are between the ages of 19 and 24 when first caught. Too much attention can not be given to this worthy undertaking, assuming that there will be no duplication of effort.

Allenby Of Meggido.

Viscount Allenby of Meggido, who died in London on Thursday at the age of 75, had the unusual distinction of having become a legend in his own lifetime.

The romantic campaign in the desert, which he had conducted in the years from 1915 to 1918 and which led to the capture of Jerusalem and the smashing of Turkish power in Syria and Palestine, gave him a place in history with Richard Coeur de Lion, Godfrey de Bouillon and others who had sought to place the cross above the crescent in the Holy Land. When on December 10, 1917, with dramatic and reverential simplicity, Allenby entered Jerusalem on foot, the event marked the end of 730 years of Moslem rule.

The campaign, although essentially a side-show in the World War, was nevertheless a masterpiece of strategy, so much so that while, after the war, many military reputations suffered marked eclipse, Allenby's continued to shine with undiminished splendor. "No other allied military conception," said the London Times, "was so symmetrical in its design, so naturally dramatic in its setting, so perfectly fitted in its execution to the highest hopes of its author." And Gen. Ludendorff, himself one of the greatest strategists produced by the war, spoke in the highest terms of praise of Allenby's military skill.

In comparison with the fighting in France and Flanders, where for four years two gigantic and more or less evenly matched forces waged a war of attrition against each other, the fighting in Palestine and Syria was a war of movement.

For such a war Allenby was peculiarly fitted by temperament and training. He had served his nation as a commander of cavalry in the campaigns in Bechuanaland in 1884-5, in the Zululand War of 1888 and the Boer War of 1899-1902. He performed distinguished service in France in the first three years of the war. But he will best be remembered as the conqueror of Jerusalem.

He should also be remembered as a man who, having seen war in many parts of the world and over long periods, regarded it from the depths of his experience as a curse on mankind.

"The glory of conquest is departing," he said in his last public statement. "Its gains are Dead Sea fruit, its legacy bitter memories alone."

Politics And Unemployment.

What stands out in the articles just concluded in The Washington Post describing the functioning of WPA in Westchester County (N. Y.) is the fact that no local community has any legal or other defense against the abuses of authority to which the entire work-relief system is so obviously subject. Thousands of WPA subordinates throughout the country have been entrusted with despotic powers against which local citizens have no redress.

Surely conditions have become alarming when relief workers in a Nation that prides itself on guarantees of equal justice for all have no protection against the exploitation and the discrimination which WPA quite evidently permits itself. If Congress is so ill-advised as to put another huge fund at the arbitrary disposal of Mr. Hopkins, at least there must be reliable provision to insure that local citizens and relief workers can bring just complaints to some agency other than the one against which they are complaining.

The contrasting picture of order and efficiency when the work-relief problem in Westchester County was handled through the agency of a Local Work Bureau is proof that relief can be best administered under the jurisdiction of the States, with Federal aid as required.

In the interests of orderly government; if not out of consideration for the destitute, the Administration should promptly take steps to reorganize WPA on a non-partisan and efficient basis. Politics, as so clearly shown in these articles, has no place in so fundamental and difficult a national problem as the scientific relief of unemployment.

Respect for law and order, respect for the integrity of Congress and the Administration, is rapidly crumbling under the stress of social injustices which WPA is making the every-day experience of innumerable communities.

Such conditions are a menace to the fundamental principles of our democracy.

A Challenge To Congress.

The chaos which has come to be associated with the Resettlement Administration has never blossomed more abundantly than at the present time. Administrator Tugwell is reported to have told a Senate Appropriations sub-committee that his organization would have to "fold up" by July 1 unless granted an appropriation by Congress. But President Roosevelt says he will draw upon the new work-relief fund to keep both the RA and the PWA functioning.

If the President's statement is correct, then members of Congress who are handling this enormous appropriation bill do not understand its provisions. Friends of both the RA and the PWA have conducted drives to have funds earmarked for those organizations. Congress has been unsympathetic. The deficiency bill passed the House, apparently with the understanding that all the $1,425,000,000 set aside for relief would be spent through WPA. Mr. Roosevelt's assumption that this money may also be used for major public works and rehabilitation of farm families puts Congress in the position of not knowing what it is doing.

If the President's decision should lead to a real public works program, it would be welcome. In view of previous indications that virtually all this money will be used for WPA activities, however, the plan to keep the PWA and the RA in operation has the appearance of a political gesture. By holding out this vague promise, the President can please everyone while the legislation is in the process of formation—and then do as he pleases after Congress has adjourned.

Under the pressure of emergency the creation of relief agencies by executive fiat may be condoned. Congress is certainly right, however, in taking the attitude that such organizations should be relegated to oblivion as soon as their emergency function has been performed, unless they are specifically approved by legislative action. To perpetuate indefinitely vast, sprawling bureaus over which Congress has no control would lead to an intolerable situation.

Aside from the merits or defects of the programs now being carried out by the WPA, the PWA, and the RA, Congress cannot afford to ignore the challenge which the President has thrown out. In effect, he has said that the Resettlement Administration is his concern and he will keep it functioning regardless of Congress' intentions. The Senate must choose between acquiescence in this attitude and specific consideration of the issues raised by Mr. Tugwell's activities. Since the Appropriations Committee has already heard Mr. Tugwell's story, it should have no difficulty in passing judgment upon his muddled program.

The Senate's Tax Revolt.

The revolt in the Senate against the tax bill has reached a crucial stage, making it doubtful whether the plan to tax undistributed corporate profits can be salvaged even in a modified form.

The opposition has undoubtedly been fortified by the strong and effective criticism voiced in open hearings before the Finance Committee. Witness after witness emphasized the economic unsoundness of punitive taxes that would force a distribution of earnings needed to expand business or to tide companies over periods of depression. Attention was also called to the stupidity of applying the same standards of conduct to all corporations, regardless of whether they belong to highly unstable capital goods industries, requiring large reserves, or enjoy relatively stable incomes. Experts also subjected the Treasury's estimates of yield to pitiless analysis, casting well-merited doubt upon the value of the proposed levies as revenue producers.

To cap the climax, Senator Byrd, a member of the Finance Committee, obtained official verification of his belief that many large corporations would escape taxation or have their taxes drastically cut under the House bill, which eliminates existing taxes on corporate income.

No doubt it is true, as the Treasury experts state, that some large corporations would pay more under the new system. However, the attempt to favor small corporations by applying a lower scale of graduated rates to the undistributed profits of concerns with small net incomes has obviously miscarried. As a matter of fact, numerous witnesses told the committee that taxes on undistributed profits would be a more serious handicap to small, struggling businesses with limited surpluses than to large concerns with abundant capital resources.

The Treasury's reply to these sweeping indictments has been utterly unconvincing. As a result the Senate is confronted by a choice of trying to rewrite a highly complicated and defective bill or devising a more feasible alternative. The time before the adjournment is much too short to permit an effective revamping of a measure that proposes a revolutionary change in our system of corporate taxation. Even admitting that the House plan has certain good points in principle, it would involve far-reaching adjustments of administrative practice that ought not to be hastily introduced. Such alterations should be postponed until there is opportunity for a complete overhauling of our Federal tax system. Under no circumstances, nor at any time, furthermore, is there justification for levying punitive taxes upon corporations in the indiscriminate fashion of the House bill.

Efforts to obtain adequate revenue by imposing excessively high taxes upon the net income of individuals and corporations are self-defeating. Saving is discouraged, and capital flees into tax-exempt securities. In other words, the law of diminishing returns begins to operate as tax rates soar. The time has come, therefore, to face the politically unpleasant fact that the masses of the people ultimately have to bear the chief burden of increased taxation, either directly or indirectly.

Confiscatory taxes imposed on net incomes of a few rich individuals and a limited number of corporations are eventually shifted to the people in the form of higher prices for goods and lessened opportunities for employment. If Congress is resolved to pass a tax bill that can be counted upon to make a perceptible impression upon the deficit, it confronts the necessity of taxing gross sales in one form or another. The increasing amounts required are not to be obtained through new devices to reach net earnings.

Cambridge To Princeton.

From the Christian Science Monitor.

A painted glass window, dating back to the early sixteenth century, has been acquired by Princeton University. Tradition has it that the panel may be part of the famous west window of Kings Chapel, Cambridge University, which was lost.

The panel, one of 11 lights in the original window, was made by Flemish craftsmen about 1520. It depicts the Annunciation in nearly lifesize figures, with every detail perfectly preserved. Rich ruby and azure hues predominate.

The window was taken from a Cambridgeshire church more than 300 years ago to prevent Cromwell's soldiers from destroying it. It was discovered recently in Bury, Edmunds, Cambridgeshire, behind some paneling in an old garret.

The Deeper Park Issue.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In thinking a fair per cent of critics less able than the park engineers to see through to final results, Mr. Knott in The Post, of May 13 probably deceives himself: a stronger reason than disagreement with a personal opinion would seem necessary before condemning the critics.

As a builder of wide experience (if that means anything in this case) I can no more concede that all kicks against the park work come from dumbbells and fools, harshly exclamatory without sound reason, than that all endorsement bears the stamp of impeccable and flawless judgment.

Few contend the parks are being hopelessly ruined, whether or not they come under the "builder's" slogan: "Never show a fool an unfinished building," with whatever suggestive hint this is supposed to contain. Most adverse criticism seems restrained and just, despite a perfectly moderate belief too much easy money resulted in some radical and needless changes. Doubt as to lasting improvement in spite of the outlay still exists. Traversing parks with wide hard walks in this tropical climate is idiocy or wisdom, as you happen to look at it.

Mr. Knott's rally to the standard of the New Deal's alphabetical agencies, Harry Hopkins and all their works, is eloquently answered in another column of The Post: "Votes—at ANY price." For most others the size of the growing public debt and unbalance of the budget—and the combined effect of these evils in staving off natural recovery beyond any necessity—are answer enough. E. G. BARR.
Washington, May 14.

The Trade Agreements.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your editorial in The Post of May 14, entitled "The Agreement With France," in which you commend such agreements and certain worthy men, raises considerable speculation, perhaps in the minds of many thousands of citizens who have heretofore had the impression that the very able Secretary of State, the Hon. Cordell Hull, has had considerable to do with the working out of the idea of such trade agreements and their consummation, as well as all other important matters which come under the jurisdiction of the State Department.

However, he must have been on a vacation or on a fishing trip in Tennessee during all of the deliberations concerning and appertaining to these important trade agreements. E. B. WILSON.
Washington, May 14.

Financial Portents.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: There were two news dispatches on the financial page of The Post of May 13 that were of deep significance to the average man.

One was dated New York to the effect that the National City Bank had reduced the interest rate on personal loans to 4 per cent from 6 per cent, "the lowest rate for this type of borrowing that can be had anywhere in the world."

The other was a dispatch from Paris stating that Raymond Paternotre, one of the leaders of the devaluation movement in the Chamber of Deputies, declared that "France could not make definite strides toward economic recovery until the franc was depreciated," adding, "I have, as everyone knows, claimed since the depression started, that no country could make definite strides to recovery as long as its currency remained linked to the depression rate of exchange in regard to gold. In the last five years we have witnessed confirmation of these predictions."

The National City Bank's action will result in millions of dollars of credit currency getting into circulation and a constructive increase in business. And when France, which is practically "off gold" now, formally goes off, and the United States adopts a bimetallic money basis—gold and silver at nature's ratio of 16 ounces of silver to 1 ounce of gold—thereby giving four-fifths of the people of the world purchasing power, it will force other countries into a bimetallic agreement standardizing the money exchange of the world which will forever end banker-made depressions. WILLIAM J. DWYER.
Washington, May 13.

The Best And Worst.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The year 1936 has already provided history with illustrations of the best and the worst of human behavior. When the three men were entombed 141 feet below the surface of an old mine in Nova Scotia, scores of men risked their lives and no expense or trouble was spared in the endeavor to save those precious lives at the earliest possible moment. And the entire civilized world waited with solicitude the daily progress of that rescue. In this there was exemplified the very best in present-day civilization.

The other picture is that of the war of conquest of a helpless people directed by Italy's dictator, Mussolini, who has sacrificed thousands of lives of Italian youths and Ethiopian defenders of their country with the frightful suffering which comes with warfare with the modern use of poisonous gas and wholesale bombing of villages.

And it is only a few years since American Babbits returning from Italy, after having obsequiously paid their respects to this dictator, told the members of our luncheon clubs that this was just the kind of a ruler that America needed in order to straighten out our economic problem!

Mussolini hates the democratic form of government. Dictators invariably do. And it may be in order at this time to recall that significant fact that at the end of Jefferson's first term as President he had reduced the national debt by nearly $30,000,000, had acquired the Louisiana Territory without the addition of a single sailor to the United States Navy, and had reduced the number of Federal office holders by 50 per cent.

Another Symphony View.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have been reading with considerable interest the controversy involving the holding of summer musical concerts in Washington. The writer, guided by past personal experiences with the management (or should I say "mis-management?") of the National Symphony Orchestra in Washington, has his own well-founded suspicion where the real colored gentleman in the wood pile rests.

In 1933 I was solicited for the purpose of obtaining out-of-town engagements for the National Symphony Orchestra. I was invited to attend a meeting of the Washington "sponsors" of this over-rated local symphony by its manager, a Mr. Cappel. This meeting was nothing more or less than mere "passing of the hat." This meeting dealt with my assignment favorably, but back in the office of the manager, I was informed that I would have to bring in daily guarantees of $3,000 a performance and there were to be no idle days, excepting possibly Sundays and only then if certain cities prohibited Sunday entertainments.

After hearing this orchestra play, I immediately realized that its paramount asset was its glamorous name—National Symphony. I blankly informed the manager the attempt to book them at such an unreasonable guarantee would be futile.

Now where this writer's suspicions are concerned, both Cappel and Kindler surely must fear that one season of concerts, with Bunchuk conducting, would painfully injure if not altogether obliterate what prestige the National Symphony may be enjoying today. Incidentally, anyone claiming any knowledge at all relative to the realm of music should flush when they request credentials for Yascha Bunchuk. RICHARD LE ROY.
New York City, May 11.

Washington's Alleys.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Failure of Congress to include the item of $300,000 required by the local Alley Dwelling Authority for a continuation of its work is very much to be regretted.

We hope this additional sum includes provision for alley clearance on Pierce street northwest, where it is proposed to provide playgrounds for over 2,000 elementary and several hundred junior high school pupils.

These children have no playgrounds and the conditions are among the worst in the city for tuberculosis and delinquency. The dwellings to be removed are unsanitary and a menace to the city. It is not only a humanitarian move to provide this playground, but from the standpoint of economics, we will reduce the cost of fighting crime and disease.

In many other of the older sections of the city inhabited alleys are adjacent to schools that have very inadequate playgrounds. These alleys are a very unhealthy environment for the schools. Adjacent to Dennison School is a large alley population. It is proposed to build a 24-room building on this site and clean out the alley houses for playground space. This is a congested area without playgrounds.

Mrs. Roosevelt is the inspiration for much of the progress that has been made along this line and we hope that her unselfish efforts will be rewarded by seeing the solution of the alley dwelling problem during her stay in Washington.

HOWARD D. WOODSON,
Chairman, Committee on Public Works, Federation of Civic Associations.
Washington, May 14.

On National Friends.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I think we shall never have peace among nations as long as wickedness is winked at, as long as nations are afraid of hurting the feelings of scoundrels nor as long as they condone evil for the sake of gain, as we did with Russia.

Let us choose our national friends as we do our personal ones. Of course, if we choose criminals for friends, we shall naturally choose to be friendly with nations that are criminal, but let us hope that so-called Christian nations will choose to fraternize with nations who do not encroach upon and confiscate their neighbors' lands, who do not murder, torture, steal and deceive. The happiest nations are those who have learned that "he that ruleth himself is greater than he who taketh a city," and "there is a wealth that impoverishes."

The God-fearing nations are the most contented and happy, though these states may be small. Half the trouble in the United States is the result of discontent and false standards preached by politicians for 20 or more years past. "Standard of living," "chickens in every pot," "cars in every man's garage," "the abundant life" for each. No one begrudges prosperity to anyone, but it is not practical for everyone to have equal prosperity and happiness does not depend upon it, but as long as politicians hawk their cries Mammon to stir envy in the hearts of superficial, ignorant people, so long will we have violence and wars.

Foundations Shaking.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The incident of the Knickerbocker Theater comes to my mind every time some big truck passes by, literally shaking our house from cellar to ceiling.

I am concerned about the fast loosening condition of the walls of our house, while other neighbors do not seem to give theirs a thought. And I wonder if their indifference is typical of the majority of the people about the life of the Nation gradually being shaken from its very moral and ethical foundations.

The Post Impressionist

The Leisurely Recreation.

Post Office, Saturday.

IF sooth is spoken by a communication to this column from Mr. Hector Y. Turnbull, "serious efforts will be made this summer to revive the porularity of croquet in Washington." And, since Mr. Turnbull writes under the letter-head of the Washington League for Croquet Cultivation, and signs himself "Corr. Secy.," he ought to know.

Nevertheless, the Post-Impressionist does not believe those efforts will prove successful, however serious they may be.

We go, indeed, further: we don't believe that they deserve success.

There are, of course, two Schools of Croquet—both English. There is the Oxford School and the Cambridge School.

The Oxford School pronounces the game "Crow-kay," with a butterfly accent on its latter syllable, and plays accordingly. The Cambridge School, however, calls the sport "CROAK-ie," sledgehammering No. 2 syllable, and playing that way.

The Oxford School contends that the name originated in Onomatopoeia.

It appears that Onomatopoeia is not, as we fondly believed, a country, in Central Africa. At least Webster says it isn't. He omits it completely from his gazetteer, and in his dictionary he says it is:

"The naming of a thing or action by a more or less exact reproduction of the sound associated with it; as buzz, hiss, bobwhite; the imitative or echoic principle in language. It has been maintained by some philologists that all primary words, especially names, were formed in imitation of natural sounds. See BOWWOW."

So the Oxford School of Croquet contends that Crow-kay derived its title from those trills of triumph which spring spontaneously from a player's throat when (if ever) he gets through the centre wicket—otherwise, arch.

The more virile and less fanciful Cambridge School traces the origin of Croak-ie to the equally spontaneous desire of a player, when he can't get through that wicket, to "croak" his opponent.

The annual Croquet Tourhaments between the U-Fours of Oxford and Cambridge, for the All-England Championship, were the chief national sporting-events of the Eighteen-Eighties. They created even more breathless excitement than cricket. We have this on unexceptionable authority: the authority of Capt. Sir Seaton Smith-Smythe, D. S. O., M. P., who, in his day, was the greatest croquet center-fielder Oxford had ever turned out.

It turned him out early, complete in every detail.

It is equally true that—although not quite so much a college-game here as in Albion—croquet once had a widespread popularity in America.

Have you forgotten childhood legends of shirtsleeve croquet on the White House lawn during the Tyler Administration? Have you never heard of those historic games which eased the snowy tedium of Valley Forge?

Do not try to tell us that your great-grandmother and your great-grandfather didn't play croquet—to be sure, during their betrothal, only when properly chaperoned and only after the engagement had been formally announced. If you try to say they didn't you will merely be admitting that you do not possess ancestors.

But such reflections have to do merely with the too brief era of croquet's unspoiled girlhood.

The game was then played, through hospitably wide wickets, by short-nosed, long-handled mallets, and it was played in ordinary back-yards. The mallets were not scientifically balanced; the back-yard was permitted to retain its turf and its topographical irregularities.

Alas, this condition of innocence did not indefinitely continue!

Time came, all too soon, when "croquet experts" were evolved. Croquet-mallets were then built as carefully as polo-mallets are built today. Wickets were narrowed to forbidding proportions. The back-yard was shaved and torn up and leveled down—turned into a hard clay court as precisely smooth as a billiard-table.

In a word, croquet became a game of skill.

So you see our point:

How can we sophisticates of 1936 play the primitive, or paleolithic, form of croquet?

And why should we revive an old game of skill so long as we have Monopoly?

And nobody'll want to try.

Migratory Woodcocks

By William Lyon Phelps.

Synonym For Fool.

"One swallow makes not a spring nor one woodcock a winter."

This is an old English proverb; although the part referring to the woodcock I have never heard any one use in conversation; while the part referring to the swallow I have heard scores of times, but invariably with reference to the summer—never to the spring.

I have just received an interesting letter from Iroquis Dahl, of Forest and Stream:

Woodcocks are migratory. As a general rule they feed in swamps and bogs, especially along shore lines, where they can probe with their long bills for worms and other articles of woodcock dessert.

As they migrate southward just ahead of the winter, keeping south of the freezing line as they go, so that they may find their food, the idea is that said winter is following close upon their heels. Yet, even a woodcock may be mistaken in its migration southward and one may find that the shore lines and damp, loamy places are not being frozen up behind him. So, in that case, "One woodcock does not make a winter," by any means. Just the reverse of the northward flying swallow in the spring, coming into the temperate zones on the heels, or supposed heels, of winter. He may be a little early, and, therefore, "One swallow does not make a summer."

Ever since the middle ages, and possibly before that period, the term "woodcock" in England was synonymous with fool. Shakespeare uses the word nine times, twice in "Hamlet" and always as an epithet. In "Taming of the Shrew" we have the expression, "O! this woodcock, what an ass it is!" and in "Twelfth Night," the Clown says, "Fear to kill a woodcock, lest thou dispossess the soul of thy grand-dam."

It is said that the woodcock was so easily caught in a snare that the term became a synonym for a fool; this is doubtless the true explanation. But although the woodcock is regarded as the best flying game, its eyes are so placed in its head as to give the bird an idiotic expression.

Government Takes Interest in the Cocktail Hour

Harris & Ewing.

Apparently the Administration is figuring out a new deal for cocktail drinkers. Leaders in that field met at the Mayflower Hotel yesterday with a view to working out a standard of ingredients for preparing highballs, cocktails, horse's neck, etc. From left to right are John O'Neil, of Federal Alcohol Administration; Dr. James Doran, representing Institute of Wine and Spirits Distributors, and Capt. W. S. Alexander, chief of Federal Alcohol Administration, who called the meeting.

President Gets Power LoanBill As Senate Acts

Electrification Conferees' Report on Measure by Norris Passes.

By the Associated Press.

Congressional action on the $410,000,000 Norris rural electrification bill was completed yesterday and the measure forwarded to President Roosevelt.

Under urging of Senator Norris (Republican), of Nebraska, author of the legislation, the Senate agreed to a report on the bill drafted by Senate and House conferees and approved by the House.

The measure is designed to finance over a ten-year period efforts for extension of power lines into rural areas with loans to farm groups, municipalities and private companies.

Norris told the Senate there were three controversial points ironed out in conference. The Senate bill originally ruled interest could "not exceed" 3 per cent; the House proposal was that interest be not less than 3 per cent. The conferees agreed to write in a provision that the interest be the same as the Government pays for long-term loans.

The Nebraskan said the House conferees acceded to a stipulation in the Senate bill that employes be selected and promoted strictly on merit and not on a political basis.

Originally the Senate bill prohibited loans to private companies. The House measure carried no such prohibition. The conference agreed, Norris said, that private concerns might be allowed to borrow from the Rural Electrification Administration, but that farm associations, co-operatives and other nonprofit farm units should be given preference.

The measure would authorize the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to make loans aggregating up to $50,000,000 for the first year and for Treasury appropriations to fill out the balance in the next eight years.

Woman, 8 Men Held In 'Robbery' Case

George Whitton, 24, of Asheville, N. C., staggered into the watchman's box at the west end of the Pennsylvania Bridge yesterday afternoon and told Watchman Dennis McCarthy that he had been beaten and robbed by a band of men on the railroad tracks. McCarthy called police.

J. F. Bowers and R. G. Kirby, of Police Scout Car 51, arrived at the scene and arrested seven men and one woman. The men came from all sections of the country. The women, Dorothy Griffith, gave her address as the 1200 block of K street southeast. All had been drinking, police said.

It developed that Whitton, who said he had been robbed, was himself a member of the gang. He was held for investigation along with the others.

The woman, it was charged, was killed by an automobile driven by Aquilino at Fourteenth and Harvard streets northwest last May. Through Attorneys Fred J. Icenhower and William K. Teepe, the claim was advanced that the woman was struck and killed while she was standing in a street safety zone.

Crime Charge HintedinDawes Bank RFC Suit

U. S. Seeks $10,000,000 From Stockholders on Loan Made in 1932.

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, May 15.—Attorneys for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation stated in a brief filed in Federal District Court today that the United States might hold "criminally liable" any one who violated Federal law in loaning RFC money to the old Central Republic Bank & Trust Co.

The brief was filed in the Governmental agency's suit to collect $10,000,000 from Central Republic stockholders in anticipation of a deficiency in repayment of $80,000,000 loaned the bank in 1932.

In trial of the case several months ago, the main issue was the contention of defense counsel that $50,000,000 advanced by the RFC October 6, 1932, was advanced illegally because Congress had passed an amendment prohibiting loans to institutions whose officers had been associated with the RFC in an official capacity within a period of a year before the date of the loan.

Gen. Charles G. Dawes, former chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, was chairman of the Central Republic in 1932.

If Judge James H. Wilkerson finds the advance to be illegal and frees the stockholder of liability, Attorneys O. John Rogge, Harold Rosenwald and Floyd M. Rett intimated in their brief that prosecution might follow.

"A consequence of such a violation by the plaintiff would be that the United States might hold criminally liable any persons who participated in a willful violation of that section," the brief read in part.

Even so, the Government counsel contended in another part of the brief, the note given by the bank for the $50,000,000 would still be a valid obligation.

Borah Manager Plans Attack Against Landon

New Question Arises as to Idahoan's Attitude if Not Nominated.

Uncertainty as to the attitude Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, will take toward the national Republican ticket if he is not nominated for the Presidency increased last night when it became known that his campaign manager, Carl G. Bachmann, intends to make a public attack, individually, on Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas, leading for the nomination.

While Senator Borah refused to comment on a published report that he would publicly decline to support Gov. Landon if the Kansan is nominated, Mr. Bachmann, a West Virginia delegate to the national convention in Cleveland, said he planned to make an "expose" of the record of Gov. Landon and deal also with some of his leading supporters.

"I'll tell, between now and the convention date, why I am opposed to Landon," said Mr. Bachmann. I'll tell the truth about him. If we don't, the Democrats will."

Speculation on Borah.

Whether these plans were indicative of Senator Borah's intentions was only a matter of speculation. But Mr. Bachmann qualified his statement regarding Gov. Landon with the assertion that he will support the nominee, no matter who it might be.

Bachmann did say that Senator Borah will "speak at the proper time." The Senator indicated that his position would be made clear about June 1, eight days before the Cleveland convention opens.

Confusion as to Senator Borah's intentions after the convention has been increased by his own utterances.

On May 5, speaking at Zanesville, Ohio, he denied that he had joined or would join any combination to "stop" Gov. Landon or anyone else, and continued:

Will Not Stand in Way.

"If Mr. Landon or Mr. Knox comes up to the Cleveland convention with a fair expression of the people that he is their choice, I'm not going to stand in the way."

On Thursday night of this week, however, in an address at Newark, N. J., he hinted at a bolt from the party when he said:

"If the * * * party refuses to take hold of the issue of monopoly, I propose to follow the issue and no party alignment will control me for a minute."

He emphasized, however, that he had no plans to enter the Democratic ranks, and said he had "given no thought to a third-party movement at this time."

"I only know that I'll stick to the issues," he declared.

Senate Delays on Relief

plan calls for turning this money over to Tugwell as an "agent" of Hopkins.

Hopkins to Handle Funds.

The President said it made no difference who signs the check, that the money will be handled by Hopkins, but that all Hopkins needed to do to make the transfer was to appoint an agent. He made it clear that no PWA loan to communities would come from the new appropriation.

The President's present attitude presumably has suspended the three-cornered battle for some of the relief funds in which Hopkins, Ickes and Tugwell were engaged. Tugwell and Hopkins joined him on his week-end cruise down the Potomac, starting yesterday afternoon.

Committee members, in discussing their feeling that all the money should go to the Hopkins organization, pointed to this statement made by Hopkins in his testimony before the House committee:

"Of course, $1,500,000,000 in terms of employment would mean the employment of 2,000,000 men on the average which, unless there is a substantial pick-up in business, will not by any means meet the needs of this situation in the Nation, because we are being pushed in all the cities now to increase rather than decrease WPA employment."

The clause in the bill appropriating relief money reads:

"To continue to provide relief, and work relief on useful projects in the United States, by the Works Progress Administration, $1,425,000,000."

Stand on Relief Message.

In his relief message, the President told Congress:

"I am asking only for an appropriation of $1,500,000,000 to the Works Progress Administration. It will be their responsibility to provide work for the destitute unemployed."

In another part of his message he said:

"Should industry co-operatively achieve the goal of re-employment, the appropriation of $1,500,000,000, together with the unexpended balances of previous appropriations, will suffice to carry the Federal works program through the fiscal year 1937."

AAA Transfer Possibility Met With Concern

Officials Report Farmers Seek News on Shift to Ickes Rule.

By the Associated Press.

The possibility of a transfer of the AAA to the Interior Department yesterday was reported to be causing Agriculture officials some concern.

Likewise, AAA officials said, an increasing number of farmers from many States are sending telegrams and calling by telephone to learn whether or not Secretary Ickes would replace Secretary Wallace as boss of the soil conservation program.

This furor, still fledgling in size, was caused by Senate passage and transmisison to the House of the Lewis bill authorizing a change in the name of the Interior Department to the Department of Conservation.

The bill was introduced by Senator Lewis (Democrat), Illinois, a year ago. It would provide that the President might transfer to the proposed Department of Conservation any Federal agencies he determined should be co-ordinated in the interest of conservation of natural resources.

An undercover battle was reported to have been waged between Ickes and Wallace for more than two years over control of some of the conservation bureaus, with Wallace chalked up as the winner of the last round. The Soil Conservation Service, formerly the Soil Erosion Service, was removed from the Interior to the Agriculture Departme.it and made a permanent bureau.

Wallace has opposed the transfer of such of his conservation agencies as the Forest ervice, the Bureau of Biological Survey, the Soil Conservation Service, and related technical bureaus.

Last year the AAA officials paid little attention to the controversy. At that time, they were engaged in crop adjustment through control of production by contracts with farmers.

But since the bill was introduced, the adjustment act has been invalidated by the Supreme Court. Now the AAA is administering the soil conservation and domestic allotment act.

Treasury Analysis of Tax Proposals

Following is a Treasury analysis, based on 1934 earnings, showing how the Administration's tax proposals, embodied in the House bill, would affect corporations having an income of more than $1,000,000:

1. Dividends paid—none	75	$27,004,892	$96,570,286
2. Dividends paid—less than 45 per cent	89	35,099,710	78,791,731
3. Dividends paid—more than 45 per cent and less than 75 per cent	118	81,465,352	86,808,484
4. Dividends paid—more than 75 per cent	278	138,017,237	26,052,353
Subtotal	560	$281,587,191	$288,222,854
5. Statutory net income less than $1,000,000 but dividends received more than $1,000,000	69	$2,868,947	$24,063,837
6. Statutory net loss but dividends received in excess of $1,000,000	147	.....	125,412,358
7. Grand total	776	$284,456,138	$437,699,049

Knox, of Chicago, as Presidential candidate.

He had counted 230 delegates for the cause of the Chicago newspaper publisher earlier in the week before returns were in from the Ohio and West Virginia primary elections Tuesday.

"Gains in Ohio," said Moses, here for a visit, "are offset a trifle by new information from other States. I count on 25 delegates from Ohio. We never claimed anything in West Virginia. Our net gain is 11 delegates."

Moses refused to list the Knox delegates by States, asserting such an announcement would "make the delegates a target of attack."

Clarence J. Brown, Ohio Republican leader, who was named a delegate at large topping the ticket in popular vote in Ohio's primary, said in a statement here that Knox was the "second choice of a large majority of the Ohio delegation."

Edward A. Hayes, national chairman of the Knox-for-President committee, said that Florida's uninstructed delegation also was among those which would come to Cleveland "strongly pro-Knox.

Seek Hilles Ouster.

Jamestown, N. Y., May 15 (AP).—Rumblings among young Republicans of discontent with present State leadership came to a head tonight when George H. Sibley, of New York, national representative of the group, suggested the replacement of Charles D. Hilles as national committeeman.

Speaking at the annual banquet of the State Association of Young Republican Clubs, Sibley did not name Hilles, but he said:

"It may well be that our present national committeeman could better serve our party in the capacity of adviser to a younger man in closer touch with the mass of voters of today and their problems. In any event we cannot lose more by trying a change."

Robert A. Taft, Ohio Republicans' favorite son candidate for President, was a guest speaker.

"We desognize," said Taft, "the necessity of relief of old-age persons, of unemployment insurance and other social leigslation. But these measures are not ideals—they are merely necessary evils until an economic condition is produced in which they are no longer necessary.

"With a national income of 50 or 60 billion I believe we can afford to pay several billion for the care of the aged, to produce a condition which will be more satisfactory to them and more satisfactory to the public. But we must clearly recognize that it is a new expense for something we now regard as a necessity, but one which we have not previously enjoyed.

"It is bound to reduce the income of the people who are working, and therefore reduce to that extent their standard of living."

Ohio Votes Nearly Equal.

Columbus, Ohio, May 15 (AP).—Election expert George Neffner, of the Secretary of State's office, found today that Republican and Democratic vote totals in Tuesday's primary election ran almost "neck and neck" but that both failed to set records.

The Democratic vote totaled somewhere between 588,000 and 600,000, Neffner said, while the Republican was between 594,000 and 596,000. He said more definite figures would not be available until final official tabulations were made next week.

Neffner said that the Democratic vote might exceed that of the Republicans this year for the first time in history.

In the aftermath of the State's feverish primary in which citizens tussled with lengthy ballots listing hundreds of names, Secretary of State George S. Myers ordered county election boards to report the "write-in" votes in the Republican Presidential preferential primary.

Various districts had reported some "write-ins" for Gov. Alf M. Landon, of Kansas; Col. Frank Knox, of Chicago, and other Republican Presidential possibilities.

Cummings Talks in Connecticut.

New Haven, Conn., May 15 (AP).—Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, addressing fellow Democrats of his home State on what he termed "the eve of another great Democratic victory," proclaimed the policies of President Roosevelt tonight as "the source of our salvation and security."

Keynote speaker at the party's State convention which tomorrow will choose the Connecticut delegation to the national conclave, the Attorney General coupled an attack on critics of the New Deal with the assertion that the party stands on the "great record" of President Roosevelt.

He said:

"Those who were tongue-tied in the great crisis and found their voices only when the danger passed, are in no position to criticize either the policies, the purposes, or the achivements of the Administration; and those who have no better program to offer should learn the grace of silence."

The 22 delegates who will be chosen tomorrow will have 16 votes in national convention. Twelve delegates-at-large will each have half a vote, while ten district delegates will have a full vote each.

Curry Calls on Roosevelt.

John F. Curry, former chief of Tammany Hall, and Mrs. Curry, called on President Roosevelt at the White House yesterday.

Curry insisted it was only a courtesy call and had nothing to do with politics. He said the President invited him to the White House a few weeks ago when the Executive made an address in New York City. He added he and Mrs. Curry would attend the Preakness at Pimlico tomorrow.

Income Tax Compromise

mittee may reach a preliminary vote today, when Senators who had expected to go out of town over the week-end canceled engagements.

Judging from expressions of Senators holding widely divergent views on the Administration's original plan, the committee apparently was very near an understanding for the first time since the drastic bill fell like a bombshell in the conservative Senate camp.

Senator Harry Flood Byrd (Democrat), of Virginia, who led a slashing attack on the House plan, hinted broadly last night that the latest proposal may be acceptable to him.

"I do not care to commit myself as to the details," said the independent-minded Virginian, "but I think the composite proposal submitted to the Treasury for estimates is infinitely superior to the original plan.

"I believe it covers, in a large measure, my objections to exempting these corporations, with large accumulated surpluses, which under the House bill would have been able to avoid paying taxes."

Senator Alben W. Barkley (Democrat), of Kentucky, an Administration stalwart, representing the New Deal extreme in the Finance Committee, indicated he may be willing to go along with the plan in the interest of speedy composition of differences, although the plan is not entirely to his liking.

But the proposed increase in personal income tax rates from 4 to 5 per cent, a contribution of Senator Robert M. La Follette, jr. (Progressive), Wisconsin, is charged with political dynamite in this election year, and may be difficult to get through the House, or even the Senate.

Some political strategists point out there is nothing that will carry the message of New Deal spending so quickly to the rank and file voter as an individual income tax increase. The Administration had carefully avoided touching personal incomes in its tax recommendations, and Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, jr., flatly warned the Finance Committee against touching private income tax schedules until it had tapped new corporate sources.

Easier to Administer.

Strengthening of the "pressure" section in the present law, to induce greater distribution of corporate dividends, was viewed with some apprehension by Bureau of Internal Revenue officials, who have had almost insurmountable difficulties in administering the present section.

Chairman Harrison argues that the committee's revision of this provision (section 102 of the revenue law) will make it easier to administer. To aid the Treasury in enforcing the section, the pending proposal makes it unnecessary for the Government to prove it was a corporation's "intent" and "motive" to retain an unreasonable amount of its earnings.

The compromise proposal exempts from the operation of this pressure law all corporations with earnings of $15,000 or less, or any corporation which withholds 30 per cent or less of its earnings. Exemption of companies in the $15,000 class was decided on when the committee was shown that more than 90 per cent of all corporations fall in that category.

As against the Administration's plan to levy maximum rates of 42½ per cent against corporations retaining all earnings, the plan drafted yesterday would levy only a 7 per cent on withheld earnings, regardless of the percentage retained. Coupled with the proposed 18 per cent flat corporation income tax, this would mean a total levy of 25 per cent.

Plan in Reserve.

Chairman Harrison has in reserve another proposal for swinging the bill more sharply in the direction of the President's original tax bill philosophy, but he has not yet offered it to the committee for action, and it is believed he may encounter stiff opposition when he does. On his own initiative, Harrison asked the Treasury to furnish estimates on an additional surtax of 35 per cent on all earnings retained by a corporation in excess of 50 per cent. This, if coupled with the committee's composite plan, would impose an aggregate of 60 per cent on companies withholding more than half of their income.

This proposal of Harrison draws in part on tax suggestions informally made by Chairman Marriner S. Eccles, of the Federal Reserve Board. Eccles had suggested a 15 per cent flat corporation income tax, and, in addition, a 40 per cent tax on companies which retained less than half of their dividends, and a 60 per cent levy on those withholding more than half. The first $15,000 of earnings, under Eccles' plan, would have been exempted from the surtaxes.

The reasoning behind Eccles' suggestion was said to be that it might prove hazardous to abandon corporation income taxes altogether, but that some forcing of dividends into distribution as well would not only bring in more revenue, but might discourage, in some measure, large accumulations of bank deposits in large cities. He was said to have suggested the $15,000 earnings exemption on the theory that small companies, having difficulty in obtaining bank credit, might need all of the income for capital.

Favors "Cushions."

In setting forth the committee's "composite" proposal yesterday, Chairman Harrison asserted that he had been in favor of "cushions" against too severe corporate taxation from the start, and believed the committee's plan provided them. If it is adopted, he said, it would be unnecessary to legislate special treatment for debt-ridden or deficit companies. He said it is his idea that only the corporation income tax, and none of the surtaxes, shall apply to banks.

Although the committee took no record vote on elimination of processing taxes from the bill, the committee is said to have agreed to sidetrack them almost unanimously. Only one exception was made — sugar. In recommending processing taxes, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace had proposed a tax on the processing of sugar cane and sugar beets at the rate of half a cent a pound. This matter is still open.

"If this tax is levied," Wallace told the committee, "the total tax borne by sugar imported from Cuba, the principal foreign source of supply, including the import duty of 9 cents per pound of sugar, raw value, would amount to 1.4 cents per pound, as compared with the tariff rate of 2 cents per pound that prevailed for four years prior to June 9, 1934, the effective date of the Jones-Costigan act, and the tax on all other sugar, except the small amount imported from other foreign countries, would be 5 cents per pound.

The total estimated revenue from the excise and the duty is $102,000,000. Without this excise, the returns to the Treasury would be confined to receipts from import duties, estimated at $36,000,000 for the year 1936, which compares with an average of $76,000,000 in the three-year period 1931-1933."

Wallace further argued that unless the new sugar excise was levied, the growers' share of the net return from sugar would be reduced, and the processors' share increased, due to continuance of the suguar quota system.

The Treasury yesterday turned over to the committee an analysis of how companies earning more than $1,000,000 would be affected be the proposed House tax on undistributed earnings, on the basis of 1934 earnings. The revised Treasury figures showed that 776 corporations in this group would pay $437,699,049 in taxes, as against $284,456,138 under the 1934 law—an increase of $153,242,911.

Senator Byrd, at whose request the information was supplied, again pointed out that 278 large corporations, which paid out more than 75 per cent of earnings in dividends, would have their taxes cut from $138,017,237 to $26,052,353. Of this number, Byrd said 139 would pay no taxes.

Byrd criticized the tabulation, in that it showed that 75 corporations which paid no dividends in 1934 would have taxes bosted from $27,004,892 to $96,570,286. He said the Treasury had applied the maximum 4½ per cent rate to show this increase, and the Treasury had admitted that the maximum rate was not applicable in all cases.

CommitteePuts London Treaty Before Senate

Debate Expected Monday; Ratification Is Urged by Senator Pittman.

By the Associated Press.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee formally approved the London Naval Treaty yesterday and put it before the Senate for action Monday.

The pact was described variously, by Senators as a "step toward limitation" and as a measure so "full of holes it ought to be called the Swiss cheese treaty."

But Admiral William H. Standley and Norman H. Davis, delegates to last winter's conference in London at which the treaty was negotiated, said it was the best that could be worked out. Chairman Pittman (Democrat), of Nevada, of the Foreign Relations Committee predicted it would be ratified with little opposition.

The treaty provides that the signatory nations shall exchange information as to proposed new construction, and while it imposed no limitation on the number of ships that could be built, it attempted to limit the size and gun power of each type of ship. Escape clauses would permit all signatories to withdraw upon proper notification to the others.

Cites Two Safeguards.

Pittman looked upon it as providing two safeguards against nations becoming frightened into a naval race. One was the provision that the signatory nations, Great Britain, the United States and France, should exchange information as to their plans for naval building.

The other would, in effect, outlaw new types of construction as a means of preventing one nation springing a surprise type fighting ship on the others without due notice.

Specifically, Pittman said, it would prohibit a signatory nation from building in secret a "pocket battleship" such as were constructed by Germany, heavily armed, but falling within the tonnage limitations.

Statements of Davis and Standley made before the committee in executive session were given out by Pittman. In his statement, Standley frankly agreed that "we have brought back something that is disappointing," but both he and Davis felt they had accomplished something worthwhile.

The exchange of information, Standley said, would have the result of "lessening suspicion" among the nations.

Applies Till 1943.

The treaty, effective next January 1, would apply until January 1, 1943, subject to a conference to be called in 1940 by England.

"At the outset," said Davis in his statement, "I must state that there are two regrettable but unavoidable omissions in this treaty. One is that two of the Washington (1922) Treaty powers, Japan and Italy, have not yet signed it; the other is that this treaty does not provide for any reduction in total tonnage or for a continuance of the principal of quantitative limitation established by the two (1930 and 1922) treaties."

However, he said, in spite of that "we succeeded in negotiating a treaty which, while preserving in a modified but practical way the principle of naval limitation, contains new and important provisions which offset the omissions."

He said it contained no provisions which would be unfair to any of the nations which did not participate in drawing it up.

War and Liquor Stir Convention Of Methodists

By the Associated Press.

Columbus, Ohio, May 15.—Delegates to the quadrennial conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church pondered tonight recommendations for stern opposition to all wars, a renewed crusade against liquor and a "middle of the road" stand on social and economic questions.

A report submitted for consideration by the committee on state of the church advocated unreserved opposition to church participation "in any war" and urged Government control of the manufacture of munitions.

The statement on social problems was submitted by the same committee, after studying demands of the liberal Methodist Federation for Social Service that the church disavow the profit system in favor of a planned social economy, and of conservatives who called for a purge of radicalism.

Demand Peace Department.

The statement on world peace took no middle course but hammered down its unalterable opposition to all wars, with demands for establishment of a department of peace in the Government, of universal disarmament led by the United States, exemption of conscientious objectors in the church from military service, and student members from military training in college.

"Was, as we know it, is utterly destructive. It is the greatest social sin of modern times," the statement said. "Therefore we declare that the Methodist Church, as an institution, does not indorse, support or purpose to participate in any war.

"We petition the Government to grant members of the Methodist Episcopal Church who may be conscientious objectors to war the same exemption from military service as has long been granted to members of the Society of Friends and similar religious institutions."

Hammaker May Go Abroad.

Churchmen said they believed the committee on episcopacy would recommend the assignment of Dr. Wilbur E. Hammaker, of Youngstown, Ohio, one of the four bishops-elect, to Copenhagen, succeeding Bishop Raymond J. Wade, who was expected to replace Bishop F. D. Leete, who retired this year from the Omaha residence.

Chancellor Charles W. Flint, of Syracuse (N. Y.) University, another bishop-elect, was expected to succeed Bishop F. T. Kenney, of Atlanta, Ga., who retired because of the age limit.

Bishop-elect Alexander Shaw, of New Orleans, will replace retired Bishop Matthew W. Clair as Negro bishop at Covington, Ky. Bishop-elect G. Bromley Oxnam, or one of the bishops now serving in another area, will succeed Bishop Herbert Welch, who is retiring from the Shanghai, China, residence.

Russia's British Envoy Urges Parley on Peace

London, May 15 (AP).—Ivan M. Maisky, Russian Ambassador to Great Britain, suggested tonight a conference of "powers genuinely interested in the cause of peace" before Adolf Hitler's proposals for a new European security framework was discussed.

This conference, Maisky proposed, "might elaborate a common basis on which negotiations with Germany might be conducted." The Soviet envoy spoke before the Anglo-Russian parliamentary committee.

The Soviet Union wants to fortify the international body, Maisky asserted.

Scientists Hear Toronto Lecturer

True service has two sides, the Godward and the Manward side, Gavin W. Allan, C. S. B., of Toronto, Canada, said in a lecture on Christian Science last night in First Church of Christ Scientist.

"To regard religion solely as a means of comfort to oneself, without any obligation to comfort others, would be selfish," the lecturer said. "Religion has properly two sides—getting and giving; receiving and reflecting; hearing and doing."

The speaker said the parable of the Good Samaritan illustrated Jesus' own life of "unselfed service."

Disciples of Christ To Meet in West Va.

The Disciples of Christ in the Capital area will hold their fifty-ninth annual convention at Martinsburg, W. Va., on May 18, 19 and 20. The guest minister will be the Rev. C. M. Gordon, of Norfolk, Va., who will preach three sermons.

Mortals, Immortals Is Scientist Lesson

"Mortals and Immortals" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all the Churches of Christ, Scientist tomorrow. The text is from I Corinthians 2:11: "What man knoweth the things of a man, save the spirit of man which is in him? Even so the things of God knoweth no man, but the Spirit of God."

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "For there is one God, and one mediator between God and men, the man Christ Jesus;" (I Timothy 2:5). The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "In His resurrection and ascension, Jesus showed that a mortal man is not the real essence of manhood, and that this unreal material mortality disappears in presence of the reality."

Next Saturday there will be a garden party and dinner at the home of Dr. and Mrs. F. W. Ballou, 3117 Forty-fifth street northwest, for the benefit of the Ladies' Aid Association.

Chapel to Hold 'Family Festival'

The parishioners of St. Patrick's Chapel in Foxhall Village plan an unusual "Family Festival" for today to raise funds for the chancel furnishings of their new structure, already halfway completed.

A parade of dolls in the arms of their little owners will open the festival at 4 o'clock, and children who display the "smallest, oldest, largest, most comical, prettiest and the best-loved dolls" will be rewarded. They will be followed by an "Amateur Dog Show." Canines of all classes have been invited, even the ones who can boast "the most kinds of dog" in their pedigrees.

Besides carnival attractions, there will be a camera contest for amateurs, horseshoe pitching for boys and a prize cake contest for the ladies. The plans to provide interest for the entire family will be crowned by the serving of a barbecue supper, cooked out of doors.

How a Baby Grows

By Dr. Arnold Gesell, M. D.

The Second Three Months

Part Six

THE BABY COMES into Command of the Muscles Which Support His Head and Move His Arms. He Reaches for Things. In the three pictures below, the same growing baby is shown at three ages in the second three months of his life: 16 weeks, 20 weeks and 24 weeks. He is depicted as an individual beginning to enter into social relationship with other individuals about him. In the first picture, at 16 weeks, he laughs and responds to his mother's conversations with him. Next, at 20 weeks, he will turn his head at the sound of his mother's voice. And at 24 weeks, he begins to show increasing social regard for other individuals. TOMORROW: The Third Three Months, a Full Page of Pictures in the Rotagravure Section of The Sunday Post.

Kahns to Take Capital Group To Preakness

By Dudley Harmon.

Many of the same group of turf-minded Washingtonians who have been following the races at Warrenton, Louisville and Worthington Valley will go to Pimlico today for the Preakness stake, closing race of the Maryland season.

One of the largest parties scheduled to attend this afternoon is that organized by Mr. Stanley Kahn, New York publisher, visiting in the Capital at the Mayflower. Mr. and Mrs. Kahn have chartered a large bus for the occasion, in which they will take their guests to Pimlico and back. Included in the group are the Ambassador of Brazil, Mr. Oswaldo Aranha and Mr. and Mrs. Emil Hurja, who incidentally chose the winning horse at the Kentucky Derby in Louisville two weeks ago.

Others going in Mr. Kahn's bus are Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Wood Robert, jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Forbes Morgan. Mrs. Morgan has just returned to Washington from New York, where she attended the opening day at Belmont Park with Miss Kitty Carlisle, cinema star, who will also be in the party today.

Mme. de With, wife of the Minister of the Netherlands, and her sister, Mlle. Inez d'Obrenan, Senator and Mrs. Frederick Van Nuys, Mr. Karl A. Crowley, solicitor of the Postoffice Department; Mr. and Mrs. James Bruce Kremer, Mr. James Sauter, of New York, and Judge Joseph Jackson are others going in the Kahn party.

Mr. Smith Bowman, on whose Virginia estate the Fairfax Hunt Club is located, expects to go to Pimlico today with his son, Mr. Smith Bowman, jr. Mr. and Mrs. Reed Thomas are others from the Fairfax group who will watch the Preakness. Mr. Tinsley Garnett left yesterday for the Maryland race track wiht a group of friends from Boston, and Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Upson will also be present.

As the Maryland racing season draws to a close, and with Washington's largest horse show, the National Capital Horse Show, already a thing of the past, members of society will look to the Upperville Colt and Horse Show, scheduled to take place on June 11 and 12 at Upperville, Va. It goes without saying, Mr. and Mrs. John Hay Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Winmill, Mr. DeLancey Nichols, Rear Admiral Cary Grayson and Senator Harry Byrd will be among the exhibitors or spectators, as they all own estates and raise horses in the vicinity of Upperville.

Arts League Holds Celebration Tonight

Through the courtesy of Miss Mary L. Gildersleeve and Miss Mary B. Kerr, the Arts and Archaeology League of Washington will hold the twenty-second annual celebration at Gunston Hall this evening at 8:30 o'clock. Mrs. Mitchell Carroll, president of the league, will preside.

A reception will follow the illustrated lecture on the "Stage of Shakespeare and Modern Shakespearean Production" given by Mr. Will Hutchins, professor of art at American University. Mr. Hutchins will be presented to the league by Mr. Wade Ellis, president of the Archaeological Society of Washington.

The Misses Maret entertained last night in celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the Maret French School. The guests included the pupils of the schools, and the alumnae who were in Washington and their families.

The hostesses were assisted by Mrs. Margaret Zimmele, whose whose daughter, the late Miss Harriet Zimmele, was the first pupil.

After the reception a short musicale was presented by Mr. Francis Garziglia, director of music at the school, and his brother, Mr. Felian Garziglia. Later in the evening there was dancing and a buffet supper was served.

Miss Merrick, Mr. Hiltz Wed

Marriage Is Solemnized at Home of Bride in Westchester Apts.

The wedding of Miss Lavina Gray Merrick and Mr. John Philip Hiltz, jr., took place last evening at 8:30 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents, Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Henry Spencer Merrick, the Westchester Apartments, 3900 Cathedral avenue. The Rev. Joseph S. Loughran, pastor of the Cleveland Park Congregational Church, officiated.

The bride wore an ivory satin gown made on princess lines with a full train. The back, sleeves and De Medici collar were of lace. Her long tulle veil feel directly from a semi-halo head dress of shirred tulle. She carried a prayer book with a shower of lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Bernard L. Grove, jr., of Washington, a cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. Her gown, of peach net over taffeta, also made on princess lines, was trimmed with orchid velvet ribbon at the neck. She carried an orchid tafteta muff with peach-colored gladiolas and gardenias.

Mr. Samuel C. Wicks, jr., of Rutledge, Pa., was best man.

The ceremony was performed in the living room, before a lattice of baskets of white peonies and snapdragons, and white tapers on ether side.

The bride attended Miss Madeira's School at Greenway, Va., and Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh, Pa., and at present is attending George Washington University.

Mr. Hiltz is a graduate of Carnegie Institute of Technology.

Among the guests were Mrs. John Philip Hiltz, sr., of Baltimore, mother of the bridegroom, and his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Raffino Iula, also of Baltimore.

Mrs. Roosevelt Lists Program Of Social Week

'Ladies of the Senate' Are Entertained; Many Events Slated.

By Vylla Poe Wilson.

The early summer social season at the White House will be marked by variety, it was indicated by the schedule of entertainment for the next week announced by Mrs. Roosevelt at her press conference yesterday morning.

Yesterday Mrs. Roosevelt and the wives of members of the cabinet entertained at a picnic luncheon on the White House grounds. The guests were members of the "The Ladies of the Senate." The luncheon was in return for hospitality of "The Ladies of the Senate," who have entertained Mrs. Roosevelt and each of the Cabinet women at luncheon at the Capitol this season. "The Ladies of the Senate" were organized by Mrs. Thomas R. Marshall, wife of the war-time Vice President, for Red Cross service. It has been continued as one of the most interesting luncheon clubs in Washington. The wife of the Vice President is usually its president, and Mrs. John N. Garner, wife of the Vice President, holds that office now and was the chief guest of honor yesterday.

After the picnic, Mrs. Roosevelt entertained at a garden party for the women in executive position in the United States Government service. Later the members of the American Federation of Arts, now holding its convention in Washington, were guests at a garden party.

The garden party for the veterans in service hospitals in and near Washington will be held Thursday. President and Mrs. Roosevelt will receive the veterans and groups of Red Cross officials and workers, ranking members of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps medical departments and others whose work is concerned with the veterans in service hospitals. Among the groups at White House veteran garden parties are the volunteer workers in the hospitals. The Gray Ladies of Walter Reed include many women of social, official and diplomatic circles. The veterans' garden parties have been given annually at the White House since the days of the World War.

Today Mrs. Roosevelt will receive members of the Women's Democratic Club of Massachusetts and a group of women from Ohio accompanied by Senator Bulkley.

Miss Forester Becomes Bride Of J. B. Crane

Miss Sara Virginia Forester, daughter of Mrs. Hampton Nicholas Forester and the late Mr. Forester, of Sumter, S. C., yesterday became the bride of Mr. James Barton Crane, son of Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Barton Crane, this city. Dr. James Taylor, pastor of Central Presbyterian Church, performed the ceremony in the garden at the home of the bridegroom's parents.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Hampton Nicholas Forester, wore a white lace gown made with a jacket with flaring tapels and leg-of-mutton sleeved, tight from the elbow to the wrist. Her short full tulle veil was held to a coronet cap of lace. Her shower bouquet was of bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

Little Miss Joan Colladay, who was her flower girl, wore blue chiffon and carried a basket of spring flowers and rose petals.

The ceremony was performed in a flower-covered arbor in the garden and the decorations in the house were garden flowers.

Guests from out of town were Miss Irene Gentry, of Sumter; Mr. Douglas Silver, of New York City; Miss Anne Lemmon, of Sweet Briar College; Miss Betty Crane, sister of the bridegroom, who was home from Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa.; Mr. Gerald Mann, of Dallas, Tex., and Col. Paul Wakefield, of Austin, Tex.

The bridal couple left for New York City and from there go to Dallas for the opening of the Texas centennial as the special guests of the Texas Centennial Commisison, for which Mr. Crane is publicity director. They will be at home after July 1 in the Valley Vista Apartments, 2032 Belmont road.

Picnic Luncheon Given By Mrs. George Cook.

A unique picnic luncheon, followed by an afternoon of bridge, was given by Mrs. George Cook at her Emerson street residence Wednesday. At 1 o'clock the guests were invited to the dining room, where each received a gayly decorated basket containing the picnic luncheon which she carried into the garden, where the tables were arranged.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnando Larrea, of Havana, Cuba, are at the Shoreham on their wedding trip. Their wedding took place last week in Havana. Mrs. Larrea is the former Miss Gloria Mendoza.

Thrift Shop Frolic Scheduled Tonight

Two Dogs Added to Sale List for Charity.

Miss Nancy Leiter, chairman of the Thrift Shop junior committee, could not see the Frolics going on at Sulgrave Club tonight without a dog. In a corner lounge, in an especially built pen, two dogs will be sold to the highest bidder, the proceeds to help swell the fund for Washington's sick and convalescent children.

The terrace at the club, along the Dupont Circle side, is being transformed into a midnight beer garden, with tables under the gay awnings, shielded from the traffic by a picket fence. Here the plantation band will hold play during the late evening.

Hospital Benefit Scheduled Today

Bridge, Revue to Feature G. W. Board Program.

The garden party of the women's board of George Washington University Hospital will take place this afternoon. Bridge will start at 2 and will be followed by an international revue at 4:30, in which 17 foreign nations will take their part to raise funds to purchase a cardiograph machine for the hospital equipment.

Mrs. Gilbert Grosvenor is the head of the women's board.

If the weather is inclement this afternoon the party will be held on the first clear day.

For Love or Money

By ROB EDEN

Brenda Fayre, 22, has been hired by Walter Jason to play the part of "siren" in stock-selling schemes. Brenda is unable otherwise to provide a livelihood for her sister, Lally, who is confined to a wheelchair. She does not know that Jason and his partner, Ethel Rush, are selling worthless mining stock, but she suspects this is the case.

Brenda is not long in learning that Grace Ivar, stenographer who has been with Jason for some time, is convinced of the worthlessness of the stock he sells. Greatly perturbed at the predicament she has got into, Brenda returns home to find that Lally has invited a dinner guest, Val Sargent, their neighbor on the floor above, who is writing a novel. Lally had met Val when he had returned her runaway canary, Peter.

CHAPTER V.

The culprit Peter was quite satisfied with his adventure. It was the greatest he had ever attempted. Planning that had taken months of managing, of working the hinge on his cage loose in the first place, and then working loose the makeshift hairpin that replaced the hinge. After the little door was wide open, a flutter of his yellow wings and he was up in the air, a little dizzy, because he wasn't used to flying, but the courage in his heart amazing. The courage had lasted quite a while—until he had seen something to light on so he could rest a moment. The something was a balcony rail, and sitting near the something was a man who reached out big

"Often he found himself wishing that his bondage to Maizie would last longer than six months—that the small car he had sold had been a big one and that instead of taking six months to eat would take six years."

hands to take him. By that time Peter was winded, so he let himself be taken.

Peter from his cage on the table chirped a little note of thanks to the man because the big hands had been gentle, and he had been quite content in those big hands that had carried him from flat 619 of the Corwin down the stairs to flat 519 and back to his mistress.

The man was satisfied, too. It was good to be sitting here smoking with Maizie shut up upstairs, and agreeing to be shut up. Actually agreeing to his engagement for dinner. Not nagging him at all. Really purring with affability. The first time she had done that for a long time. And it was pleasant to be able to sit and talk about Maizie in a detached way, as if she were what she was, only a bit of writing, and not a flesh and blood person, as she had seemed to him for a long time.

For several years Maizie had been in his life, as long ago as 1930, when she had come to him suddenly and started buzzing around him. A year later Paul had come, and together they buzzed and buzzed, and when the buzzing got too bad he decided he should do something about it.

He probably would have only got that far if Maizie hadn't taken him in hand herself, for he was slow at making decisions himself, decisions that would affect his whole life. Maizie was not slow. She was quick and positive. Two months ago she had announced quite suddenly in the way she had that he must sell his car, take a leave of absence from his job at the Cameo Advertising Agency and start work on the book that was to be about her—and Paul.

Living on Nothing.

But for two months he had been living on $1.50 a day, including his cigarettes, eating up his car.

"The spare tires first," he said solemnly, looking at Lally and watching the twinkle in her eyes, "because I could still run without the spare tires. Next the bumpers, because they weren't necessary. Surprising how good bumpers are for your teeth. It's lucky, too, that Maizie only eats paper and typewriter ribbons."

The car had brought $600 in cash, and it was Maizie who whispered in his ear when she took him to the Corwin that he should pay six months' rent in advance, which was $240.

They, he and Maizie, had quarreled violently about the Corwin. He wanted to get a place in the country, some little shack or cabin in the woods, or a room in a farm house, but Maizie said no. She argued that he wouldn't work in the woods or in the country, that he would be out among the trees when he should be inside at his typewriter, and before he knew it the car would be devoured and her story would have to wait again—perhaps forever.

All he would have was a holiday—and she would have nothing. She wanted the Corwin, because there he wouldn't have anything to distract him, not even a view.

She it was who placed his typewriter so it faced a blank wall, the mottled living room wall of the Corwin, and she wouldn't even let him hang a print on the wall.

She it was who gave positive orders that he wasn't to give any of his friends his address. She was firm about that. She wouldn't let him have a telephone either. He didn't need one, did he, when he wasn't going to have his friends come to see him?

Still Maizie wasn't such a bad egg after all. Ten minutes before the yellow Peter had flown to his balcony rail, she had sent him out for a breath of air. Then when Peter was teetering back and forth on the rail, he had distinctly felt one of her fingers poking him in the ribs.

"That's the bird that belongs downstairs," she whispered. "You've heard it chirping, and you've heard the girl talk to it. The girl with the golden hair. Why don't you take it right back?"

Stay for Dinner.

Maizie didn't have to suggest a thing like that twice, when she knew that Chapter 15 was in there waiting at the typewriter.

Maizie had been most generous, too, when after the bird was returned, the cage repaired, and he was talking to Miss Fayre, Miss Fayre had suddenly asked him to stay to dinner.

With Chapter 15 still waiting upstairs, and the chart of his novel demanding it be finished today, Maizie shrugged her shoulders. That meant she didn't care whether he accepted Miss Fayre's invitation or not. So he accepted it with alacrity. With only Maizie, who was fashioned of white paper and black type, for companionship he got very lonely.

He knew, too, now that he should go back upstairs to the room that was identical to this one, even to the sagging springs on the couch, and the flowered pattern on the rug, but he didn't want to go. He wanted to stay and hear Lally Fayre's rippling happy laughter, and see the quiet laughter shining in Brenda Fayre's eyes.

"And you will finish the story of Maizie in three more months?" Lally asked.

"I should," he replied, "if I stick to my chart, and Maizie will make me stick. She's that kind."

"And then—what?"

"Then the car will be entirely devoured, and I shall go back to my job. It's waiting." Val crushed out his cigarette with a little more force than he usually did, even when he was angry at Maizie. He didn't like the idea of going back to the Cameo Advertising Agency. He didn't ever like to think about going back. Excello Razor Blades, and Buckingham Cigarettes, and Doctor George's Arch-Fit Shoes, and Scat—It Chases Away the Flies—and Morgan's Soothing Syrup, Your Great Grandmother Used It. He had lived with all of them every day for six years and thought about them a good deal during six years of nights. The day he left the agency he had heaved a sigh of relief.

Joked About Maizie.

He joked a good deal about Maizie—he had tonight. He pretended to loathe her at times, but he liked her infinitely better for a task-master than these accounts which the Cameo Agency had. Often he found himself wishing that his bondage to Maizie would last longer than six months—that the small car he had sold, had been a big one, a giant car, and that instead of taking six months to eat would take six years. Or that he was 20 again, instead of 28, and had those eight years still ahead of him.

He left at 10, reluctantly, but asked when he went if he could come again.

In the bedroom the girls heard his typewriter, while Brenda was giving Lally her nightly alcohol rub.

"He's so nice, dear," Lally sighed. "I really think he's one of the nicest persons I've ever met. Almost as nice as Roger was." Which was the highest compliment Lally could give any man. She had said that about only one other man, Dr. Pierce, who had operated on her at the Orthopedic Hospital two years ago, and had failed to make her walk.

Brenda agreed that Val Sargent had been a pleasant guest, and sent silent thanks upstairs to the clicking typewriter and the man who was spinning out his Chapter 15 for his presence tonight. Lally hadn't asked yet about the new job. She didn't, either. She fell sound asleep while Brenda was rubbing her.

Duchesse Tells How to Be Chic On Visit Here

By Hope Ridings Miller.

CHARMING, chic and youthful in appearance, the Duchesse de Chaulnes of Paris, on her first trip back to the United States in five years has, since her arrival, attracted much favorable attention in Washington society—both for her graciousness and her gowns.

The guest of Mrs. William Boyce Thompson on the latter's yacht, The Alder, which recently completed a Caribbean cruise and is now anchored off Hains Point, the Duchesse has been the guest of honor at numerous gatherings here the last few days.

Washingtonians remember her as Miss Theodora Shonts, daughter of Theodore Perry Shonts, chairman of the Panama Canal Commission under Theodore Roosevelt, and one-time president of the Metropolitan Street Railway Co. of New York. Friends (who still call the Duchesse "Tootsie") recall that she made her debut here; soon afterward she married the Duc de Chaulnes of France and went to live in her husband's native country, where she still makes her home with her 27-year-old son, now the Duc de Chaulnes.

Favors Exercises, Diet.

Yesterday, in an exclusive interview (the first, in fact, she has ever given in this country), the Duchesse was urged to tell how, at middle age, she has retained the slim, supple figure and firm face of youth. In reply she declined to reveal all her beauty secrets, but she did say that daily exercise, sensible diet and constant care of the skin would help almost any woman ward off the toll of the years.

On the subject of fashion she was more explicit. Divulging some of her ideas on smartness, she told something of why Parisian women have won wide acclaim as "the best-dressed women in the world."

Her own wardrobe—replete with creations from the famous French designer, Capt. Molyneux—is something to set feminine hearts aflutter.

The Duchesse, like most women noted in the realm of style, prefers black for street wear, and also has a number of black evening dresses in her wardrobe. "One of my favorite formal gowns is of filmy black lace, cut on simple lines (as are all of Molyneux' creations) and trimmed with white roses on the front," she said.

Fashionable Parisian women rarely go to the rainbow for inspiration in selecting any of their clothes, she said. "I, personally, like either black or white for street wear. For formal afternoon occasions or for evening, I sometimes wear a colored frock in some tone of mauve (a delicate purple, violet or lilac), my favorite shade."

Dress Is Deep Mauve.

One of her evening dresses is a deep mauve, almost violet. Another is of such a delicate lilac (it approximates dusty pink, while still another is figured in flowers that range in color from flesh to fuchsia.

"But, no matter whether my gown is black or white or some tone of mauve, it always is cut on the simplest lines and is perfectly matched with a bag, a hat, a handkerchief and gloves. Selecting accessories as carefully as the dress itself is, I think, one of the most important secrets of chic."

She explained that Molyneaux personally designs every one of his models to the most minute detail; that he follows style dictates of no other fashionist but cuts and drapes his creations according to his own ideas, with the result that other designers look to him for inspiration; that he usually works with soft, supple materials such as chiffon or crepe and is extremely successful with furs. The Duchesse's numerous gowns of supple cloth, a sable cape and a luxurious neckpiece, in her wardrobe bear the latter point.

Early yesterday afternoon, the duchesse—just returning from a luncheon—wore a stunning black crepe frock, with flowing accordion-pleated sleeves, a V-neckline and full skirt (also accordion pleated). Her black turban was trimmed with fuchsia velvet flowers spread flatly across the front and covered with a wisp of veil. Later, she donned a white crepe dress, with a pleated skirt and a simple blouse trimmed in crystal buttons. Her wide-brimmed hat was of mauve ballibuntl, banded with velvet of the same shade. With both ensembles the Duchesse wore black pearl ear-rings and exquisite bracelets.

Exemplifies Parisian Chic

THE DUCHESSE DE CHAULNES, one of the most charming Parisians to visit Washington this year, has a wardrobe that would set any feminine heart a-flutter.

MARY HAWORTH'S MAIL

How to Meet "The Right People," Socially, Is Problem of Girl Attending Famous School Here.

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My family and I have been here two years and I have been fairly happy in one of the city's most famous schools. However, the work is difficult and occasional week-end diversion would be welcome relaxation. I have had a sufficient number of dates to ease that constraint inevitably experienced when one first comes into a new community and a new social group, but the majority of persons with whom I have gone out socially have not been the sort I would choose to keep as permanent friends.

• • • •

It is difficult to come into a new town with no one to guide you and select the right sort of friends, particularly boy friends. By the "right sort" I mean the boy who is nice in himself and whose family background is good. My friends in school are from Washington's best families, and many of them have made their debuts, but apparently it is not considered the thing here to take one's classmates on blind dates.

• • • •

I am not the most popular girl at school, but certainly not the most unpopular. Frankly, I am considered attractive by my friends, dress well and am good company. I have high ideals and am discriminating in regard to the company I keep. When I go out I like to have a good time, not wild and reckless, and half the fun is in being able to contribute to my escort's enjoyment.

• • • •

I am only 16 but, being an only child, I have naturally been thrown in with older people and have had a little more social experience than the average girl of the same age. I enjoy going with boys who are 19, 20 or 21, nice looking, not necessarily handsome, and who have strong character and definite personality. I neither smoke nor drink, but I don't mind seeing boys drink—if they know when to stop.

• • • •

Probably this all seems very complicated to you, but how am I to meet the type of persons I want to associate with? Unfortunately, my parents cannot help me. I would appreciate any suggestions. Sincerely, LOST.

Like Attracts Like.

DEAR LOST: The best approach to meeting the type of persons one wishes to associate with is to take care to make of one's self that sort of person. It has been said, and with truth, that like attracts like. Between individuals there is very definitely an affinity of kind to kind. Since the school you are attending is presumably a girls' school, you might make it a point to cultivate those graces of mind and manner, of deportment and appearance, which characterize those schoolmates you would care to know best and whose friends you would choose to have for your friends. At 16 you can well afford to devote the next two to four years to intelligent intensive cultivation of yourself and of girls who are in a position to introduce you into the social circles in which you aspire to move.

• • • •

May I suggest, however, that you carefully refrain from seeming to be too eager in your quest for friends among the so-called "right people." Don't make the mistake of labeling yourself a snob and a social climber by pointedly cultivating only those girls whose popularity places them in a position to aid you socially. Be natural, unassuming, gracious and poised. Try to like your associates for what they represent in themselves, completely divorced from their backgrounds. That is the only basis for lasting friendship and genuine, sympathetic affection.

• • • •

If you are the sort of girl who is destined through her own personality and essential social fitness to grace an enviable position in life, inevitably you will find yourself eddied into that position through a series of casually interlocking circumstances. There is no need to do anything more than be your honest best self. M. H.

Pleasant HOMES

By Elizabeth MacRae Boykin.

"MY TEEN AGE daughters, aided and abetted by their father, insist that I 'snap' up our living room. Not being a very 'snappy' person, I appeal to you for advice. We'll have to work mostly with colors, and the work will have to be done at home as we're hard up! It's not an interesting room now . . . the walls are the usual ivory, the rug brown, the sofa rust with two chairs to match. Since the furniture coverings are shabby, we can have them all done over in a fresher material. We can also get new wall paper. We will get new draperies and curtains, one new lamp and one new easy chair. What would you suggest? We will keep the rug."

We're not a very snappy person either, but we do love nice colors and we're always ready to have our say. Why not have the walls papered in a luscious shade of tourquoise blue—that would be very good with a brown rug. Then have the sofa in a fresh crisp flower pattern with brown welting; have two chairs in coral and one in pale yellow . . . all with brown welting too. The draperies would be pretty in the flowered material over pale yellow glass curtains. A white lamp would be our choice . . . and a flowered tea set on a little low table.

Send a stamp for Miss Boykin's bulletin "How to Make a Slip Cover That Won't Wrinkle or Bag." It contains explicit directions for a tailored cover, along with samples of suggested types of materials . . . it is five pages long.

Women of Mexico To Get in Public Life

Whether Mexican women want it or not, they are going to take an active part in Mexico's public life. The Government recently commissioned Margarita Robles de Mendoza, leading Mexican feminist, to attempt to organize the women of her country. Optimistic about the task she has already begun, she said women of Mexico will soon be the equal of men in civil, social, economic and political standing.

Avoid Divorce For Its Effect Upon Children

By Alice Clarissa Richmond.

MR. AND MRS. JONES had a shattering quarrel—an unusual occurrence in a home which was, as a rule, happy and united. The difference lasted for some days, and was so fundamental that they actually played with the thought of divorce.

In the end, however, their good sense and very real affection for each other, as well as their inborn respect for marriage, prevailed, and the household once more settled on an even keel.

The only sign of trouble left was the effect on thier eldest child. From being a healthy, happy girl, she became weepy and nervous, and hung about her parents like a homeless puppy.

It was some time before they found out that she had overheard some of their arguments, and her sense of security had suffered a devastating blow. She was haunted by the fear of losing her parents or her home, lay awake nights worrying about it, and was afraid to let them out of her sight lest they get a divorce in her absence.

No matter how happy a marriage, there is bound to be a period of adjustment. During the early years especially there will be occasional disagreements, and in this day of easy and frequent divorces, the thought of separation may enter the mind of husband or wife. But to play with the idea and use it as a threat is like playing with fire or explosives. It may lead to the very crisis which one would prefer if possible to avoid, and it is certainly not good to give the children such a light view of the permanence of marriage.

It is the children who suffer. They sense and hear far more of these domestic difficulties than is good for their nerves. The bogey of diverce should as far as possible be kept out of their lives.

City Club Giving Tea for Newcomers

Affair Announced for Tomorrow at Clubhouse.

A tea for newly elected members of the Women's City Club wil be given at the clubhouse tomorrow. Miss Jessie Dell will represent Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley, new president, assisted by Mrs. Gladys Ball Middlemiss, first vice president; Miss Florence C. Bell, recording secretary, and the following newly elected board members: Mrs. John S. Mrs. Margaret Deegan, assisted by Mrs. Marie Clark, held a card party Thursday night for the benefit of the Moosehaven chapel fund.

The social service committee, Mrs. Louise Schalacter chairman, assisted by Mrs. Margaret Bates, held a dance at Moose Hall last night. The next meeting of the chapter, Friday, will be observed as memorial night.

Druggist Auxiliary.

The woman's organization of the National Association of Retail Druggists will have as its final meeting of the season a picnic party at Hains Point Wednesday. Mrs. Herbst, president, will receive the guests. Mrs. T. A. Moskey has charge of the arrangements.

Smooth Sailing for a Bon Voyage Party

New Note Struck in Pre-Voyage Parties

GIVING a good send-off to a lucky friend who is going on an ocean trip calls for a gay party with a nautical atmosphere in the table decorations that will heighten the anticipation of the traveler. The hostess who introduces a new note in such a party not only adds an extra thrill to the expected voyage but gives her stay-at-home guests a share in the preliminary excitement. A table centerpiece that carries out the bon voyage theme in an original way represents the porthole of a ship with "windows" made of cellulose film through which is seen a miniature ocean liner on realistic waves. The frame of the decoration is easily fashioned from two cardboard rings, covered with gold paper, which are set upright and braced apart with wires. The seascape is constructed inside the porthole, the boat being made of white paper and the "briny deep" from crushed blue and green film.

To make the centerpiece, construct the frame first. Cut two cardboard circles 16 inches in diameter with a center hole 11 inches in diameter, making each ring 2½ inches wide. With transparent Scotch tape, secure No. 15 wire circles flat against one side of the rings for reinforcement. To hold the two rings apart, cut five wires 9 inches long and bend them at right angles 2 inches on each end. The 2-inch parts of two wires are taped to the rings, 3 inches apart, for a standing base. Another wire is taped af the center top. The remaining two provide the water line, when fastened at the sides a little below center and directly opposite. Two pieces of spool wire tied one-half inch apart, between these wires, are used as a rest for the filmy waves and to attach the steamer. Next, the inside of the cardboard rings is covered with gold paper with one-half inch extra lapped to front. Two circles of clear cellulose film 18 inches in diameter are then placed across the inside of the frames, with edges lapped to front and secured with the gummed tape.

Now for the ocean. Crush a sheet of light blue film very full over a slightly crinkled sheet of light green film, and lay over the wires that make the water line, fastening with gummed tape. To create the illusion of ocean depth, cover the sides next to the "windows" with the slightly crushed blue and green film.

For the ocean liner, cut a one-piece paper pattern from a double thickness of paper, with fold coming at bottom of ship, in the following dimensions: 5⅛ inches from port to stern, 1⅛ inches high at center, and graduated at each side in two steps to simulate decks so that it is ⅜ inch high at each end. The ends slant and are indented to make the keel, the bottom being 4¼ inches long. Open up the pattern and cut the boat from strong white paper. Fold into position, tape the ends together and cover the lower part with black cellulose film. The smokestacks are made from three pieces of white matstock 1¾ by 1¼ inches, formed into tubes and banded at the top with ¼-inch red Scotch tape. Two tiny flags of this tape are then hoisted on wire mast and the liner is ready to be fastened to the two pieces of spool wire at the water line.

Finally, the 5½-inch space between the portholes is covered with clear transparent film, gold paper circles are glued to the outside of the cardboard rings, and six-sided pieces of black film are added to simulate rivets.

Appropriate favors may be made by covering paper nut cups with crushed blue and green film, and decorating them with gold paper anchors and ropes of braided red Scotch tape.

Marshmallow Recipes Wanted in Contest

Housewives find that marshmallows are a precious cooking ingredient, for they add an elusive sweetness and a delightful quality to many dishes. Frozen desserts become smoother and more tempting when marshmallows have been used as a base, frostings become fluffier and more "stand-uppish," and vegetables—sweet potatoes especially—are greatly enhanced when marshmallows top their golden loveliness.

There must be hundreds of ways in which marshmallows are used in the housewife's kitchen, and next week The Post is requesting these recipes. Cash awards will be given to the five women submitting the best recipes which include marshmallows as a main ingredient. The first prize will be $5; the second, $3, and the three remaining prizes, $1 each.

To enter this contest merely write out your favorite recipe which includes marshmallows and send it to Dorothea Duncan, of The Washington Post. Be sure to mail your recipe in time to reach this office not later than next Saturday.

Petworth Women's Club Units Meet This Week

The educational section, Petworth Woman's Club, will meet tomorrow at 8 p. m. with Mrs. George Mehlfelt, Mrs. Oscar Nelson and Mrs. J. S. Rogers as hostesses. The program for next year will be planned. The philanthropic section will meet at 12:30 p. m. Tuesday at the home of the chairman, Mrs. Mildred S. Kimball, 4101 Illinois avenue northwest. She will be assisted by Mrs. J. E. Cribbs and Mrs. Lucy S. Hall.

The civics section will meet Thursday at 1 p. m. at No. 10 picnic grove, Sixteenth and Kennedy streets northwest. The program for 1936-1937 will be formulated.

Cercle Visits Campus.

The Cercle des Precieuses Ridicules was received on Wednesday evening by Mlle. Margaret T. Herring, at her home in Hyattsville, and proceeded to the University of Maryland, where they were guests of Dr. William F. Falls, of the French department. A French play produced by students was presented. Following the play refreshments were served.

Tender Steak Needs Broiling Over Slow Fire

Charred Exterior Is Often Result of High Temperature.

IN ONE of his stories O. Henry, the famous writer, whimsically described the proper method for broiling a steak in this manner: "Simply place the steak in your pocket," said he, "and walk slowly through a red-hot kitchen. Then by the time you reach the other side the steak will be done."

Temperature has always been an important factor in broiling steaks. Years ago the accepted view seemed to be that a high temperature was necessary to broil a good steak, but now this theory has been completely changed, and this change is thoroughly justified, for a lower temperature produces a more evenly done, juicy steak without having the charred and sometimes burned exterior so often the result of a very high temperature.

Broiling Made Easy.

Not only is a more satisfactory steak produced by low-temperature broiling, but it is much easier, since only one turning is necessary. The steak is placed far enough from the flame or heating element that by the time it is nicely browned on top it will be half done; then it is seasoned with salt and pepper, turned and allowed to broil until done.

The temperature may be controlled in two ways, by placing the steak the proper distance from the heat, or by reducing the heat itself. If the oven regulator is turned to "high," the steak should be placed so that the top of it is at least 3 inches from the flame or heating element. In case it is necessary to place the steak closer to the heat, then reduce the amount of heat in proportion.

Use Tender Steak.

To make a satisfactory broiled steak, the steak, of course, should be a tender one in the beginning. Steaks which are suitably cooked by this type of coo'ing are porterhouse or T-bone, club or Delmonico and sirloin steaks. These should have a good fat covering over the outside and plenty of marbling; that is, plenty of fat flecked throughout the lean.

It is better to have a steak cut thick for broiling, one inch or even more, even if it means choosing one smaller in area, for then the outside can be nicely browned while the inside is juicy and evenly rare if that is the way you prefer. A steak one inch thick at the lower temperature requires approximately 15 minutes for broiling; a steak 1½ inches thick requires 20 to 25 minutes for broiling to the medium stage.

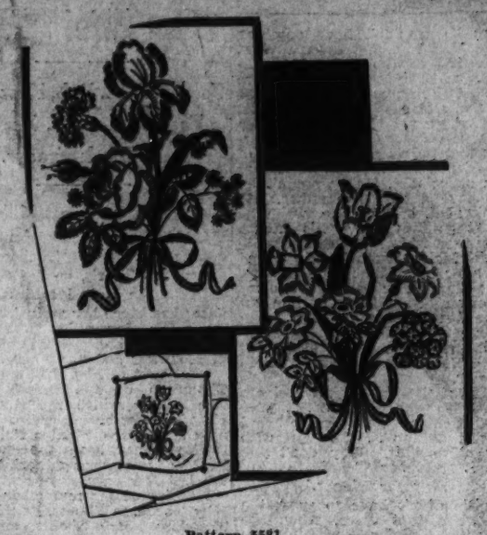
Ground beef also may be broiled with complete satisfaction. It may be molded into the shape of a porterhouse steak and broiled in exactly the same way and at the same low temperature.

Zonta Club President Names Her Chairmen

The Zonta Club met for its weekly luncheon meeting Wednesday at the Y. W. C. A., Miss Mabel Strider, president, in the chair. The committee chairmen recently appointed by the president are as follows: Program—Mrs. Lois Dowdle Cobb; fellowship and attendance, Mrs. Stella Whiting; publicity, Mrs. Emily G. Dickinson; inter-city, Miss Mary Lindsley; public affairs, Miss Alice Terrell; membership and classifications, Miss Esther Gude.

Capt. Thomas M. Rives, superintendent of the District Jail, spoke. Dr. Carrie Weaver Smith, the new director of the National Training School for Girls, will be the speaker for the next meeting.

Flower Patterns Are Brilliant For Use in Cushions, Pictures



Pattern 5581.

By Alice Brooks.

COLORFUL IRIS, delicate phlox and golden daffodils! It's easy to have glorious flower gardens all year 'round on gay cushions or brilliant wall pictures. You'll be surprised how "dressed up" your home will appear with only a few new "touches." It's fascinating to see the flowers grow under your needle in rope silk or wool.

In pattern 5581 you will find a transfer pattern of two pictures each 10¼ by 14 inches; color suggestions; illustrations of all stitches needed; material requirements.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to The Washington Post Household Arts Department, 259 W. Fourteenth street, New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and pattern number.

Rowac Club Elects.

President, Mrs. Thomas W. Gosling; vice president, Mrs. William S. Hepner; recording secretary, Mrs. Maurice Reddy; corresponding secretary, Mrs. William De Kleine; treasurer, Mrs. J. C. Smith; director to the District of Columbia Federation of Women's Clubs, Mrs. Walter Davidson.

Porch Easily Made Summer Retreat

Glassed In, It Makes Second Winter Living Room.

Make your porch a gay, charming place for summer mealtime hours and cool, pleasant summer evenings, advises Lurelle Guild, decorator, in June Pictorial Review. If you can't do it yourself a carpenter will put up trellis strips and shelvings against the wall for you.

The smartest chairs are wrought iron, upholstered in waterproof material, and the smartness of white for summer furnishings is definitely established and undisputed. With white as a foil, the newest and clearest of blues makes a perfect color accent. Remember there is economy in having the best of materials to withstand summer sun and sudden driving rains.

At the end of the summer there is no need to beat a retreat from the porch. Glass it in, make it a veritable "second" living room and keep the gayety of summer all year. Even the potted plants can be kept as a cheerful note in the transformed winter porch.

Learn to Read Palms

"A LONG LIFE LINE and one marriage," Jean is telling Alec as she scans the lines and mounts in his palm.

"You have a strong head line and perseverance."

Alec grins, flattered in spite of himself.

"Can't you look a little harder and find me a huge fortune left by an unknown relative in South Africa?" he chuckles.

"You don't need any rich relatives; you have the kind of hand that gets ahead without help," Jean assures him.

Together they pore over a little book of Jean's, full of charts of palms, with lines plainly marked and the "mounts" or high spots on the palm clearly explained.

For centuries people have attached a meaning to the marking of palms and have chuckled and speculated over the traits shown in their hands.

There's no surer way to make a party go over with a bang, or pep up a charity party or bazaar, than to fix up a corner for a palmist.

It's not hard to pick up the main principles by which palms are read. Our 40-page illustrated booklet, "Palmistry and Astrology," makes the whole subject clear. Become the popular wizard of your set with a little ready skill in hand-reading. Learn the meaning of "chains," "stars," "triangles," "mounts" and all the mystic lore of the palmist.

Send 15 cents for our booklet, "Palmistry and Astrology," to The Washington Post, Home Institute, 109 West Nineteenth street, New York, N. Y. Write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

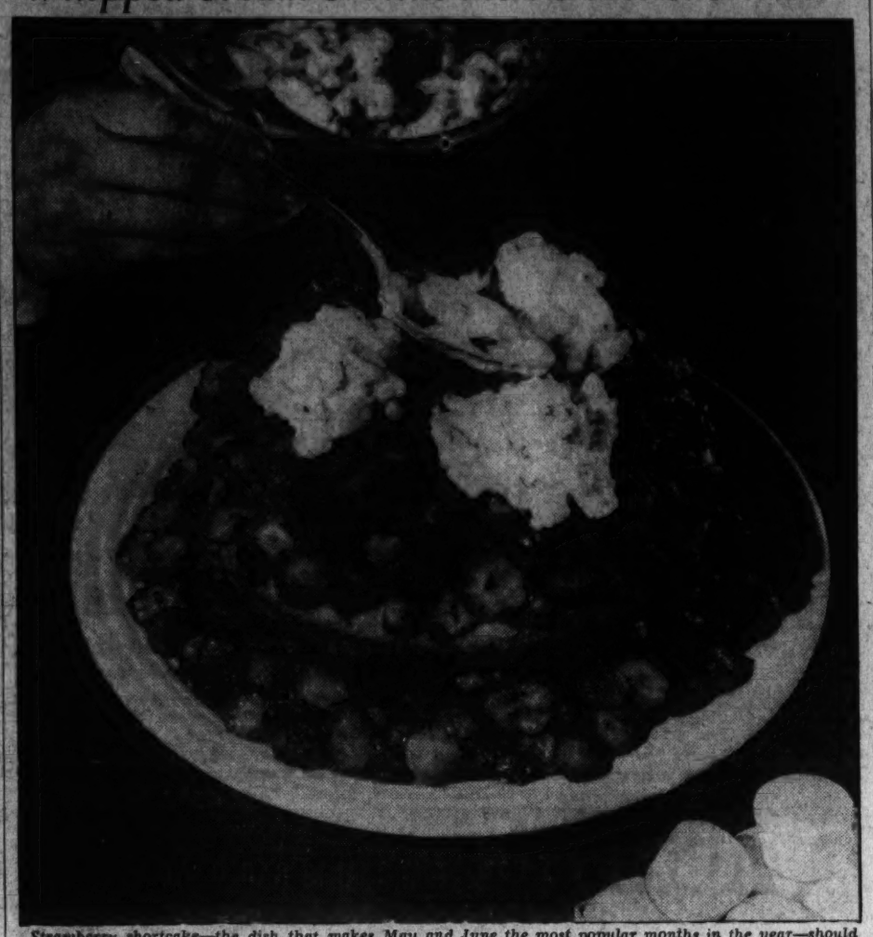
Whipped Cream Crowns the Perfect Shortcake



Strawberry shortcake—the dish that makes May and June the most popular months in the year—should always look just like this. Two layers of tender, crunchy dough that is light as a feather put together while hot with softened butter and crushed, red ripe sweetened berries, and more berries on top. If you want the whipped cream topping graced with poise read the new hint in the accompanying story.

Marshmallow Whipped Cream Helps Strawberry Shortcake

Old-Fashioned Recipe Used by Grandmother Hardly Can Be Improved, but Topping May Be Bettered.

AS LONG AS STRAWBERRIES have been growing red, ripe and luscious in the Nation's gardens each spring, so long has strawberry shortcake been considered the most popular dessert of the season! An old-fashioned shortcake—tender, semicrunchy and light as a feather, a shortcake put together while hot with "dripping" sweet strawberries, a shortcake topped with whipped cream—belongs to spring as much as do blushing brides and roses!

However, if you were to try and improve upon grandmother's shortcake, just where would you begin? Could you wish for a more delicious shortcake foundation than hers? Could you find bigger and better strawberries than she used to use? No? Then you'll probably agree with us that there's only one thing left to be desired, and that one thing is a whipped cream topping which will not only stand up and hold its own on the shortcake but one which will lend a new-fashioned note of festivity, of delicacy, of "something different."

Strawberry Shortcake.

2 cups general purpose flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
2 tablespoons sugar
¾ teaspoon salt
½ cup shortening
1 egg (beaten)
2-3 cup milk (approximately)
¼ cup butter (softened)
2 quarts fresh strawberries (crushed, sweetened and slightly warmed)

Mix and sift together all dry ingredients. Cut in the shortening. Add egg and milk, mixed together, and blend lightly with a fork. Place half the dough in a greased cake tin. Brush with butter and cover with second part of dough. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) 18 to 20 minutes. While hot, split shortcake and spread generously with softened butter and crushed strawberries. Top with strawberries and garnish with marshmallow whipped cream.

Marshmallow Whipped Cream.

1 packette (¼ pound) marshmallows, cut in small pieces.

Whip cream until stiff. Fold in the marshmallows, cut in small pieces; then chill one to two hours. Place spoonfuls of this mixture on top of shortcake and then place one large, unstemmed strawberry in the center of each spoonful of marshmallow whipped cream.

Sounds luscious, doesn't it? But just wait 'till you serve a marshmallow whipped cream shortcake to the family or to your recipe-seeking lady friends! You'll find that the marshmallows, besides adding a desirable new perkiness and flavor to the whipped cream, add volume to the mixture as well; you'll find that you can actually "cut down" on the amount of whipped cream ordinarily demanded by the strawberry shortcake imbiber.

Dried Beef Good For Spring Lunch To Bride-to-Be

Spring, with all the gayly colored flowers and bright sunshine, is the best time of all the year to give a luncheon for your friends, perhaps for a bride-to-be, or for the club get-together. And for the spring luncheon you will never make a mistake if you serve dried beef, with a combination salad of tender spring vegetables, and a seasonal dessert, such as strawberry shortcake or a fresh peach tart.

The dried beef may be served in any number of ways. Creamed and served in a baked potato half which has had enough of the center scooped out to make a cup is one of the favorite ways. Or the creamed dried beef is frequently served inside a noodle or bread dressing ring, and always scores a hit.

Even when creamed you may want to crisp the dried beef first. If so, simply heat it in butter until the edges curl, then add it to a cream sauce and season with a bit of paprika and a few small button mushrooms.

CONSTIPATED* 25 YEARS, ALL-BRAN BROUGHT RELIEF

Delicious Cereal Corrected His Condition

Here is Mr. Johnson's letter: "I got a package (of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN), and before the package was gone I was very much better.

"So I have been eating it for two or three weeks, and my constipation* has gone, and I was constipated* for 25 years or more. Hoping this may help some one to better health. I am a new friend to Kellogg's ALL-BRAN."—Mr. J. B. Johnson, Lake Charles, La.

Mr. Johnson's letter is one of many. Millions find Kellogg's ALL-BRAN corrects constipation* satisfactorily. It supplies the "bulk" missing in the average American meal.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is mild and effective. It absorbs moisture, and gently exercises and cleanses the intestines. ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B and iron.

Isn't it more sensible to use this natural food instead of taking patent medicines? Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily. If not relieved, see your doctor.

Use as a cereal, with milk or cream, or cook into muffins, breads, etc. It is sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Tasty Sandwiches Help to Hostess

The popular hostess is one who knows how to make good sandwiches. They should be tasty and flavorsome, especially if beer, highballs or ginger ale are served with them.

Meat or cheese—Cream a little dry mustard with the butter and spread this on the bread.

Baked beans—Mash cold baked beans and season with 3 tablespoons chili sauce or 1 teaspoon prepared mustard. Good on any kind of bread.

Tomato—Season thoroughly with salt and black pepper. Spiced meats and bologna are snappy additions.

Women Called Most Exacting In Criticisms

WOMEN'S most severe critics are other women—rather than men, according to a paper read at a recent meeting of the Association of Consulting Psychologists, by Dr. E. Lowell Kelly, of Connecticut College.

Basing his conclusions on a series of experiments in which personality ratings for 11 women were worked out by both men and women, Dr. Kelly discovered that women tend to be more critical in judging their sisters than men are.

"The four traits on which women are rated significantly different by male and female raters are honesty, boisterousness, sincerity and tact," Dr. Kelly said. "Here we find men rating women as more honest, quieter, more sincere and more tactful than do women. Other suggested differences are as follows: Men tend to rate women as more religious, more punctual, more courteous, more graceful, more patient, better sports, less vain, more tolerant and less selfish than do women.

"We also find women tend to rate men as more patient and more tolerant. In general we may say that the differences indicate a tendency for each sex to be more critical in rating others of the same sex, this tendency being more pronounced in the case of women than of men. Even today, it would seem that men are still somewhat chivalrous in their judgments of the female sex."

Additional information on these and other examinations may be obtained from Civil Service Commission, Seventh and F streets northwest.

General Accounting Office branch of Local No 2, N. F. F. E., will hold its monthly meeting at 8 p. m., Tuesday, in Suite 604, 710 Fourteenth street northwest, according to Mary L. Giordano, president.

Index of American Design.

The compilation of an index of American design is being undertaken by the WPA Federal Art Project, Holger Cahill, (F) director. The object is a series of portfolios of accurate, documented, black-and-white and colored drawings and photographs of objects in the decorative, applied, and folk arts. Special attention will be given to recording material of historical significance not heretofore studied and in danger of being lost, and to gathering a body of traditional material that will serve as a basis for American design. Indian arts and crafts material already illustrated elsewhere will not be included. Only materials of earlier periods than the twentieth century will be included. The work is being done as part of existing project units under the Federal Art and Writers' Projects and local WPA projects.

Gilbert Hyatt, legislative representative of the National Federation of Post Office Clerks and vice president of the Minnesota State Society, is in charge of the reception committee for the society's anniversary celebration Monday night at the Washington Club. Mr. Hyatt invites all Minnesotans in Government service to attend the dance and entertainment which will begin at 9.

Election Next Wednesday.

The annual election of officers for the District of Columbia Federation of Federal Employes Unions, originally announced for last Wednesday, will be held next Wednesday at the local headquarters of the National Federation of Federal Employes at 710 Fourteenth street northwest.

L. Zaff Rogers (P), Treasury, is reported to be a candidate for the position of secretary-treasurer. Previously, the incumbent, Miss Grace Reardon, War, had been reported as unopposed.

Mrs. Helen Roberts (F), Division of Accounts, Bureau of Public Roads, was honored by her office associates at a luncheon at the Willard Hotel yesterday, marking her transfer to Social Security Board. Frank P. Alexander (C), lauded Mrs. Roberts' genial disposition and presented her with a fitted week-end case on behalf of the bureau employes.

AAA Payments Explained.

Q. Under the present AAA setup, what are some of the things for which farmers are being paid by the Government?—George B. Conrad (P).

A. According to George E. Farrell, director of the Western Division of the AAA, practices for which farmers may receive payment under the 1936 agricultural conservation program vary from State to State. They include new seedings of legumes and grasses, the plowing under of green manure crops, the planting of forest trees, the eradication of perennial noxious weeds, and, in certain areas, a variety of special soil-handling methods such as listing strip cropping and fallowing, terracing, or approved summer fallow. In addition, farmers in certain dry-land areas have the option of substituting some of the practices for acreage of soil-conserving crops.

Italy Raises Police Fund.

Rome, May 15 (AP).—An increase of 3,000,000 lire ($240,000) for secret political police was granted by a governmental decree published in the Official Gazette today. The decree said there was "urgent and absolute necessity" for an increase in the political police appropriation.

On The Air Today

Phil Baker and his "Great American Tourist" mythical tour finally makes a "visit" to Washington tomorrow at 6:30 p. m., WJSV. Commissioner George Allen has a telegram ready to send to the accordion-playing comedian and much material has been forwarded by the Greater National Capital Committee to the production gentlemen in charge of the show so that the Capital may be honored properly.

So that WJSV can be spared answering innumerable telephone calls, I hasten to explain that the show is staged in New York and the trip is entirely fanciful. No part of it will originate in Washington studios.

• • • •

That fellow "Professor Quiz," who made his first bow last Saturday night at WJSV, is one showman who says "come on down to the studio and see the show." In other words, for the Professor's "class meeting" you are very cordially invited to be present while he interrogates his "pupils," and if you would like to become one of the Professor's contestants, just telephone WJSV and ask that your name be placed on the list of applicants and you will have an opportunity at an early date. You may win a prize, too. The fun takes up Saturday nights, at 8:30.

Features today:

"Pop" concert: With Conductor Athur Fiedler, WMAL, at 7:30.

"Green Mountain Boys:" Program observing 161st anniversary of the capture of Fort Ticonderoga, WJSV, at 2:30.

Candle Ceremony: Traditional Northwestern University affair, WRC, at 7.

Clem McCarthy: Describes the Preakness at Pimlico. WMAL devotes four hours of its afternoon time to the Pimlico race card, beginning at 2.

Metropolitan: "Carmen" is first of Popular Season operas, WRC, at 1:30.

Those who produce "Gang Busters" series, under direction of Phillips H. Lord, are not much upset by the statement earlier in the week by J. Edgar Hoover that Lynn Allen, the soda clerk, was not responsible for the capture of Thomas H. Robinson, jr. In a new handout from the sponsors of the program Allen is credited with the effecting of the arrest. Without going into all the details in the announcement, it is made quite clear that Allen's contact with Pasadena police "led to the kidnaper's arrest."

• • • •

True to the tradition of Broadway and the stage, Phil Baker comes to the aid of a fellow trouper tonight and pinch hits for Fannie Brice on the "Ziegfeld Follies of the Air" show, WJSV, at 7. Baker will bring Bottle and Beetle with him. Last Saturday night Lou Holtz filled for Miss Brice, who is out of the cast temporarily because of illness. Holtz had only six hours' notice in filling the spot.

• • • •

Rugged masculinity asserts itself tonight, when the Association for the Prevention of Taking Off Hats in Elevators is founded at the National Press Club. Both WMAL and WJSV will carry the proceedings, and the movement will be broadcast far and wide over the country through the respective networks. Among those expected to be heard are Albert Warner (New York Herald-Tribune), referred to as "Professor" and a Fellow of the Society for Introspective atnd Philosophical Inquiry; Sir Willmott Lewis, Washington correspondent for the London Times, and Senator Sherman Minton, of Indiana. Time, 10 p. m.

$2,240 Asked To Continue Texans' Trial

Blanton Gathers More Data to Defend Cut in Lump Sum.

While Representative Thomas L. Blanton was busy yesterday gathering more data to defend the House slash of $3,000,000 from the Federal contribution to the District, the Budget Bureau submitted a deficiency estimate of $2,240 to carry on a trial of seven Texans in District Supreme Court.

The trial, which already has lasted 28 days and threatens to continue another fortnight, concerns an alleged fraud in a PWA canal irrigation project in Willacy County, Tex. William Harding and six other persons are defendants.

Although the case has not the remotest connection with municipal affairs of Washington, a District appropriation is requested because the trial is depleting the court funds.

The trial is so long drawn out that it has 14 jurors instead of the usual 12, the two extra serving as alternates.

Needed for Hotel Bill.

The $2,240 is needed to pay for meals and lodging of the jurors at the Continental Hotel, the Budget Bureau stated, the expense being $56 a day.

"The amount alloted under the existing appropriation for meals and lodging for jurors for the entire fiscal year is $910," the budget report stated, "and there has been expended up to the present $402.95, leaving a balance of only $507.05, which will be required for other cases before the close of the fiscal year."

Blanton contends that the people of Texas should not have to contribute to the expenses of the National Capital.

District affairs were discussed at a closed conference between Blanton and Commissioners George E. Allen and Col. Dan I. Sultan in the District Building.

The conference was held for almost an hour in the office of Commissioner Melvin C. Hazen, who was at home nursing a carbuncle. At its conclusion, Blanton announced he had invited the Commissioners to attend the Texas Centennial celebration as his guests.

Silent on Discussion.

"Oh, we gassed about several matters," Blanton said. Both Commissioner Allen and Col. Sultan said the Texan, had not sought to commit them to any action and they felt whatever announcement was made about the conference should be made by Blanton.

Blanton asked for the conference shortly after 3 p. m. Commissioner Allen was away on an inspection trip, but hurried back to attend. When he telephoned for the appointment the Texan is understood to have said he desired to discuss a matter of great importance to the District.

The discussion covered a wide range of District affairs, it is believed, touching on schools and their administartion, District taxes, amount of the Federal appropriation, attitude of the Senate, and was featured by repeated assurances from Blanton that he was a true friend of the District and of the Commissioners.

Pershing to Speak In Cathedral Drive

Gen. John J. Pershing, chairman of the national committee of the Washington Cathedral, is expected to address a Cathedral membership campaign meeting at the Carlton Hotel Monday at 12:45 p. m.

Lloyd B. Wilson, campaign chairman, yesterday expressed satisfaction in the progress of the drive, which was launched a few days ago.

"Already it has been demonstrated," Wilson said, "that the people of Washington are anxious to help the Cathedral in the special effort to increase its membership and to provide for the necessary maintenance fund to carry on this great spiritual undertaking."

Canon Anson Phelps Stokes declared that success will mean the restoration of some Cathedral activities which were suspended for lack of funds.

Two Dodge Dentist: One Can Take It

Children's Teeth Pulled and Filled; Excuses Are Vain

"You can't pull my teeth, doctor. I'm Spider Kelly, and me brudder's a prize fighter."

But protests and threats were equally unavailing yesterday at the Georgetown Dental School, as 250 children's teeth were pulled, pushed, twisted and filled.

Every form of excuses which a Philadelphia lawyer could have imagined was used in attempts to stave off the day of reckoning.

Little Robert Spindler, age 8, of 478 H street southwest, explained very seriously to the dentist that he'd just had his tonsils out, and that his family didn't like to have him open his mouth, so couldn't he please come back some other time?"

Of all the intended victims only two children escaped. They were Jesse Tarvenner, of 429 O street southwest, and Jack Scott, of 1112 Fourth street southwest.

Having sized the situation up quite early in the game, they decided that once they got inside the dental office they were lost, so they took to the woods as soon as the bus stopped in front of the school door.

Efforts on the part of over a dozen internes to capture them were unavailing. They not only refused to come within even speaking distance, but Jack caused some discomfort in the ranks of the internes by rather accurate sharp-shooting with stones.

"My teeth are good enough for me, they ain't falling out he said, shaking his small red head seriously., "and I don't want 'em made any better."

The children who received attention from the Univeristy Medical School doctors yesterday, were selected from the needy in the District by local social agencies, and included a group from the Metropolitan Police Boys Club.

Boys of Northeast Guests at Dinner

One hundred and fifty members of the Northeast Boys' Club were fed at the club's gym last night as the annual meeting of the board was held and boys' problems discussed.

Boys were treated to the dinner by people from all over the city interested in boys' work. Each adult had a boy as his guest.

Following the dinner, members of the boys' club panel discussed the needs of youth and remedies for its problems. Members of the panel are:

Justin Miller, chairman of the Attorney General's committee on crime; Father Joseph H. Lansinger, Dr. Hans Weiss, superintendent of the Probate Juvenile Court; H. L. Willard, jr., director of the Community Chest in the city; Capt. Richard Mansfield of the Ninth Precinct; Birch Bayh, superintendent of health and physical education in Washington's schools, and Arthur J. Bergmann, football coach of Catholic University.

Lecture Fund for University Given as Dr. Borden Memorial

Family of Late Dean at George Washington Medical School Is Donor; Formal Exercises to Be Held Tonight.

A lecture fund in memory of the late Dr. William Cline Borden, dean of George Washington University School of Medicine from 1909 to 1930, was announced yesterday. The gift to the university was made by the Borden family. The fund, which will bring an outstanding surgeon to Washington each year to lecture to the university's medical students, will be presented formally at a meeting of the university's medical society tonight in the Medical School.

Dr. William J. Mallory, professor of medicine, will make the presentation, and President Cloyd H. Marvin will accept the gift on behalf of the university.

Dr. Daniel LeRay Borden, son of the late dean, will give an illustrated lecture on the career of his father and his founding of the Walter Reed Medical Center. He will show slides which Dean Borden made at the several Army posts in which he served, and at the George Washington University Medical School and Hospital.

Dean Borden received his medical degree from George Washington in 1883. He thereupon entered the medical service of the United States Army. During the Spanish-American War he had charge of the general hospital at Key West, Fla. From 1898 to 1907 he was director of the general hospital at Washington, and in 1908 went to Manila to take charge of the division hospital.

The dean wrote the first text on X-ray published in this country. It was entitled "Use of the Roentgen Ray by the Medical Department of the United States in the War With Spain." It was published by the United States Government in 1898.

New officers of the medical society will be elected tonight. Dr. Jeter C. Bradley is president of the society; Dr. Fofo Mexitis, vice president; Dr. Harry F. Dowling, secretary, and Dr. Beveridge Miller, treasurer.

Auto Mechanic Strikers Assail District Dealers

A "cheap piece of trickery" was charged against the Washington Automotive Trade Association last night at a rally of some 115 men on strike in seven shops.

The mechanics and their friends, 400 strong, adopted resolutions assailing the statement of the trade association that an open shop would be maintained.

Such "propaganda," the resolutions contended, were intended to deceive the public on the real issues in the walkout, described as to obtain "living wages and decent working conditions."

"Though, in the majority of cases," they said, "the consumer pays $2 per hour to the dealer and pays extra costs and profits for parts and accessories, the journeyman auto mechanic who does the work receives as little as 60 cents, leaving $1.40 for the dealer for profit and overhead.

"In the majority of instances the rate requested in the wage proposals of the auto mechanics constitutes only 40 per cent of the labor charge per hour now exacted of the consumer."

The strike was characterized as ineffective by William J. Hill, president of Hill & Tibbetts, Inc., 1114 Vermont avenue northwest, the last firm to have some of its men walk out. The union claimed 38 employes struck.

Hill issued the following statement:

"Although our basic rate is very close to demands of union officials and a willingness was expressed to consider any conditions of employment, Garrison said his hands were tied and unless we signed the agreement he would call his men out.

"There was no chocie. We could either sign or they would strike. Sixteen shop and stock men stayed on. Twenty-five went out. Over 75 other men went about their duties as usual."

Tribute Is Paid Dr. A. R. Bird, Capital Pastor

More than 500 persons, led by President Roosevelt and Commissioner Melvin C. Hazen, paid tribute last night to the Rev. Dr. Andrew Reid Bird on his twenty-fifth anniversary as pastor of the Southern Presbyterian Church of the Pilgrims, Twenty-second and P streets northwest.

"The Southern Presbyterian Church," said a message from the President, which was read by Dr. C. Arthur Cornelson, "in erecting the beautiful Gothic fane which dominates the Parkway, has made all lovers of the best in architecture its debtors."

He was referring to the fact that Dr. Bird's church was built by contributions from 20,000 Presbyterians throughout the South.

When Dr. Bird came to Washington 25 years ago, he had only a small room with a piano to call a church. Eight years later he toured every Presbyterian parish from the Potomac to the Rio Grande, making pleas and raising the funds for the present church.

In presenting the pastor with a silver replica of a tray once owned by George Washington as a token of the congregation's appreciation, Dr. Joseph H. White, former surgeon general and erstwhile companion of Dr. Walter Reed, said:

"I have given 50 years of my life healing the bodies of men, but I feel that those 50 years are far less important than the 25 years you have spent ministering to the spiritual needs of men and pouring oil and wine into the wounds which life had brought."

The party, which was a surprise to the pastor, was held in the church. Besides the tributes, which were read, there was a musical program under the direction of Warren F. Johnson.

J. Louis Ferber, Robust at 62, Marks 46 Years With The Post

Veteran Printer Not Thinking of Retiring; 4 Sons Follow His Trade.

A story "broke" in The Post's composing room last night. It's a story that breaks on May 15 each year when J. Louis Ferber, veteran printer, marks the anniversary of his joining the paper.

Yesterday it was the forty-sixth anniversary, and it saw no change in Louie, now 62 years old, but still pink-faced, rather roly-poly and still wearing his spectacles on the tip of his nose.

One can't exactly say that Louie has been with The Post continuously for 46 years. There was that time back in 1903 when he quit because he wasn't getting the regular pay scale. But the man who was put on the job—the assembly bank—wasn't fast enough, so Ferber was back in two weeks.

Being a printer is tops, says Louie, and he plans to keep it up. Four of his seven sons have followed his trade. He thinks The Post is getting better all the time.

Playgrounds Funds Called Insufficient

Miss Sibyl Baker Urges That Citizens Demand Larger Budget.

Tells City-Wide Council $50,000 Allotment Is Not Adequate.

Sibyl Baker, District superintendent of playgrounds, last night asserted that there had never been an adequate appropriation for playgrounds in Washington.

"The present allotment of $50,000 is just not sufficient to care for 30 playgrounds," she told a meeting of the City-Wide Playground Council. "If I had an appropriation of $50,000 just to buy slides and swings, I would not have enough.

"The District has spent only $100,000 in the last 20 years for playgrounds. That may seem like a lot of money, but National Capital Parks spends $2,500,000 to keep up its parks every year. It is spending $50,000 to remodel Franklin Park alone."

She then recited the history of the Board of Education and its success in obtaining adequate funds to keep up the District schools, saying that it has had the organized backing of the people of Washington.

Urges Energetic Demand.

"Unless there is an energetic demand on the part of the citizens, you will never get the play facilities that are needed," she said. "I believe the Bureau of the Budget and Congress will yield to your demands if you make them. It is up to you all."

Previously Roark Montgomery, of the Burleith Citizens Association, had recounted his vain efforts to get a playground for his section.

"We have Western High School Stadium in the middle of Burleith," he said, "but that is sacred ground and must not be trodden upon by the feet of children. They lock it up in the summer.

"One day I counted 25 athletes using the stadium. From the same point I could count many more than 25 children playing in the streets. Children have no rights in this city except that of being run over in the streets and buried. I don't think George Washington would be very proud of what the citizens of his city have done for their children."

Has Also Tried in Vain.

Dr. E. E. Richardson, president of the council, when told by Montgomery that he had been working for a playground in Burleith for more than a year and felt like "a dog chasing his tail," replied:

"Don't get discouraged. I've been trying the same thing for my community for six years."

The council adopted a resolution to request an accessible free pool to replace Monument pool. It also decided to met with Commissioner George E. Allen to present a list of itsneeds.

Coal Dealers Held Guilty of Fraud

Joe Kerensky and his wife, Mattie Kerensky, of 811 Maryland avenue northeast, and Frank Metzer, of Sunbury, Pa., were convicted today by a jury in the Police Court on charges of selling short weight coal. The prosecutions were instituted as a result of investigation by the District Weights and Measures Department, headed by George M. Roberts.

Two sales each of one ton of coal were involved. One ton was sold to George F. Miller, of 11 Milmarson place northwest, was found to be 887 pounds short weight. The second ton, ordered by Inspectors Diller and Harvey of the Weights and Measures Department to be delivered to the home of J. H. Smith, 1347 Irving street northwest, was found to be 695 pounds short

The defendants also were convicted on charges of making deliveries of coal without accompanying each load with a ticket containing a statement of weight.

Howard Trustees To Discuss Contract

A special meeting of the Howard University board of trustees has been called for Tuesday, it was learned yesterday, to settle a dispute over appointment of an architect for the new $500,000 men's dormitory.

The board is split on the contract award, some of the members supporting Albert I. Cassell for the appointment, and others favoring the local firm of Robinson & Williams. Secretary of Interior Ickes is reported to have urged the naming of Cassell, only to reverse himself and recommend to President Mordecai W. Johnson, of Howard, that Robinson & Williams be hired.

Calling of the special meeting was forced by four members favorable to Cassell. They are Dr. Channing Tobias, Dr. John R. Hawkins, Dr. Peter Murray and Dr. George Bell.

Guild to Hold Rally.

The Catholic Evidence Guild of Washington will hold an open-air meeting tomorrow in Judiciary Square, Fifth and E streets northwest, from 2 until 4 p. m. The speakers will be Dr. John Bowen, John O'Connor, John Foster and Helen Connolly.

Freeman Lauds Work Of Police Boys' Club

Bishop James E. Freeman and James Colliflower at dinner to aid the Metropolitan Police Department Boys' Club drive.

$3,000 Pledged to Push Development; Brown Talks at Dinner.

The Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Episcopal Bishop of Washington, last night lauded the Police Boys' Club movement as a preventive of juvenile crime, which he termed "the greatest menace of our time."

Bishop Freeman was speaking at a dinner at the Columbia Country Club planned by District Commissioner Melvin C. Hazen to outline a promotion program for the Police Boys' Clubs. Due to illness, Commissioner Hazen was unable to be present.

Most legislation, Bishop Freeman said, begins at the wrong end and attempts to correct crime situations that already exist. "When we get a modicum of wisdom," the Bishop said, "we will follow the lead of medicine and arrest disease at its development.

Bishop Freeman said that the dinner last night was "the most epochal occasion" that he had participated in during his years as Bishop. The work being done by Maj. Brown, he said, was "eminently Christian" and "entirely without precedent" in his 40 years' experience in social work.

Quoting Cardinal Mazzarin, "Give me the boy until he is 10 and you can have him forever after," Bishop Freeman showed the importance of environment during the plastic period of youth. The saying that "16 decides 60," he said, was a true one.

Maj. Ernest W. Brown, who founded the Police Boys' Clubs over two years ago, traced their development and influence during the time since the first one opened, February 22, 1934.

He told of his belief that juvenile delinquency would be decreased if boys could be kept off the streets and showed that belief had been vindicated.

In the precincts where the clubs exist, he said, juvenile delinquency has decreased 74 per cent. He termed this decrease "positive proof of the value of the clubs."

The major explained his plans for the future. These include the establishment of new clubs, of a summer camp, and the building of clubhouses to replace the make-shift facilities now in use. One of the projects, he said, is to establish a club for colored boys in the Second Precinct.

He told of the medical and dental considered it "a serious reeflction clinic he had set up and said he on the Nation's capital if we don't find some way to take care of our youth."

Another speaker was a youthful member of the Police Boys Club, Eddie Lincoln, of 421½ Sixth street southeast. Eddie told the group how much the clubs had done for him and how much he ad enjoyed being a member.

The guests last night were entertained by the Police Boys Club Band and by the club "hill-billies." There was also a marmonica sextette and "Bozo," 6-year-old tap dancer.

Following the speaking, guests present pledged nearly $3,000 to the campaign fund. Edward G. Yonker, president-treasurer of the Sanitary Grocery Co., suggested to Maj. Brown that a baseball league be formed among the boys. He said that his company would outfit one team and would provide prizes for the winners.

Among those pledging contributions to the fund last night were Harry Viner, of the Arcade Sunshine Laundry Co., $1,000; Harold Levi, $100; H. G. Smithy, $250; Charles Delmar, $100; Lansburgh Bros., $100; A. E. Lichtman, $250; Charles J. Brand, $100; City Cab Co., 200; Edward G. Yonker, in the name of the Sanitary Grocery Co., $500; George Wassermann, $50; Alvin Newmyer, $100; Charles D. Drayton, $50; Mrs. William C. Shelton, $25; Miss Janet Richards, $25; Mrs. Ernest W. Brown, $25.

Allen to Ask Party Plank For D.C. Vote

Democratic Committee Names Him for Plea at Convention.

Local Unit Also Ratifies Slate of 17 Delegates to Philadelphia.

Commissioner George E. Allen last night was designated by the Democratic Central Committee of the District of Columbia to appear before the resolutions committee of the Democratic National Convention in Philadelphia next month and urge a plank in the party platform favoring national representation for this city's voteless citizens.

The proposed plank would give the District representation in the Senate and House and allow residents here to vote for President and Vice President. It would call for a constitutional amendment.

The meeting of the Democratic Central Committee, presided over by Chairman John B Colpoys, ratified a slate of 17 men and women who seek to go to Philadelphia as delegates. Commissioner Allen is one of them.

The District is entitled to six delegate votes in a Democratic National Convention. It was agreed last night that of the 17 candidates, 12 would go as delegates with a half vote each and five would go as alternates.

The 17 were all that filed their names with the central committee before the "deadline" Wednesday.

While contests were avoided by last night's indorsement of all 17, a nominal primary election will be held this Wednesday at a half dozen polling places to be advertised in the newspapers Tuesday.

The committee last night also indorsed Malcolm McConnie for national committeeman to succeed the veteran John F. Costello, who announced his resignation earlier in the week, and Mrs. J. Borden Harriman for re-election as national committeewoman.

Neither will be opposed at the polls.

Unnamed Girl Gets May Crown Today

She doesn't know it yet.

But some little girl whose department has been good at home and at school, whose attendance at school and the settlement clubs has been good, will be crowned queen of the May this afternoon at the Neighborhood House, 470 N street southwest.

The name of the queen has not yet been disclosed.

A bird bath was dedicated at the Neighborhood House yesterday in honor of Mrs. J. P. S. Neligh. Mrs. Neligh was for almost 30 years head resident of the House. Yesterday's presentation of the bath, made of marble, was made by Mrs. James Martin, president of the Woman's Club of the Neighborhood House. The bird bath was accepted by Mrs. Wilbur J. Carr, president of the board of members.

John Boles Is Doing Yeoman Service at Fox

Stars on Screen and Stage; 'Scandal' Hits at Earle; Other Programs.

By Nelson B. Bell.

"A MESSAGE TO GARCIA." Twen-Heth Century-Fox picturization of the brochure by the late Elbert Hubbard, adapted to the screen by W. P. Lipscomb and Gene Fowler, featuring John Boles, Barbara Stanwyck and Wallace Beery, with Alan Hale, Herbert Mundin, Mona Barrie, Enrique Acosta, Juan Toreno and Blanca Vischer. Directed by George Marshall. Previewed Tuesday, May 12.

BELL.

"A Message to Garcia," the late Elbert Hubbard's brief treatise upon the value to society of those who perform their appointed tasks in the face of seemingly insuperable handicaps, written in less than an hour one evening after dinner in 1899, has been made the basis of a romantic and thrillingly melodramatic screen play which quite captures and sustains the atmosphere and spirit of Cuba's fight for freedom from Spanish oppression.

The story of the picture, disclosed for the first time locally before enthusiastic audiences at Loew's Fox Theater yesterday, is precisely that of the military assignment successfully executed by Lieut. Andrew S. Rowan in 1898. The action opens in the White House in Washington when Lieut. Rowan is personally intrusted with a vital mission by President McKinley himself. He is to convey, by any means he may be able to command, a sealed message to Gen. Garcia, at the head of an insurgent army somewhere in the interior of Cuba. He accomplishes this herculean feat only after enduring the utmost hardship and having been subjected to exquisite torture by the masters of espionage put on his track by the Spanish authorities.

Enlisting the aid of a roustabout American, who has a precious reputation for double dealing and all around roguery, and accepting that of the daughter of a murdered patriot, Rowan, once safely ashore from his stoker's job aboard ship, he sets out on his precarious mission.

Has Comedy Relief.

The principal roles are intelligently and effectively played by John Boles, as the heroic officer who carries the message; Wallace Beery, a renegade marine, who is aware of more ways to double-cross his fellowmen than any other single individual on the island, and Barbara Stanwyck, as the girl. This is the sort of thing that Beery does, perhaps, a little better than anyone else on the screen—the fawning rascal, with a mind like a steel trap, a resourcefulness in perfidy that knows no limit, and a sense of humor to soften the sting of his duplicity. His Sergt. Dory, except for the Rowan heroism in the face of inquisitorial cruelties, is the dominant figure in the play. Boles makes a fine working partner for Beery by reason of a sharply contrasted personality and method. He contributes invaluable character work to the closing sequences of the plot's development. Miss Stanwyck is acceptable as the romantic interest, except for the perseverance with which she affects Park avenue beautifications in the heart of the tropical jungles.

The supporting cast is composed largely of Spanish players who lend the Cuban scenes complete authenticity. Alan Hale is splendidly cast in the entirely unsympathetic role of Dr. Krug, Rowan's inveterate Nemesis. Herbert Mundin supplies a Cockney comedy note as a tinware salesman trying to find his way to the coast, and Mr. Beery has a small pet monkey that is the best comedian of them all.

Boles Also Scores in Person.

In addition to his part in the feature picture, John Boles reappears on a local stage after an absence of some three or four years. His headline offering at the Fox this week consists wholly of songs, which he sings in splendid voice and with which he won a very genuine ovation at yesterday afternoon's second performance.

Opening with "One Alone," from the operetta of "The Desert Song," he next offers Ole Speak's "Sylvia," sung with an illuminating grasp of its romantic charm that is seldom encountered, and then sings "If I Should Lose You," from "The Rose of the Rancho," his recent picture with Gladys Swarthout. His program comes to a spirited and wildly applauded close with "Waiting at the Gate for Katie," from "Bottoms Up," which he sings in "costume" and with the audience "helping out" with a whistling bar or two in the chorus.

If Mr. Boles ever entertained any doubt of his welcome in Washington, it should have been dispelled yesterday.

Supporting him on the stage portion of the bill are those two rough-and-ready comics, Marty Collins and Harry Peterson, who return to the Capital with their same old act, which still has it in its power to roll the pew-holders in the aisle. They work on the ramp in front of the orchestra until it comes time for Marty's trumpet rendition of "When Day Is Done," which he plays with the finish and skill of an artist, while Harry kids him from the side lines.

Miss Bowan Is Daring.

The Don Costello Dance Revue opens the stage goings-on with a fine exposition of terpsichorean accomplishment and Sybil Bowan completes it with a small group of superlative impersonations.

Miss Bowan was at her best, I thought, as Beatrice Lillie and Gloria Swanson, two vivid impressions in which she was practically perfect. More dramatic was the faded star of silent pictures seeking a job in a film casting office of the present day. Her gallery was brought to a hilarious close, which literally "stopped the show," with a good-natured travesty of a famous resident of the National Capital which she offered apologetically. Miss Bowan is fresh from Earl Carroll's "Sketch Book."

The Fox Movietone News, the McKinley High School Cadet Band's participation in the Music Festival being observed this week and Phil Lampkin's tuneful overture are the auxiliaries of an A-1 entertainment.

A Shifty Soldier of Fortune Comes to Taw!

After having double-crossed both the Spanish army and the Cuban, former Sergt. Dory, renegade marine, finds himself in what is technically known as a tough spot! In the person of Wallace Beery, this ingratiating rogue wins a full measure of sympathy and respect before the final scene of "A Message to Garcia" has faded out. This is the screen feature of the week at Loew's Fox Theater, with John Boles playing the role of Lieut. Rowan, U. S. A., and headlining the stage bill, in person. Barbara Stanwyck is the girl.

Earle

"THE CASE AGAINST MRS. AMES." Paramount picturization of a story by Arthur Somers Roche, adapted to the screen by Gene Towne and Graham Baker, co-starring Madeleine Carroll and George Brent, with Arthur Teacher, Beulah Bondi, Alan Mowbray, Richard Carle, Alan Baxter, Edward Brophy, Scotty Beckett, Mayo Methot, Guy Bates Post, Gladden James, Edward Earle, Brenda Fowler and June Brewster. Directed by William A. Seiter. Reviewed Friday morning.

Except that perhaps it is a little more skillfully executed in every department of production — casting, acting, direction, photography, etc. —this subject would immediately be catalogued in the same classification of courtroom dramas as Miss Harding's recent "The Witness Chair."

It is true that in "The Case Against Mrs. Ames" there is the added pull at the emotions always exerted by the spectacle of mother love being denied and a small child made a sort of football among antagonistic members of the family from which Mrs. Ames' wealthy husband has only a short time before been eliminated by a lethal bullet, but, in the main, the contours of the two film plays are identical. Without possessing any more warmth than Ann Harding, the blondely lovely Madeleine Carroll contrives to elicit a little more sympathy than the woman who shot her employer for love. Her performance, however, is not to be written down among the emotional masterpieces of the year.

In the opposite role, that of a young aspirant to the district attorneyship, George Brent offers a characterization that ranges from abysmal inebriety to courtroom brilliance. It is he, finally, who establishes the fact that Mrs. Ames did not kill her husband, all the circumstantial evidence to the contrary, notwithstanding. How he does it is what you will wish to visit the Earle to learn.

Excellent Supporting Cast.

There are many other fine bits of work in "The Case Against Mrs. Ames," among them the acrid mother-in-law, limned with her usual skill by Beulah Bondi; Alan Mowbray's suave miscreant lawyer, Arthur Teacher's butler, Richard Carle's futile uncle and a splendid brace of comedy performances by Alan Baxter and Edward Brophy, as a reporter and gum-chewing newspaper photographer, respectively.

Several veterans of both stage and screen are recruited for this cast with completely successful result. Among them are Guy Bates Post, distinguished star of the living theater; Edward Earle, one of the cinema's early leading men; Gladden James and the aforementioned Mr. Carle.

There are many surprise twists to the plot that can neither be foreseen nor fathomed and there are an equal number of legal practices that might be open to suspicion, if one were only thoroughly versed in the laws of court procedure and jury trial. The judges in "The Case Against Mrs. Ames" seem to this observer to be extremely liberal in what they permit witnesses and trial lawyers to say and do.

The stage portion of the bill is notable for four acts that are leaders in their respective fields. The Lathrop Brothers and blonde Virginia Lee, who opened the performance reviewed, now are appearing third on the bill—where they belonged all the time—and score their inevitable hit. Even in the opening spot, they stopped the show in its tracks at yesterday's first performance. The Lathrops' incomparable precision dances, Miss Lee's solo tap and their ensemble work is beyond compare.

Two From the "Scandals."

Returning to the scene of many earlier triumphs, Gracie Barrie appears in the second position and walks off with her customary hit. Her songs yesterday were "Is It True What They Say About Dixie?" "Let's Face the Music and Dance," a medley of "Lost," "I'm Putting All My Eggs in One Basket," and "Goody-Goody," and, for an encore, "Happy as the Day Is Long." You know what she does to numbers like those. Well, that is what she did to them yesterday!

Coming to the Earle stage with her from the late "Scandals" this week is Cliff "Ukele Ike" Edwards, who has completely revolutionized his method and renovated his material. Cliff, in the old days, was not averse to a few racy stories after each song. Now he tells only two—both completely prophylactic—and devotes most of his time to singing. Never has he sung so well. Among his numbers yesterday afternoon were "It's Been So Long," "Like a Melody from the Sky," "St. Louis Blues," and a revue medley of "Say It With Music," "A Pretty Girl Is Like a Melody," recently revived in "The Great Ziegfeld," and "Lady of the Evening." Some of these he sang with genuine concert effect—before heating them up a little with the uke and that scat falsetto of his. Swell act.

A Merrie Melodie cartoon comedy, "Bingo Crosbyana," the Paramount News, and Freddie Clark's orchestral interludes round out an interesting, but not epochal program.

RKO-Keith's

"THE DANCING PIRATE." RKO-Radio release of the Pioneer picturization of a story by Emma Lindsay Squier, with screen play by Ray Harris and Francis Faragoh, featuring Charles Collins, Frank Morgan and Steffi Duna, with Luis Alberni, Victor Varconi, William V. Mong and Jack LaRue. Music by Richard Rodgers and Lorenz Hart. Dances by Russell Lewis. Directed by Lloyd Corrigan. Reviewed Friday afternoon by W. A. Whitney.

Not infrequently the comparison has been made between stage and screen comedies with music and dancing, but always these cinema ventures have seemed to miss, however narrowly, that degree of intimacy manifest upon the living stage. In "The Dancing Pirate," the first of such feature-length productions filmed entirely in Technicolor, that difference has been virtually overcome, with the result that this colorful, active drama lives, breathes and has a being of unusual vitality.

This quality of dynamic life is largely due to the superb color treatment of a story of action, romance, song and dance. In black and white, "The Dancing Pirate" would be an interesting play, but in the brilliancy of natural (though sometimes a bit too vivid) color, the players seem almost to leap from the screen and present their story "in person."

The story concerns one Jonathan Pride, Boston dancing teacher, who is shanghaied by pirates, from whom he makes his escape when the ship gets to California. Captured and condemned to death as a pirate, he proves his innocense by demonstrating his dancing talents upon the scaffold—with the noose about his neck—and thereby becomes the tutor of Serafina, daughter of the Alcalde of Las Palomas. Renegade soldiers arrive and interrupt proceedings, but the dancing pirate outwits them and wins the girl.

Frank Morgan Amusing.

The comedy mainspring of the picture is Frank Morgan, in one of his choicest and most unusual parts, the Alcalde. Once again he demonstrates his failing of never bothering to finish a sentence. Mr. Morgan and his linguistic indecision offer gems of comedy. And Steffi Duna, who will be recalled in "La Cucaracha," is the leading woman of exotic appeal and excellent dancing ability.

But the real star is not Mr. Morgan nor Miss Duna—it is Charles Collins, a newcomer to the screen, best characterized as being a combination Erroll Flynn and Fred Astaire. It is he, as the dancing master, who contributes elements of novelty to a story which has everything quite in the right proportion.

An excellent dancer of personable mein, Mr. Collins brings to the screen a welcome histrionic ability which is no less than his terpsichorean. He also reveals a flair for dry humor. Besides his astonishing scaffold number, his efforts at teaching the charming ladies of Los Palomas that modern demonstrations of light-footedness, number, the waltz, are not only deft but nicely turned comedy sequences.

Ensembles and Auxiliaries.

There are two ensemble numbers, not particularly ornate, sumptuous nor overly lengthy, but just right in every way to result in complete satisfaction. Indeed, this "just enough" aspect is one of the pronounced features of the picture. It is entertainment—and excellent entertainment—first and all the way.

The fourteenth issue of "The March of Time" features the problem of relief as exemplified by the recent New Jersey situation, a discussion of the dilemma of Europe and the League of Nations since the subjugation of Ethiopia, and a resume of railroading since the turn of the century and the about-to-be-effected rate reductions. Excellent in composition and presentation, "Time" marches on.

"Fun House," an Oswald Rabbit cartoon, and the Pathe News round out the program.

"SMALL TOWN GIRL." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization of Ben Ames Williams' novel of the same name, adapted by John Lee Mahin and Edith Fitzgerald, co-starring Janet Gaynor and Robert Taylor, supported by Lewis Stone, James Stewart, Binnie Barnes, Andy Devine, Elizabeth Patterson, Frank Craven, Isabel Jewell, Edgar Kennedy and Willie Fung. Directed by William M. Wellman. Reviewed Friday afternoon by Dorothea Lewis.

This probably has no right to be as pleasant and amusing a picture as it is, but it has lots of reasons for its worth.

The story is as old as printers' ink, the situations ditto, but here they are human rather than hokum.

First and foremost among the reasons is the brightness, naturalness and likeableness of those two youngsters, Janet Gaynor and Robert Taylor, in the leading roles. Then there is the elegant supporting cast, and finally the general sprightliness of the whole affair. There are a great many laughs and sufficient romance.

Kay Brannan is a small town girl who doesn't want to be one. She meets young Dr. Robert Dakin and her first champagne on the same evening. The next dawn she finds herself Mrs. Dakin. The rest of the story concerns her efforts to keep on being Mrs. Dakin—without really being a Mrs. at all—for six months, because a friendly divorce would be less scandalous than a drunken marriage followed by annulment.

Is Tastefully Done.

The whole business is so tastefully handled that even the champagne marriage isn't too unpleasant.

Miss Gaynor has acquired a new spunk, a new sparkle, that is vastly more engaging than her saccharine sweetness of past seasons. She seems to be growing up a little. Her Kay is a good job, done with a twinkle.

The first thing that should be done about Robert Taylor is to forget that he is a handsome and skyrocketing young man and to remember—or realize—that he is well on his way to being a very good actor indeed—if the matinee idol twaddle doesn't stop him. From his first little bit in a Will Rogers' picture, through program pictures, "Society Doctor" and "Times Square Lady," on up to "Broadway Melody" and "The Magnificent Obsession," he has increased in ease and range of naturalness. As Dr. Bob Dakin, he is completely sincere and attractive, and his voice and facial expression combine to give the role lights and shades beyond its limited requirements.

Distinguished Support.

Such stellar performers as Lewis Stone, James Stewart, Elizabeth Patterson, Frank Craven, Binnie Barnes, Andy Devine, Isabel Jewel and Nella Walker appear in supporting roles. We particularly like James Stewart's really perfect small towner named Elmer, a clever, highlighted portrait in a few scenes; and Lewis Stone's understanding, kindly father to Dr. Bob. Of them all, we dislike only Binnie Barnes as an extremely artifical fiancee.

Willie Fung, as So-So, and Edgar Kennedy, as Capt. Lack, add a great deal of fun to the delightful nautical and in-name-only honeymoon of the Dakins. The captain is so carried away by the sentiment of it all that he plans to "dig up the wife" next time he gets ashore.

The small-town dining-room scenes were also exceptionally well handled, for which Director Wellman should take a bow.

Metropolitan

"TIMES SQUARE PLAYBOY." Warner Brothers picturization of the stage play of "The Home Towners," by George M. Cohan, adapted to the screen by Roy Chanslor, featuring Warren William and June Travis, with Barton MacLane, Gene Lockhart, Kathleen Lockhart, Dick Purcell, Craig Reynolds, Granville Bates and Dorothy Vaughan. Directed by William McGann. Reviewed Friday afternoon by Sall Stroud.

The Times Square playboy is not quite the urbane cynic the title implies. But he is given to playful swats at his pals, for he employs a trainer valet, who teaches him all the new wrestling holds. And he is given to a great deal of athletic bouncing around, to prove he is in excellent physical condition, quite young enough to warrant the love of a lovely young cafe singer. And he is given to loud ha-ha-ing to prove his dash and verve. So maybe he IS authenic.

The story? It was much better as George M. Cohan's "Home-Towners." Rich broker invites his old friend from Big Bend to be his best man; the small-towner meets the glamorous fiancee and her family, decides they are chiselers, tells the playboy he is being gypped, insults the family, is slapped by the playboy, slaps the playboy, plots a denouement and has the last laugh of this merry, merry farce.

Beware of Shorts!

"Pig-Head," the Big Bend pal, is nicely-typical of a certain type of narrow provincialism; the valet-trainer is virile in his gym clothes and obsequious in his serving suit; the girl is natural and good to look at; her family are authentic citizens, but Warren William should never appear in his shorts, for the camera doesn't lie about his knees! The most notable of the performers is a young man called "Snake-Hips," playing a professional football player, who appears briefly in one scene.

Ford Sterling stars in a comedy, "Framing Father," which has a fairly new idea about how to get father to agree to son's marrying a chorus girl.

Paramount News shows the opening of baseball season in Japan, Midwestern farmers making alcohol from grain, views of murals and statues being constructed for the Texas centennial, Wellesley girls in oar practice, the Texas quadruplets, Robert Foster, 7-year-old sharpshooter, and another inventor's experiences with a glider.

"I'd Love to Take Orders From You," a Merry Melody color short, is an animated cartoon which goes a step forward; for it has shadows, silhouettes, and a note of grown-up whimsicality not often found in these subjects. It concerns the adventures of the son of a scarecrow who wants to take lessons from pa about how to frighten the pestiferous birds from the field he guards. Pa has a chart, showing the accepted positions, and sonny tries them. Sneaking out in the early morning he attempts to put his practicing into practice, with laughable results.

"THE TRAIL OF THE LONESOME PINE." Paramount all-technicolor picturization of a story by John Fox, jr., adapted to the screen by Harvey Thew, Horace McCoy and Grover Jones, featuring Sylvia Sidney, Henry Fonda and Fred MacMurray, with Nigel Bruce, Fred Stone, Beulah Bondi, Robert Barrat, "Spanky" McFarland, "Fuzzy" Knight and Charles Middleton. Directed by Henry Hathaway. Reviewed Friday afternoon (reheat engagement) by W. A. Whitney.

Filmed in the wide-open spaces, with all the resplendent beauties of the Lake Taho region caught by the magic eye of color photography, "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" comes again to the screen in even a greater production than the memorable one of the silent days.

While this picture's chief asset is its remarkable color work, vivid and contrasting, there are other attributes which contribute more directly to the entertainment value of the film.

The story itself is rather the usual one of feuding families—in the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia gone Rockie, but still azure tinted—but the cast which has been assembled to enact the John Fox, jr., story is of exceptional caliber. As the pappy of the piece, Fred Stone is perhaps the outstanding performer, adding still further to his reputation as an actor in a role by far the best he has had in motion pictures.

Sylvia Sidney and Fred MacMurray furnish the amorous motivation of the play, while Henry Fonda is Miss Sidney's explosive cousin whose idea of diversion is to go hunting—with a Falin as the target. Belah Bondi, as the peace-loving mother, is grand. And the others of the company are fine.

The supporting subjects for the week include "Animal Cunning," narrated by A. L. Alexander; "Thanks, Mr. Cupid," a comedy with music featuring Fred Lightner, and the Metrotone News.

"ECSTASY." Eureka release of the Slavia-Films production, featuring Hedy Kiesler, Jaromir Rogoz, Aribert Mog and Leopold Kramer. Music and lyrics by Kola Jozsef, Hadju Imre, Henry Gershwin and William Colligan. English dialogue by Jacques A. Koerpel. Directed by Gustav Machaty. Reviewed (fourth week) by W. A. Whitney.

The demonstration of Czechoslovakian film art which is known as "Ecstacy" continued to delight the eye and satisfy the fancy of the cinema-going public of the National Capital, the prize-winning production today entering its fourth week.

With the beautiful Hedy Kiesler in the principal role of the young wife in search for the ephemeral something known as happiness, "Ecstacy" hits a new high in the utilization of the motion picture as an independent art form.

Supporting Miss Kiesler are Jaromir Rogoz, Aribert Mog and Leopold Kramer, three fine actors admirably suited to and expertly delineating the roles, respectively, of husband, lover and father.

Manhattan Promenade.

New York, May 15.

Heard the story last night, and this is its first printing—I hope . . . It's Dave Green's story of the man inspired by the song about the man who broke the bank at Monte Carlo . . . for two years, he went to the gaming tables at Monte Carlo, selecting one and writing down each number as it came up on the roulette wheel . . .

OBERON.

Others had done this before, for a week or a month, or even two months, but this fellow's patience was magnificent . . . And at the end of two years, he had his system perfected . . . Came the big night . . . He shoved the equivalent of $1,000 in francs on No. 17 . . . The number came up . . . He let it ride again on No. 17 . . . Again it came up . . . He had won, in two spins of the wheel, $1,226,000.

* * * *

The croupiers were in an agony of shock . . . The Casino itself was in an uproar of excited comment . . . The manager rushed to the table . . . "You cannot play again, M'sieu," he insisted . . . "The croupiers should not have permitted the second wager on No. 17. It is far above the limit. But now you must cease. I will not accept your bet" . . . The player didn't answer . . . They shook him . . . He was dead, of a heart attack . . . According to the story, the Casino paid his heirs only $35,000, contending that he died from the shock of the first winning number . . . And that death voided his second bet.

* * * *

"I've seen these system players at Bradley's and at the Casino Nacionale, in Havana . . . At Havana, one night, we watched a lean, tense fellow jotting down the numbers as they appeared . . . He sat there for 30 minutes, then suddenly played . . . I'll never forget the look of bewilderment on his face when he lost . . . The late Jimmy Donahue had a system, starring six numbers in sections and betting as high as $40,000 on a single spin of the wheel . . . Col. E. R. Bradley himself plays a system of sections . . . Jim Moffett's courage makes him a great roulette player, for too many of the players lack nerve.

* * * *

At Bradley's, last winter, I was reduced to 20 $1 chips . . . To get it over quickly, I converted them into four $5 chips . . . "Play 14," urged the dark-haired eyeful with me . . . Gingerly, I placed one chip on 14, and it came up . . . A winning of $175 . . . "Play 23," she said . . . Another chip and 23 came up, another $175 winning . . . "Play 17," she insisted . . . And No. 17 came up . . . In three rolls I had won $525, but a real gambler, with heart, would have instantly sensed she was in a winning streak and let the money ride to a huge parlay.

Jesse Livermore has promoted a new bankroll for a Wall Street foray . . . Merle Oberon was dropped from "Garden of Allah" because her color tests didn't jell . . . A studio publicity dope sent out a release saying that Frieda Inescort played in the Coast company of "Merrily We Roll Around" . . . They were talking about psychoanalysis the other night, Truman Talley, Laurence Stallings and George S. Kaufman . . . "I know a fellow who was psycho-ostracized," was Kaufman's mournful topper.

Jean Harlow has a saving grace of humor . . . Four years ago, the now famous Charles Boyer played a bit as Harlow's chauffeur in "Red-Headed Woman," and was paid a trifling sum . . . They met in Culver City recently: "When are you and I going to play again?" asked Miss Harlow . . . "You mean in another picture like our last one?" laughed Boyer . . . "Certainly not," said La Harlow. "This time I'll drive you."

* * * *

The Fred Warings expect Sir Stork . . . The Irving Berlins' new heir or heiress will arrive June 14 . . . Billie Burke looks so youthful that Shirley Temple is getting mad . . . Billy Fields, burlesque comic at the Republic, avers that he heard it on the subway: "Don't look now—but look and see if he's looking—and if he is—don't look."

It is infrequently that Tin Pan Alley, calloused by a torrent of sickeningly sweet verbiage, gets excited about a song lyric, but Harry (Irving Berlin) Link has grabbed one off from England that has the Alley of Flats and Sharps talking to itself:

A cigarette that bears a lipstick's traces
An airline ticket to romantic places—
The park at evening when the bell has sounded,
The Ile de France with all the gulls around it,
The sigh of midnight trains in empty stations;
Silk stockings thrown aside—dance invitations.
And still my heart has wings;
These foolish things remind me of you.

Quinter Wins Chevy Chase Golf Tourney

M. B. Stevinson Bows, One Up in Final Match for Title.

Scoring Not Unusual; Quinter Gets Only Birdie of Day.

By Dave Herman.

Ralph Quinter, young Chevy Chase golfer, pulled a George Dunlap yesterday by winning the Chevy Chase invitation golf tournament.

Dunlap, winner in a playoff for his qualifying berth in the 1933 National Amateur, emerged as champion, and the 21-year-old Quinter, assistant clerk at the Supreme Court, who tied with five others at 76 in the medal round of the invitation Wednesday, triumphed in the playoff, and went on to win the tournament.

By 2 and 1 Stevinson eliminated M. Parker Nolan, long-driving Congressional star, who put out the medalist, Harry Pitt, of Manor.

It was Quinter's first important golf victory, and it was richly earned, despite the fact that good golf was mixed with spotty golf.

Stevinson Gives Good Fight.

Stevinson, former champion, thrice a runner-up, in his day the kingpin of District golf, put up a gallant fight, but youth rode in the saddle. Quinter was off to an early lead by winning the first and second holes, and was never down to the Columbia golfer until the fourteenth, where Stevinson made a nice recovery for his par four, and the Chevy Chase youngster made a couple of weird shots for a six.

The kid still had plenty of shots left in him. He halved the fifteenth with a 5, after Stevinson, his drive skied, came back with a good third shot. Quinter missed a 3-footer that would have won the hole.

On the sixteenth Quinter squared the match. The Chevy Chase golfer was down the middle nicely, while Stevinson drove into the ditch. Spending all of 5 minutes preparing himself for the shot, Steve failed to extricate his ball, and picked up, conceding Quinter the hole.

The seventeenth they halved in par 4s. Quinter reaching the green in regulation figures, Stevinson blasting out beautifully to within a few feet of the pin for his par.

Scoring Not Very Good.

Quinter grew stronger on the final hole, hitting the left side of the green after two nice blows, while Stevinson clouted his second into a trap, played out safely. The Columbia golfer pitched to within a few feet of the pin, and Quinter putted up safely.

Then Stevinson walked over and picked up Quinter's ball, congratulated the new champion, successor to Hickman Greene, of Manor.

The scoring was nothing to brag about, as both golfers went out in 39, with Quinter in possession of a 1 up lead. He had won the first with a par four when Stevinson's second found a trap, and the second hole when the veteran knocked the youngster's ball into the hole from 2 feet. This was a real break for Quinter, who had skied his drive, topped his second, and Quin-

Newsom Beats Browns, 10-5; Sets Mark

11 Strikeouts Sets Record for Season; Griffs Get 17 Hits.

By Shirley Povich.
Sports Editor of The Post.

St. Louis, Mo., May 15.—Establishing a new 1936 American League record for strikeouts, Buck Newsom fanned 11 batters and pitched the Nats to a 10-5 victory over the Browns today.

Well, maybe Newsom didn't exactly pitch the Nats to victory. There was the small item of 17 base hits Washington made against the Browns' pitching that helped to win the game. But Newsom was the big shot of the afternoon as he bore down against his former pals and exceeded by two the strikeout mark registered by Pat Malone, of the Yankees, ten days ago against the same club.

When he wasn't striking 'em out, Newsom was not a very good pitcher today, but was striking 'em out with great frequency, which explains a lot. But at one point during the game, in the fourth inning, Newsom had all but pitched away the five-run lead the Nats had given him in the very first inning.

Lewis Also a Hero.

From that point on, however, bashful Buck was in rare fettle. In the last five innings he permitted the Browns exactly two hits and exactly no runs while the Nats were collecting tallies in driblets of one and two to fortify Newsom's 6-5 lead.

The Nats had another hero. Young Buddy Lewis, who has gone amok against all kinds of pitching during the last 15 games in which he has hit safely at least once, collected four hits for himself this afternoon. The 19-year-old kid banged out four singles in his first four times at bat against the various St. Louis pitchers.

Browns Use Four Hurlers.

The Browns used four pitchers, which apparently is par for the park, as far as the Browns have been concerned lately while they have been losing 15 of their last 16 games. Les Tietje was the first pitcher and he was also the first man out in that first inning, after failing to retire a single Nat that he faced.

Tietje began proceedings with a walk to Powell and then pitched singles to Lewis and Travis and a double to Stone. With two runs over the plate, Hornsby waved Tietje to the bench and inserted LeRoy Mahaffey, who promptly pitched a single to Reynolds that scored two more.

Before the inning was over, Catcher Walter Millies scored Stone with the first of his four singles of the game, which reminds me that he, too, was something of a hero.

Newsom ran into trouble with two out in the first and the Browns retrieved a pair of runs when Bell doubled down the first base line. The Nats made it 6-2 in the fourth when Milles and Lewis put singles together, but the Browns bounced back with three more runs when Bell, West, Hemsley and Carey singled consecutively.

But with that the Browns are done for the day, offensively. The Nats, however, were not. They picked up a run in the fifth against Ivy Andrews when Stone and Reynolds led off with singles, and they picked up another against Russ Van Atta in the eighth after Millies singled. Newsom sacrificed and both runners were safe when Van Atta's throw to second was late, and Millies went to third when Carey, who fielded Lewis' grounder, pulled Lary off the bag with a poor throw. Van Atta walked Travis to force the run over.

They made it round figures of 10 to 5 in the ninth when Kress, Kuhel and Millies slammed out consecutive singles and Powell followed with another single after Newsom popped out.

A's Rally in 7th to Nose Out Detroit, 6-5, in Series Opener

By the Associated Press.

Detroit, May 15.—The Philadelphia Athletics came from behind in the seventh inning, as two pinch hitters connected, today to win a 6-to-5 slugfest from the Detroit Tigers in a series opener.

The onslaught drove Tommy Bridges from the mound after he had given up seven hits, including two doubles and home runs by Bob Johnson and Wally Moses.

Vernon (Whitey) Wilshere, former Indiana University southpaw, received credit for his first victory of the season, although his wild throw to first on Walker's sacrifice bunt in the fifth allowed Charlie Gehringer and Goose Goslin to score with runs that gave Detroit a temporary lead.

GeorgiaRunner Sets Hurdle Record

Birmingham, Ala., May 15.—Freckle-faced Forrest Towns, University of Georgia junior, skimmed across the high hurdles in world-record time at Legion Field today during a preliminary trial heat of the fourth annual Southeastern Conference track and field meet.

The 21-year-old athlete from Augusta, Ga., raced the distance in 0:14.1, one-tenth of a second faster than the accepted world record made by Percy Beard, the former Auburn star, in 1931.

"I believe Towns will do better than 0:14 before the summer is over," said H. J. Stegeman, Georgia athletic director. "He certainly has not reached his peak."

The Georgia athlete's sparkling performance featured the day's preliminary trials in five track and four field events which saw one other conference record matched as Georgia Tech's star sprinter, Perrin Walker, raced to the tape in the 100-yard dash in 0:09.6.

A few minutes after taking the high hurdles, Towns won the third heat of the 220-yard low hurdles, but his time of 0:24.9 was bettered by Ben Willis, of Kentucky, winner of the first heat in 0:23.7.

Bolton Still Whole, X-Ray Photos Show

St. Louis, Mo., May 15.—Manager Bucky Harris, of the Washington Club, was noticeably relieved today when X-ray pictures of Catcher Cliff Bolton's injured side failed to reveal any fractured ribs.

Bolton, hurt in a collision at the plate with Tony Piet, of the White Sox yesterday, suffered only severe bruises, it developed. The Nats' No. 1 catcher is not expected to don a uniform for two or three days, however.

Jimmy DeShong will go to the mound for the Nats tomorrow in the final game with the Browns. Tommy Thomas, former Nat whose most recent effort on the mound was a six-hit shutout against the Yankees, is expected to pitch for the Browns.

Giants Shut Out Reds, 2 to 0, With 5 Safeties

New York, May 15 (AP).—The New York Giants defeated the Cincinnati Reds 2-0 today. Hal Schumacher allowed the Reds only five hits, although he was taken out in the ninth when he became wild. Al Smith finished the game.

White Sox Beat Yankees, 9-7, For Sixth

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, May 15.—The Chicago White Sox ran their current winning streak up to six straight today by taking the first game of a two-game series from the New York Yankees, 9-7.

The Yankees outhit their rivals 13 safeties to 11, but they failed to get them when they would count the most. Lou Gehrig and Tony Lazzeri hit homers for the Yankees while Tony Piet and Luke Sewell belted for round trips for the White Sox. Rookie Joe Di Maggio continued his hitting streak for the Yanks by getting four safeties, including two doubles.

50,000 to Watch 14 Colts Compete for $25,000 Purse In 46th Preakness Today

Bold Venture Assured Favoritism at Odds of 7-5 to 9-5

No Fillies in Field for the $25,000 Purse; City in Gala Mood.

By Walter Haight.
A Staff Correspondent.

Pimlico Race Track, Baltimore, Md., May 15.—It isn't the spring in the air that will interest 50,000 regular and occasional turf fans here tomorrow afternoon. It will be the airy spring in the legs of 14 frisky colts due to compete in the forty-sixth running of the $25,000 added Preakness. All arguments as to the make up of the field for the mile and three-sixteenths classic ended at noon today when the official entries revealed a dozen and two representatives of the Nation's most pretentious racing establishments.

Bold Venture, lucky but proud winner of the Derby; Memory Book, from the Greentree Stable; Granville, from the Belair Stud; Jean Bart, the hope of W. M. Jeffords; Hollyrood, one-time Derby favorite; Bow and Arrow, the E. R. Bradley color bearer, and Grand Slam, the Bomar Stable's disappointment, were all in the overnight entries, just as the expects had predicted.

Daily Double Pays $147 Mutuel

10,000 See Day's Card; Bryson Rides Three Winners.

By Walter Haight,
A Staff Correspondent.

Pimlico Race Track, Baltimore, Md., May 15.—A preakness-eve crowd of 10,000 saw the Bomar Stable's Billy Bee run a race for the public. The son of Jean Valjean which has been turning from flip-flops chose to run today at slightly better than even money and defeated six other fair sprinters in a feature race called the Baltimorean. Billy Bee bounced to the imaginary wire a length in advance of Ral Parr's Star Porter with Sailor Beware, of the Greentree Stable, six lengths in the rear.

It was Billy Bee's show. He was fractious at the post and delayed the start for several minutes while his backers groaned at his carryings-ons. When Starter Milton gave the signal, it was Sailor Beware that came flying out of the gate. Billy Bee was not prominent at this stage or at the far turn. Star Porter was pressing the pace setter.

Swinging for the stretch, Billy Bee came with a bold rush. Star Porter had displaced Sailor Beware. Going into the straight away, Star Porter swung wide, carrying Billy Bee with him. However, Bryson went to the whip on the Bomar gelding and he drew out in the stretch.

The daily double brought a substantial pay-off of $147.80 despite the fact that a favorite was the party of the first part.

The veteran Joe Renick rode Genial Manners out of the maiden ranks in the first race while the filly was in the role of a $5.40 favorite. She was opening daylight on Sugaboot at the end of the juvenile sprint. Tidy Lady was third in the field of 11.

Syriac, the old son of Flying Ebony, triumphed in the day's steeplechase. He was ruled off as a flat racer after he had turned several form flip-flops and had a reputation as a "rogue." The jumping and running game has proved to his liking and showed an excellent effort while under the colors of T. H. Somerville and under the handling of Jockey Eddie Mitchell. Flying Feathers and McKinley B. were second and third in the 2-mile contest.

Mitchell reserved Syriac for a mile and a half, but he moved to the front swiftly from that point and had an eight-length advantage with the finish reached. He paid a $7.60 mutuel.

Riding High surprised in the third race by leading all the way to bring her backers a $22.20 mutuel. With Jimmy Bryson in the saddle, Riding High escaped the rough riders in the rear of the field. Miss Snow finished second in a close ending. Mint Bud was third, according to the camera.

The closest finish of the meeting was recorded in the fourth race, with Fluffy Lee declared the winner over Homework after the camera had been called into play. Both came from far back to get into the battle. The mare, capably ridden by Jockey Bryson, paid a $5.80 mutuel. Third money went to Skimalong, a long shot.

Phils Release Watkins.

Philadelphia, May 15 (AP).—The Phillies today released George Watkins, former New York Giant outfielder, after asking and receiving waivers on him from other teams in the National League.

Watkins came to the Phillies in the deal which sent Infielder Dick Bartell to the Giants. His showing so far this season caused Manager Jimmy Wilson to bench him.

WEATHER, CLEAR. TRACK, FAST.

FIRST RACE—Four and a half furlongs. Purse, $900; claiming. For maiden 2-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:27. Off at 2:31. Winner, E. K. Bryson's ch. f. (2), by Broadway Jones—L. A. Recolte. Trained by H. Baker. Value to winner, $650; second, $150; third, $75; fourth, $25. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:49, 0:55 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—GENIAL MANNERS, $5.40, $4.00, $3.20; SUGABOOT, $6.60, $5.00; TIDY LADY, $5.60.

GENIAL MANNERS, away in the first flight and luckily obtaining racing room between the leaders entering the homestretch, assumed command in the final furlong and, under hard urging, came out steadily. SUGABOOT, sloughed by TIDY LADY and FRISCO KID in the first quarter-mile, recovered gamely and finished courageously on the outside in the stretch run. TIDY LADY was rushed hard to gain the lead, saved ground, but weakened under punishment. FRISCO KID bore over after the start, caused some crowding at the turn, and raced stoutly all the way. HAPPY HOST could not threaten. WHITE SWEETS was outrun. MOONBURN lacked speed to reach a contending position. MULVANEY suffered from crowding directly after the start. FLING stopped badly after showing early foot. LITTLE WHISK raced very green.

SECOND RACE—Two miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:58. Off at 3:00½. Winner, T. H. Somerville's b. g. (a), by Flying Ebony—Lexicon. Trained by M. H. Bearns. Value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 3:46 3-5. (13 jumps.)

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SYRIAC, $7.60, $4.50, $4.50; FLYING FEATHERS, $5.70, $4.80; McKINLEY B., $9.80.

SYRIAC, restrained off the pace for the first turn of the field, moved to the leaders rapidly after clearing the tenth jump, assumed command at the next to last fence and drew out smartly thereafter. FLYING FEATHERS, prominent all during the running, rallied to punishment, but could not threaten the winner in the final drive. McKINLEY B., forwardly placed from the beginning and jumping wisely, held on resolutely in the final test. LITTLE WOMAN was used up chasing OCCOQUAN and she weakened after being displaced at the twelfth fence. OCCOQUAN bore out and swerved into horses on the outside of him at the start. He went boldly for a turn of the field, then tired. JACKIE was held safe. DEPART was never a factor. FIGHTING COCK lost his rider at the twelfth jump.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $900; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:33. Off at 3:37½. Winner, L. G. Blume's br. f. (3), by Sir James—Skytop. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $650; second, $150; third, $75; fourth, $25. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:48, 1:14 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—RIDING HIGH, $22.20, $9.90, $6.80; MISS SNOW, $4.60, $3.40; MINT BUD, $16.60.

RIDING HIGH, hustled to the front shortly after the start, responded readily when placed to a hard drive in the last three-sixteenths and barely lasted to withstand MISS SNOW. Latter followed closest to the winner from the beginning, made repeated efforts, and continued strongly until the close. MINT BUD bettered her position gradually and came courageously in the final issue. FLOSILDA, slower than usual to gain her best stride, circled her field and finished determinedly. TAUNTON followed stoutly from a slow beginning. MORETIDE lacked early speed, but finished fast on the outside. BLACK RIBBON went forwardly and showed a good effort. STROPHE was racing gamely at the end. IDLE WORKER tired, as did TREASURY KEY.

FOURTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $900; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:06. Off at 4:06½. Winner, Mrs. C. W. Williams' b. m. (6), by General Lee—Fluff. Trained by C. W. Williams. Value to winner, $650; second, $150; third, $75; fourth, $25. Time, 0:24 2-5, 0:49 2-5, 1:14 3-5, 1:41 3-5, 1:48 3-5.

JUSTA MOMENT	(Pikor)	112	8	7	8	8	8	8	8	158.85

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FLUFFY LEE, $5.80, $3.80, $3.30; HOME WORK, $6.30, $5.20; SKIMALONG, $15.10.

FLUFFY LEE, carried wide at the first turn, worked her way into contention at the final turn, withstood a hard drive gamely in the last quarter-mile and was up in the stretch. HOME WORK, sent to the inside when straightened on the backstretch, wore SKIMALONG down when reaching the homestretch and fought it out stubbornly until the finish. SKIMALONG sprinted into a long lead early, saved ground, but failed to stay when challenged. INFILEE, slow to begin, closed a good gap. JOBAKHETA failed to rally when shaken up. JAMUL raced in dull fashion. MISS CYLLENE was done after going six furlongs.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $900; allowances. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:37. Off at 4:45. Winner, Bomar Stable's dk. b. or br. g. (4), by Jean Valjean—Under the Rose. Trained by R. E. Potts. Value to winner, $650; second, $150; third, $75; fourth, $25. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:47 2-5, 1:13 3-5.

†P. M. Walker-E. M. Pike entry.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BILLY BEE, $4.40, $2.50, $2.10; STAR PORTER, $2.40, $2.10; SAILOR BEWARE, $2.20.

BILLY BEE, away well and eased off the pace after the first furlong, swung to the outside to reach the pacemakers at the elbow, responded to a strong drive to take command when straightened into the homestretch and held STAR PORTER safe under pressure. STAR PORTER forced a steady pace and continued with excellent courage when the real test came. SAILOR BEWARE displayed good speed while setting the pace, but was unable to stay when caught. HAYTIME II was unable to engage the leaders, but showed a good effort. KENTY and MR. CHIPS were outrun. The latter broke slowly.

SIXTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200; allowances. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:12. Off at 5:14. Winner, Mrs. T. McAsaidy's b. g. (3), by Crack Brigade—Princess Nora. Trained by C. Buxton. Value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:47 3-5, 1:12 4-5.

MY COLIN	(Reid)	111	7	3	4d	4d	8	8	30.10

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BILL FARNESWORTH, $5.40, $3.00, $2.80; LOVELY GIRL, $3.10, $2.70; ANEROID, $3.30.

BILL FARNESWORTH, had nice speed to establish a short early lead, disposed of SOBRIETY and ANEROID in turn, was in close quarters on the turn, but drew out easily and had something in reserve at the end. LOVELY GIRL, slow as usual in the early racing, gradually bettered her position, disposed of ANEROID in the stretch drive, but was no match for the winner. ANEROID, forwardly placed from the outset, made repeated efforts to catch the winner and was weakening from his efforts at the end. SOBRIETY flashed early speed, but could not keep up. GENIE PALATINE could not threaten. MY COLIN stopped. The others were never prominent.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $900; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:41. Off at 5:42½. Winner, R. C. Utz's ch. g. (4), by Archaic—Queen of the Sea. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $650; second, $150; third, $75; fourth, $25. Time, 0:24 2-5, 0:50, 1:15 3-5, 1:42 2-5, 1:56 1-5.

THATCHESTA	(Johnson)	114	1	5	1h	1h	4d	6	6	10.40
COVENTRY QUEEN	(Bronsdon)	109	5	3	Fell					67.45

Two-dollar mutuels paid—EGEON, $8.10, $4.00, $2.70; JIM BROWN, $7.00, $3.10; WISHING STAR, $2.30.

EGEON, away forwardly, raced THATCHESTA into submission after five furlongs, assumed a short lead when leaving the backstretch, gave way to JIM BROWN in the stretch, but was up in the final stretch when JIM BROWN weakened. The latter, a contender from the start, moved up stoutly in the stretch and weakened under punishment. WISHING STAR, forced to take up when the spill occurred, trailed the field until the final turn and closed stoutly. AIRWAY could never threaten. MARY'S MAY stopped. THATCHESTA quit badly after showing speed. COVENTRY QUEEN began stumbling right after the start and finally fell, throwing her rider and bothering WISHING STAR.

EIGHTH RACE—One mile and 70 yards. Purse, $900; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 6:11. Off at 6:12½. Winner, E. Carver's b. g. (6), by Canter—Rose Cloud. Trained by L. M. Carver. Value to winner, $650; second, $150; third, $75; fourth, $25. Time, 0:24 1-5, 0:49 2-5, 1:14 3-5, 1:41 3-5, 1:46 3-5.

BUDDY BOO	(C. Hanford)	115	3	2	5½	4h	8	8	8	8.55

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ROLLICK, $31.30, $12.10, $7.70; OUR SHIP, $9.30, $7.30; PEGGY CAN, $11.20.

ROLLICK, forced wide at the first turn, improved his position rapidly to engage the leaders, assumed command midway of the final turn and drew out steadily thereafter. OUR SHIP, going forwardly from the beginning, held on gamely in the final test. PEGGY CAN raced CORA KAY into submission, responded when put to a hard drive, and continued with good courage to the end. MANUAL was carried very wide at the first turn and lost ground for the balance of the trip. CORA KAY outstayed tiring horses. TELL IT was done after going six furlongs. BY SURPRISE had a rough trip, BUDDY BOO appeared sore on parade.

Hoya Netmen Defeat West Virginia by 9 to 1

The Georgetown tennis team trounced West Virginia, 9 matches to none, yesterday on the Hoya courts, but encountered stout opposition in every encounter. Four matches required extra sets and three other affairs produced deuce.

In what proved to be the best match of the day Guido Conelli defeated Ed Thorn, 6—1 and 10—8. Summaries follow:

Singles—Conili (G.) defeated Thorn, 6—1, 10—8; Richards (G.) defeated Camp, 6—2, 7—5; McBride (G.) defeated Littlepage, 6—4, 7—5; Leslie (G.) defeated Klebe, 6—4, 2—6, 6—1; Eckenrode (G.) defeated Hesse, 6—1, 6—2; Trenis (G.) defeated Tennant, 6—2, 6—1.

Doubles—Conili and Decker (G.) defeated Thorn and Littlepage, 6—2, 3—6, 7—5; Eckenrode and Carlin (G.) defeated Hesse and Tennant, 6—4, 3—6, 6—1; McBride and Leslie (G.) defeated Camp and Klebe, 8—6, 1—6, 6—2.

with Bill Bennings.

Dear Al: Pimlico Race Track, Baltimore, Md., May 15.

I'm going to string along with Clocker Mike, who picked Bow and Arrow to win the Preakness three weeks ago. I'm not trying to press the E. R. Bradley luck in the big race either. Bow and Arrow has been in Maryland since the season began. He has been brought along slowly. True he has done nothing sensational. However, what he has done to date has been without hard urging or heavy pressure. Bow and Arrow stands now as an unextended colt. He appears to be sound and his racing on his own courage has shown me that he will respond when put to the drive necessary to win. Bold Venture deserves a prominent position. He was lucky in the Derby but he also showed a lot of spunk. Jean Bart and Giant Killer, the Jeffords entry, are due respect. Jean Bart has outworked anything on the grounds and Giant Killer is a stretch runner of parts. Granville, which lost his rider in the Derby, is a threat. I'll take the others in this order: Memory Book, Grand Slam, He Did, Hollyrood, Transporter, Teufel, Knight Warrior, Aneroid, Snark. Trainer Joe likes Transporter for some reason.

BILL.

First race—Alanad was a little short in that last outing and probably needed the race to put him in shape. A strong ride may see him home in front. Jakevia's last was brilliant. Apprehend remains a threat despite top weight of 122 pounds.

Second race—Night Court seems to have found a spot where he can show to advantage. That light weight assignment should help. Bally Bay could awaken to be a keen factor. May V is a possible surprise.

Third race—Doctor's Gift ran a winning race last out after swerving when his rider lost a stirrup iron at the break. With better racing luck he will be a keen factor if not the winner. Narise. Corum and Ronfalon figure close.

Fourth race—This is a close fit between Whiscenda, Gold Band and Pass 'em By. I prefer them in the order named, although if I could be assured that Pass 'em By would tend to his knitting instead of running all over the track, I could go for him.

Sixth race—Master Lad turned in a whale of a race last out and appeared to need that effort to put him on edge. He will have to do his best, however. Distracting is improving. Manager Bill for the show.

Seventh race—Taunton would be at home at this route and among these I'm going to string along despite the apprentice rider. Repeal and Three Daggers for the place and show.

Best bet—Doctor's Gift.

One Loses, 1 Tied Despite Efforts

Mount Rainier Star Fans First 20 of 27 in 14 Innings; Loses.

Paul Shu Mows Down 20 in 12-Inning Called Game; Is Tied.

Schoolboy pitchers of Washington and vicinity wrote a quartet of spectacular performances in the books yesterday. Two of them were no-hit, no-run games, and the other two found a pair of young hurlers mowing down 20 and 25 batters apiece by the strike-out route.

Fifteen-year-old Kilmer Bortz, of Woodrow Wilson High, barely missed a perfect game, when he set back Friends School without a hit, to win an 8-0 victory. Only one man reached first, getting on by a walk in the first inning. Ted Kinsman of Western High, pitched the other no-hitter, beating Georgetown Prep, 10 to 0, at Western.

Out at Mount Rainier, Md., Larry Finn, Mount Rainier High's mound ace, fanned 25 Hyattsville High batters in a 14-inning game to win 3 to 2. Of the first 27 possible strike-outs, Finn sent 20 of them back to the bench as strike-out victims. The largest crowd ever to attend a scholastic game in Prince Georges County in the past five years saw Finn win his pitching duel from Hyattsville's John Moran.

Brilliant achievement No. 4 came at Alexandria, where Paul Shu, of George Washington High School fanned 20 Eastern High School men in a 12-inning called game and then got no better than a tie out of it. He allowed but five scattered hits, but poor support cost him a victory. In turning back the Eastern team, he was chalking up his remarkable record against one of the hardest-hitting teams in the Capital area and a club which now holds the inter-high championship.

Marines Down G.W. In Wild Game, 12-10

George Washington's nine suffered a miserable ending to an otherwise successful baseball season yesterday, dropping a 12-10 decision to the Quantico Marines at East Ellipse. Thus the Colonial record reads 11 victories, 4 defeats.

Park View School Wins Track Meet

Amassing 112½ points, Park View experienced little difficulty winning the Columbia Heights Division elementary track and field championship yesterday at Central Stadium. Petworth tallied 85 points to capture runner-up honors while third place was taken by Takoma with 45 points.

Following the leaders in order were Raymond, with 38½; Cooke, with 34½; Barnard, with 13½; Whittier with 11; Powell, with 9; West with 6, and Hubbard, with 1.

Outstanding individual performers for Park View were Sam Wisebeck, Irving Eisen, Francis Brooks, Pete Loomis, Ed Seebold, Charlie Artley, Mitchell Denikas, Jack Ehrlick and Bill Smallwood. Nearly 400 boys competed in the various events.

Roosevelt High committed the fourth upset of the interhigh baseball series yesterday with an 11-to-4 triumph over Tech. It took the Rough Riders three hours and 15 minutes to do it, during which 30 base hits clattered to various sections of Roosevelt Stadium.

During the confusion young Sherrard Robertson, brother-in-law of Joe Cronin and nephew of Uncle Clark Griffith, demonstrated family talent by socking a home run to deep leftfield in the fourth inning. The hectic ball game added a fitting chapter to a hectic series, now getting as complicated as an income tax report.

50,000 Will Watch Preakness Today

fortnight ago, stewards have warned that any foul tactics will bring long suspensions or disqualification and both if the case so warrants.

Starts in the Preakness are made from the straightaway at the top of the stretch, whereas at Churchill Downs the Derby is sent away just around the turn. The usual stall gates will be used.

Memory Book was not only first to be entered this morning, but he was first to be drawn and thereby took the No. 1 post position. His handlers took these "ones" as a good omen. Bold Venture, in No. 4 position, was better off than his outside drawing in the Derby, according to most horsemen. A peculiarity of the post positions was the fact that Jean Bart and Giant Killer, of the Jeffords entry, will start side by side in stalls Nos. 10 and 11, while the Wheatley-Belair entry of Teufel, Granville and Snark drew the outside with Nos. 12, 13 and 14.

Maryland Rally In 11th Beats W. & L., 8-7

Special Dispatch to The Post.

College Park, Md., May 15.—Shoving across the winning run in the eleventh inning, the University of Maryland baseball team conquered Washington and Lee, 8 to 7, here this afternoon to run its consecutive string of victories to eight.

In the eleventh inning, after Stonebraker had flied out, Egan singled and stole second. Guckeyson hit a long fly to center and Egan moved to third after the catch. "Mose" Surgent then lined out a single to center to end the game.

Hoyas Win, 6-2; End Banner Season

Georgetown University climaxed its most successful baseball season since 1930 yesterday at the Hilltop with a crisp 6-to-2 victory over North Carolina. This year the Hoyas won 12 games and lost 4, for a percentage of .750.

It was versatile Mike Petroskey who sewed up the game for the home team in the third inning when he hit a home run over the centerfield embankment, to score Cavadine ahead. Previously in the same inning Bud Nau and Karl Nau had scored on Cavadine's single to center.

Mrs. Miller, Sheppard Win Awards in Contest

Long years of watching fighters in action and complete familiarity with the rules and regulations governing the scoring of bouts in Washington, won The Post's Boxing Contest for Mrs. C. Keene Miller, wife of Maj. Harvey L. Miller, secretary of the District Boxing Commission. Mrs. Miller will receive railroad transportation, hotel bill and a ticket to the Max Schmeling-Joe Lewis bout in New York June 18 as her reward.

Second prize of one ticket to the Louis-Schmeling bout was won by A. G. Sheppard, 4720 Reservoir road.

Both Mrs. Miller and Mr. Sheppard were only one point away from the composite total score, compiled on the ballots of the judges and referee in the Pete Sarron-Freddie Miller featherweight championship bout here. Mrs. Miller voted Sarron a winner by 69 points to 65 while Mr. Sheppard made Pete the winner by 70 points to 66. The actual composite score was 69 to 66 for Sarron.

Mrs. Miller forecast correctly the outcome of more rounds than did the second prize winner. She called the turn on five rounds, while Sheppard was correct on only three rounds.

Business Index Reaches High For This Year

Rise Has Been Maintained for 6 Weeks Without Interruption.

New York, May 15.—For six consecutive weeks, Business Week's index of general activity has been climbing out of the low ground where cold weather and floods had pushed it, and last week reached a new high for 1936. Carloadings are heading steadily for higher levels as more industrial and farm products move to market. Check transactions again surpassed the $10,000,000,000 mark. Construction activity shows no sign of waning, despite the sharp gains over last year recorded in the first months of the year. Steel production holds close to the recent high levels which are the best since the spring of 1930. Retailers look forward to brisk summer trade, since a cool spring has delayed considerable buying.

First quarter earnings compiled by Business Week for 362 industrial concerns indicate a 43 per cent increase over last year, though industrial production ran less than 7 per cent ahead.

The more important gains this year are being recorded in the heavy industries. One index of capital goods production has revealed a steady upward trend since last June, putting current output back to the October, 1930, level. Consumer goods, on the other hand, while back to the 1926 average, have held an even keel since the first of the year.

April construction based on the F. W. Dodge records for the first three weeks reveals no slackening in pace. That the margin over last year may narrow in the last half of 1936 should occasion no serious misgivings, because comparisons will be made with the sharply rising volume of the last three quarters of 1935. The daily average gain of January, 1936, over a year ago was 105 per cent, for February 81 per cent, for March 62 per cent, for April to date, 94 per cent.

Home building which has been the feature of the spring construction market holds 55 per cent ahead of April, 1935. Non-residential building embracing industrial, educational and other public structures has jumped 140 per cent ahead of April, 1935, while public works and utilities average 88 per cent ahead.

Progressive Elects J. Porter Miller

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Progressive Building & Loan Association last evening, J. Porter Miller was elected to membership on the advisory board. Mr. Miller is identified with the Bureau of Internal Revenue, and is one of the youngest shareholders of the association to be elected to the board.

Under the present management the association has increased its assets nearly 300 per cent in the past three years. The officers of the association are Henry M. Eaton, chairman of the board; Henry A. Willard 2d, president; Albert E. Conradis, vice president, and Edward Holmes, secretary.

Food Company Earnings Show 25% Increase

Substantial Expansion Sets In After Lagging Last Year.

New York, May 15.—In contrast to their failure to expand in 1935, earnings of many food-manufacturing companies have recently improved sharply. The average increase over a year ago for companies that have reported to date is around 25 per cent, and trade developments affirm a continuance of the uptrend into the current three months, according to the Standard Statistics Co. today.

To some extent, the increased returns reflect the moderate rise of sales accompanying the advance in business activity and public-buying ability. A more important factor, however, has been a general widening of profit margins. Production costs have been reduced by the elimination of processing taxes and by the lower prices of basic commodities, whereas selling prices have been fairly well maintained. Price reductions have been made in certain lines, such as bread, but have not fully counteracted the operating savings.

Further expansion of per unit profits in the near future will be slight, as general price advances are not expected. However, larger supplies and lower prices of certain raw materials may bring additional reductions in costs later in the year. The principal contributions to further improvement, however, will be moderately more favorable comparisons of unit volumes and the acceleration of dealer buying which is likely to follow elimination of tax uncertainties.

On the whole, food company profits for the current year should be well above 1935 levels. A number of concerns will be able to establish dividends at higher rates.

The Market

By Carlton A. Shively
A Special Correspondent

Stocks Strengthen After Early Hesitation in Less Active Trading; Bonds Firm; Wheat Higher.

New York, May 15.—Early chill in the stock market gave way to a warmer feeling and at the close of trading prices for most stocks were fractionally higher. Bonds held to their firmer tone. Commodities improved. September wheat closed one-half of a cent higher at 85¼ cents a bushel. Turnover in stocks was just under a million shares.

Stocks in the first three hours of trading sagged a little. Opening prices showed losses of fractions to a point on the active issues, but selling pressure failed to develop, and after a period of stagnation a gradual recovery set in. Losses were fairly well regained by the time brokers had disposed of their lunch, but the trading volume did not increase much. It was better than the week's average, but failed to come up to yesterday's total.

Whisky stocks, which for a day or two have been bulled on reports of settlement of smuggling and storage tax cases, lost their way and drifted back. Motor shares opened unchanged to slightly higher, Auburn being an early gainer. General Motors gave up a fraction and lumbered along rather heavily. Oil shares were well liked from the start, which was more than could be said for the aviation issues. Utilities were steady. Sugars weakened. Mail orders suffered from profit taking.

The late afternoon rally lost most of its energy before the close and by the middle of the last hour trading again was stagnant and prices were barely steady. Radio was up on the day. Case climbed on a larger accumulated preferred dividend payment. Wrigley had a bad sinking spell, losing 5 points. Du Pont dipped in spite of expectation of an extra dividend.

Business Reports.

The week closes with a few more scraps of industrial news tending to sustain the impression that, after a decline in first quarter, business has picked up, but that some industries now have passed the peak. Railroad car loadings for last week turned out to be slightly under those for the preceding week, but were well above a year ago. The drop from two weeks ago was contrary to the seasonal trend, but was too small to be of much significance.

Motor car production this week is reported to have declined a little, as it usually does before the summer letdown in sales. However, the industry is bound to get a good deal out of the farm and soldiers bonus payments and the automotive industry may be considered as in an exceptionally strong position. According to the Department of Commerce reports, industrial activity changed little in the two weeks ended with May 9. A favorable point is the finding that residential building in 37 States was 85 per cent higher in the first quarter than for the similar period of last year.

Brokers' Loans.

Brokers' loans dropped $55,000,000 in the week ended Wednesday, which is too much of a decline to be attributed entirely to the dull market. The idea that brokers who "overborrowed" before May 1 in order to escape the changed margin requirements have repaid surplus loans is given little standing among bankers. Rather the explanation given is that dealers in Government bonds who had been carrying the issues on call money found, with the advance in the call rate to 1 per cent on Monday, the profit margin too small to make it worth while. As a consequence considerable liquidation of loans has come from bond dealers who have disposed of their holdings. Some bankers nevertheless report customers have paid off stock loans since the jacking up of the call rate. One bank has had repayment of some of its longest-standing stock collateral loans since the first of the week from customers who had grown tired of holding and found the higher rate the back breaking straw.

Bankruptcy.

"Unhappy Investor" writes to say that, being a holder of a large amount of Seaboard Air Line shares, he cannot understand why the stock is selling at only ⅞ of a dollor a share, even though the road is in receiver's hands. He thinks the matter should be looked into. That is a common enough feeling, unfortunately. Bankruptcy is a term which under the new deal for insolvencies has come in many cases to mean a boon to stockholders; it releases them for a good share of their debt liabilities and gives them a fresh start.

Dividends.

Some important dividend meetings are set for next week. Du Pont will meet Monday, and it is expected that the company will pass on to its stockholders the fat extra of 75 cents a share paid by General Motors. Frequently du Pont adds a little extra on its own account. The American Telephone meeting will be held on Wednesday and the regular payment of $2.25 a share is expected.

Silver.

Silver rose steeply in London on rumors that the United States Government had arranged to buy $75,000,000 (Chinese), or about 50,000,000 ounces of the metal from China. The rise of a half cent an ounce here was merely a sympathetic move with that of China. One thing has been hard to find out, and that is just what agreement the Treasury made with China. Sections of the market have a way of guessing such things—and particularly the London market, where speculative trading is safer than it is here—but the general public usually waits a few months for its information on disbursement of Government funds.

Reserve Requirements.

A good many bank officials who watch the doings of the Federal Reserve Board closely are wondering if the annual report of the board does not suggest an early but slight cancellation of excess reserves through an increase of small proportions in reserve requirements. The board points out that of the big increase in excess reserves in recent years only a small part has been produced by the Reserve banks' purchases of Government securities. The report then mentions again the power given to the board to double reserve requirements. Putting two and two together, those who try to interpret the board's views from its public statements feel that the board is trying to say it favors an increase of, say, $500,000,000 in reserve requirements. However the board may feel, the betting is still against the chance that it will do anything.

Minneapolis & St. Louis.

The Minnesota State Railroad Commission, it is reported, soon will present a plan of reorganization to the Federal court for the Mineapolis & St. Louis. Hearing before the I. C. C. on a proposal to split the railroad into a number of parts for distribution among eight other roads has been postponed. Five of the prospective takers, incidentally also are in the toils. The Minneapolis & St. Louis has the age on receivership. It has been in that condition for thirteen years.

Freight Traffic Continues Gain Over Last Year

Total of 668,935 Cars Is an Increase of 16.3 Per Cent.

Pipe Line Settles $150,000,000 Suit

Chicago, May 15 (U.P.).—Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward late today approved settlement of the $150,000,000 suit brought by the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line Co. against the Columbia Oil & Gas Co. and the Columbia Gas & Electric Co. The suit charged violation of the antitrust laws and conspiracy to restrict competition.

Under the settlement, Missouri-Kansas would release the defendants from all liability in connection with a contract to buy gas from Missouri-Kansas.

Missouri-Kansas would get $350,000 and use this with other assets to pay off its creditors and Missouri-Kansas stockholders would be released of a note for $5,500,000 held by Columbia Gas & Electric.

Simmons Wins Iris Exhibition Silver Medal

Second Award at Show Goes to Mrs. Arthur P. Harrison.

Winn T. Simmons, of 518 Aspen street northwest, won the silver medal given by the American Iris Society for having the most points in the iris classes at the twentieth annual iris show of the Takoma Horticultural Club, which opened yesterday afternoon at the Takoma Grade School, Piney Branch road and Dahlia street northwest. Simmons had 110 points.

The second highest award, a bronze medal, also given by the American Iris Society, went to Mrs. Arthur P. Harrison, of 212 Willow avenue, Takoma Park, Md., who held 87 points to her credit.

Hundreds of flower lovers visited the show, the largest flower exhibit of the year by the club. It will be open again today from 9 a. m. until 9 p. m.

J. Marion Shull, regional director of the American Iris Society; Charles E. F. Gersdorff, chairman of registrations committee of the American Iris Society; Dr. Howard R. Watkins, well-known Iris grower; Mrs. John Ihlder and Mrs. Robert Whitehead, both of the Georgetown Garden Club, were the judges. Miss Margaret Caldwell Lancaster was chairman of the show committee. 'Flying' Robot May Lengthen Weather Data Device May Enable Experts to Stretch Forecasts to Four Days.

The Weather Bureau's flying robot, known as a "radio-meteorograph," may extend weather predictions from the present 1½ days to as much as 4 days in advance, Willis R. Gregg announced yesterday.

Gregg, who is chief of the Weather Bureau, said recent experiments had shown the new apparatus feasible.

The radio-meteorograph is a short-wave transmitter sent into the stratosphere, 16 miles above the earth, in a 6-foot rubber balloon. The transmitter sends out electric impulses which a ground receiving set records on ticker tape. The tape then shows the pressure, humidity and temperature encountered in the flight.

Range Extension Probable.

"It seems reasonable to believe," Gregg said, "that the data from stratosphere soundings will make possible a slight extension of the general weather outlook now issued in weekly reports.

"When radio-meteorograph apparatus is perfected and put into regular use on a well-selected network of at least 40 to 50 stations throughout the country, the information obtained undoubtedly will result in extending the period of forecasts from 1½ days to 2, 3 and possibly 4 days in advance.

Much of the Weather Bureau's information about atmospheric conditions is at present obtained from airplane observations.

Experiments with the flying robot, however, have shown the new instrument to have four distinct advantages over the present method, according to L. T. Samuels, assistant chief of the aerological division in charge of stratosphere soundings.

Go Above Plane Ceiling.

The instrument can be sent aloft in all kinds of weather. Airplanes are grounded during winter and summer storms when data is most seriously needed.

Observations can be made over the ocean at the same time as over the land, in that way giving a wider base for forecasting.

The data from the radio-meteorograph is immediately available, while the graphs made in airplane observations cannot be deciphered until after landing.

At the present time upper air observations are received from 22 airplane stations. During the next fiscal year four more are expected to be set up at Oakland, Calif., Salt Lake City, Utah; Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., and Miami, Fla.

Within the next ten days the Weather Bureau will experiment with a new and larger sounding balloon, now being manufactured. Officials expect it to penetrate the stratosphere to a height of 20 miles or more.

Sunshine Trio To Appear Here

The Sunshine Gospel Trio, consisting of three recent graduates of the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago, and widely known from numerous personal appearances and broadcasts will appear at several churches in Washington this week.

On May 18 they are scheduled for a service at the Maryland Avenue Baptist Church, of which Rev. W. A. Emmons is pastor; on May 19 they will be at the Fifth Baptist Church under the auspices of the Washington Federation Baptist Young People, on Wednesday, May 20, they will appear at the Wallace Memorial United Presbyterian Church, Randolph street and New Hampshire avenue northwest, at 8 p. m., where Dr. C. E. Hawthorne is pastor; and on Thursday, May 21, they will conduct a service at 8 p. m., at the Wisconsin Avenue Baptist Church, of which Rev. C. R. Ferguson is pastor.

The trio is composed of Pauline Mauch, soprano; Otila E. Mauch, second alto, and M. Ione Reed, first alto.

Ex-U. S. Employe Killed by Truck

Police last night were trying to locate the relatives of Mrs. Mary J. Flemming, 57, former Postoffice Department secretary, who was killed by a truck earlier in the day at Mount Rainier.

Although she was said to have a husband and several sisters living, no one had called to claim her body from the District morgue.

A native of Rochester, N. Y., Mrs. Flemming was employed with the Postoffice Department for 16 years. She left there three years ago. For a two-month period, ending May 6, she had been employed as a practical nurse at Cedarcroft Sanitarium, Brentwood. Her effects were in a room she had recently rented at 3616 Thrty-third street, Mount Rainier.

Mrs. Flemming was killed instantly when a large interurban truck struck her as she ran to board a street car at Thirty-fourth street and Rhode Island avenue. Prince Georges County police said Norman Cushing, of Baltimore, the driver, skidded the truck about 20 feet in an attempt to avoid striking her.

Tydings Urges Reducing War Debts to U.S.

Senator Tells Montgomery Group Some Nations Then Could Pay.

A scaling down of war debts owed the United States was urged last night by Senator Millard E. Tydings when he spoke at the annual banquet of the Montgomery County Civic Federation at the Congressional Country Club.

"I hope that the next Administration, whether Republican or Democratic, will attempt to bring order out of international chaos by a policy of international co-operation that will enable the nations of the world to engage in trade without devaluating their currency."

Tydings described the present world financial situation as being more conducive to war than large armies and navies, and cited Italy's attack on Ethiopia as an example of what a nation must do when it is broke and has no natural resources.

By scaling down war debts, this country would be able to get some of its loans back, Tydings said, and in addition would relieve the financial situation in the debtor nations. The fact that this country is owed an amount equal to five times the world's total supply of gold money was given as an apparent reason why debts cannot be paid in full.

District Commissioner George E. Allen spoke briefly and lauded co-operation given by Montgomery County to the District.

Walter Smith, Friend of Dogs, Dies in Hospital

Poundmaster Was District Employe 29 Years; Funeral Monday.

A kindly faced, elderly man, with graying hair and twinkling eyes, died here yesterday and all the dogs whose ribs are spare, whose eyes are stark with hunger, lost the best friend they'll ever have.

He was Walter R. Smith, 67, Washington's poundmaster. For the 16 years he held the post he had befriended the little pups whose coats were raw with mange—the little pups and alley dogs that prowl in the night and wake persons up probing into the garbage cans for food.

All winter Smith's health had been failing. They took him to Georgetown University Hospital two weeks ago. He died there.

Smith had been in the District service since April 10, 1907, when he was appointed a sanitary inspector in the Health Department.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Talitha E. Smith, two sons, W. Marvin Smith, and attorney in the Department of Justice, and Irving R. Smith, employed in the Internal Revenue Bureau, and a daughter, Miss Mildred E. Smith and a granddaughter, Jeanne S. Smith.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 2 p. m. at Chambers funeral home, 1400 Chapin street northwest, with burial in Glenwood Cemetery.

Named to Education Board

Frederick, Md., May 15.—George C. Rhoderick, jr., Middletown publisher, has been appointed to the Frederick County Board of Education, it was announced today.

James Stevens, Chicago Hotel Builder, Dead

Indicted With Two Sons for Embezzling in 1933, He Was Never Tried.

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, May 15.—James W. Stevens, 82, hotel man, insurance executive and merchant, died last night after a protracted illness.

Stevens and his associates built the Hotel LaSalle in 1908 and the Stevens Hotel in 1927. The latter, erected at a cost of approximately $15,000,000 was advertised as the world's largest.

He also formerly served as chairman of the Illinois Life Insurance Co. The three enterprises were placed in receivership in 1932.

Stevens and two sons, Raymond and Ernest J. Stevens, were indicted in 1933 for embezzlement. They were charged with manipulating the assets of the insurance firm in making loans to the hotel companies. Ernest was convicted, but the Illinois Supreme Court reversed the conviction on the ground he had been guilty of nothing but poor business judgment. Raymond died before he could stand trial. The charge against the elder Stevens was never pressed, because of his ill health.

Born in Colchester, Ill., in 1853, Stevens first entered the dry goods trade there. Later he joined his brother, Charles, in a merchandising firm here.

The widow, Alice, and his son, Ernest, survive.

Banquet Arranged.

Creditors Ask Kurtz Be Ruled In Bankruptcy

Court Action Is Sought in Case of Broker Jailed as Embezzler.

Creditors of Carl R. Kurtz, socially prominent stock broker who was sent to jail for a term of from two to seven years, yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to adjudge him a voluntary bankrupt.

Kurtz, a member of a prominent Philadelphia family, pleaded guilty last week to three charges of embezzlement which involved about $24,000, although the grand jury was told his total shortage would approximate $300,000.

Col. C. O. Sherrill, one-time head of public buildings and parks here; Miss Clara Wilson, and Mrs. Mildred P. Garnett were the petitioners seeking Kurtz's bankruptcy.

Col. Sherrill declared he had given Kurtz stocks valued at $3,400 to sell. The colonel asserted the broker never had made an accounting of the transaction and never had paid him his money. Miss Wilson claimed a loss of $1,300 through stocks Kurtz sold and then failed to account for, while Mrs. Garnett said she lost more than $20,000 in stocks and bonds given to Kurtz for a debt which later was liquidated. The petition asking Kurtz's bankruptcy was filed by Attorneys Eugene R. West, Louis Rothschild and Arthur Hellen.

Jennings to Address St. Andrew Brotherhood

Coleman Jennings, Washington social welfare and civic leader, will speak at a community service in St. Alban's Guild Hall tomorrow night. Members of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew will conduct the service, and the Rev. C. T. Warner, rector, will give the benediction. The service is one of a series arranged by the young men's chapter of the St. Andrew Brotherhood.

Col. J. E. Shelley Dead in Colorado

News of the death of Col. James E. Shelley, retired, at Fitzsimmons General Hospital, Denver, Colo., was received at the War Department yesterday.

Appointed captain in the Fifth U. S. Volunteer Infantry in 1898, he was mustered out the following year to re-enter the service as a first lieutenant in the Cavalry. After promotion to the rank of captain he was assigned to the Quartermaster Corps in 1911.

In the summer of 1917 he was promoted to the rank of temporary major and then to temporary lieutenant colonel. Both promotions were made permanent in 1920. He was retired in 1934.
